Strange BUT TRUE

• It was Hungarian psychiatrist Thomas Stephen Szasz who made the following sage observation: "If you talk to God, you are praying. If God talks to you, you have schizophrenia."
• The world's most popular fruit is the banana. In the United States, people consume more bananas than apples and oranges put together.
• Thomas Jefferson was an inventor as well as a statesman, but he refused to take out patents on any of his ideas. He believed that inventions should benefit all of humanity, not just himself.
• According to those who study such things, the average American believes the ideal age -- that is, the best year of his or her life -- is 32. And when 30-somethings are asked when old age begins, the majority of men say it's in the late 60s, while more women believe old age begins in the 70s.
• That iconic symbol of the Old West, the Pony Express, was based on the mail system used throughout the Mongol Empire in the 13th century. However, the Mongol riders often covered 125 miles in a single day, which was faster than the best record held by a Pony Express rider.
• In Nazi Germany, it was illegal to name a horse "Adolph."
•Unless you're from Central Florida, you've probably never heard of the small town of Ocoee. So you might be surprised to learn that during World War II, Ocoee earned the distinction of sending more men, per capita, to serve in the military than any other town in the United States.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 22, 1598, English playwright Ben Jonson is indicted for manslaughter after a duel. He was very nearly hanged, but his ability to read and write saved him. He claimed "benefit of clergy," which allowed him to be sentenced by the lenient ecclesiastical courts. Jonson was as famous in his time as Shakespeare. • On Sept. 21, 1866, H.G. Wells, pioneer of science fiction, is born in Bromley, England. In 1895, he published his classic novel "The Time Machine," about a man who journeys to the future. The book was a success, as was "The War of the Worlds" (1898).
• On Sept. 20, 1881, Chester Arthur becomes third president to serve in one year. The year began with Rutherford B. Hayes in office. Hayes served out his term and turned over the reins to James A. Garfield. Four months later, Garfield was shot by an assassin but did not die until Sept. 19. Vice President Arthur was then sworn in as president.
• On Sept. 24, 1890, faced with the eminent destruction of their church and way of life, Mormon leaders reluctantly issue the "Mormon Manifesto" in which they command all Latter-day Saints to uphold the laws of the nation and abandon polygamy.
• On Sept. 23, 1944, President Franklin D. Roosevelt is forced to defend his dog's honor and his own reputation. Critics had circulated a story claiming that Roosevelt had accidentally left Fala behind while visiting the Aleutian Islands earlier that year. They accused the president of sending a Navy destroyer, at taxpayer expense of up to $20 million, to go back and pick up the dog.
• On Sept. 19, 1957, the United States detonates a 1.7 kiloton nuclear weapon in an underground tunnel in Nevada. The test was part of a series of 29 nuclear weapons and nuclear weapons safety tests known as Operation Plumbbob.
• On Sept. 25, 1981, Sandra Day O'Connor becomes the first female U.S. Supreme Court justice in history when she is sworn in by Chief Justice Warren Burger. After graduating from Stanford law school in the early 1950s, no law firm in California would hire her because she was a woman.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q: I have an unusual teapot, and I would like to find its value. It is flow blue in the Pelew pattern and is marked as British made. What makes it extraordinary is its shape. It is a long decagon shape. -- Beth, Sun City, Ariz.
A: Your teapot was probably made in East Challinor, England, in about 1840, and is quite desirable. I spoke to several collectors who seem to agree that in good to mint condition, it might be worth as much as $1,500. Be aware, however, that today's soft economy has depressed many values in the collectible marketplace, including vintage pieces of flow blue.

Q: While clearing out an old house in St. Charles, Mo., I found a Philco television with radio and phonograph. It is the Model 49-1278. The TV has a 12-inch screen, and a neighbor claims it is worth at least $5,000 because of its rarity. Where can I sell it? -- Steve, St. Louis, Mo.
A: "It ain't necessarily so," as lyricist Ira Gershwin wrote for his 1935 production of "Porgy and Bess." Your neighbor might be an expert when it comes to grilling on his patio, but the "appraisal" he gave you is a bit off the mark.
I found the 1949 Philco listed in the Antique Trader Radio and Television Price Guide, edited by Kyle Husfloen, who values your set at $100. Even considering a slight difference in price due to region and condition, that is still a lot different than $5,000. Your best bet to sell it might be to place a classified ad in The St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

According to published studies, more than 74 percent of all Americans have been impacted at some point in their lives by alcohol and drug abuse, whether it is their own personal addiction or that of a family member or friend. "Very often persons are hesitant to seek help or treatment due to the stigma attached to addictions," the proclamation noted. The theme of Recovery Month this year is "Join the Voices for Recovery: Recovery Benefits Everyone." "Our hope is that by bringing attention to the courageous individuals who battle addictive disorders daily, more persons will seek support through professional treatment and peer support such as Alcoholics Anonymous, Narcotics Anonymous, and other 12-step groups," said Bob Stephens, director of the behavioral and family health at the Garrett County Health Department. Persons seeking help with substance abuse are encouraged to call the Garrett County Health Department's Substance Abuse Unit at 301-334-7670 or 301-895-3111 to receive assistance with locating resources. Pictured with the commissioners are members of the addictions staff from the GC Center for Behavioral Health and members of the GC Drug and Alcohol Abuse Council. In the front are Commissioners Gregan Crawford, Bob Gatto, and Jim Raley. In the back are Les McDaniels, Jansen Judy, Melissa King, Kathy Beals, Linda Bolding Colaw, Debbe Owston, State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch and Stephens.

OZONE HOLE

by Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. I read somewhere that the ozone hole over Antarctica is coming back again. I thought that problem got cured 20 years ago, when Freon was banned. What happened?

A. Actually, the ozone hole over Antarctica is a repeating phenomenon that happens in the Antarctic springtime (September and October) each year. This year it will be about the same as last year or next year or any other year. A combination of circumstances occur that affect chemistry in the atmosphere. The story involves the chemical processes known as adsorption and catalysis.

Adsorption (not to be confused with *ab*sorption) refers to molecules landing on a surface and sticking there. Catalysis means that a certain molecule (the catalyst) participates in a chemical reaction, but does not get consumed; it goes around and comes back again, still present at the end. A catalytic surface is one where adsorption takes place and chemical reactions occur that would not go forward otherwise.

All year-round, an active volcano in Antarctica (Mt. Erebus) leaks various gases into the atmosphere, including CO_2, SO_2, Cl_2, Br_2, HCl, and many more. Nobody is in danger from its eruptions, even though they are frequent. Some gas drifts up into the stratosphere (15 to 30 km above the earth's surface). That's component one.

Meanwhile, there is ozone (O_3) in the stratosphere everywhere on earth. Ultraviolet (UV) sunlight splits some O_2 molecules into free oxygen atoms, and many of those loose O atoms quickly combine with another O_2 to form O_3. That high-altitude ozone has the beneficial effect of absorbing UV rays, thus shielding us on the surface from harmful radiation. Without ozone up there, we'd be getting a constant sunburn. Ozone is component two.

During the Antarctic winter (June and July), an atmospheric condition known as the polar vortex forms high-altitude clouds, which are composed of tiny ice crystals. The surface of those ice crystals provide a place where gas molecules can land and hold still for a moment (adsorption). The surface is component three.

Finally, to get a chemical reaction to go forward, there must be a source of energy The UV rays in sunlight are component four. Without all four, nothing happens.

Springtime in Antarctica begins in September, when sunlight arrives after months of darkness. Then the action begins. On the surface of the ice crystals sit adsorbed gases such as O_3 and Cl_2 and HCl close together. With the arrival of UV light, Cl_2 or HCl can split off a bare chlorine atom (Cl), and O_2 can split as well. Among the components adsorbed on the surface, immediately two consecutive chemical reactions occur:

$$Cl + O_3 \text{ yields } ClO + O_2$$

The net result of these two reactions is that O_3 has been converted to O_2, while the very reactive chlorine atom is left behind, ready to take on another ozone molecule. We call the chlorine atom a catalyst because it is unchanged after the reaction is completed. Bromine (Br_2) does the same thing as chlorine (Cl_2), but there is much less of it.

The process leads to ozone depletion, and nearly half the ozone over Antarctica goes away in a few weeks' time. That's called an "ozone hole." As springtime proceeds, warmth from the sun melts the ice crystals of the high-altitude clouds. With no more surface, there is no more adsorption, and hence extremely low probability of chemicals reacting. The reaction stops. When summer arrives (December) the ozone concentration is higher once again, and remains so until the entire cycle repeats the following year.

The man-made chemicals chlorofluorocarbons ($CFCl_3$, CCl_2F_2, $CHClF_2$, etc.) are known by the brand name Freon. Hair-spray cans, old refrigerators, and leaky air conditioners were allowing some Freon into the atmosphere. These are stable chemicals, but when they drift into the stratosphere they can contribute to the formation of free chlorine atoms in the same was as natural Cl_2, and thus enhance the ozone hole effect. In 1987 an international treaty called the Montreal Protocol banned most uses of Freon, and manufacturers had to invent some new refrigerant chemicals. Most auto air conditioners now contain HFC-134a (CH_2FCF_3), a variety of chlorofluorocarbon with a diminished effect upon ozone. The ozone hole is once again due to just natural causes.

NASA monitors the ozone hole via satellites, and maintains a web site (ozonewatch.gsfc.nasa.gov) containing detailed information on the ozone hole, including a picture of what it looks like every day This year it will likely peak about the beginning of October.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Friendsville Zoning Appeals Board will conduct a public hearing on September 19, 2011, at 7:00 p.m. in the Friendsville Town Hall. This is the second meeting of the Board regarding a request made by Jonathan D. Bell for a Variance from the terms of the zoning ordinance with regard to lot density, lot width, and side setback. The Bell property (tax map 300, parcel 1143) is located at 643, 645, 647, and 649 Water Street in a TR - Town Residential zoning district. Specifically, Mr. Bell would like to subdivide the lot, which consists of a single family residence and a 3-unit multi-family dwelling; thereby creating two lots, each housing one of the structures. Each of the proposed lots has a proposed lot size, lot width, and side setback smaller than that allowed in the ordinance. All testimony has been heard in this case. The Board will be meeting simply to deliver its verdict. All interested persons are invited to attend this meeting.

REALTOR®

Calling All Buyers; It's a Buyer's Market

Are you ready to stop paying rent? Do you want to invest in your future? Then this is the time to consider buying a home. With mortgage interest rates at all-time lows, and plenty of homes on the market, buyers are positioned to get the deal of a lifetime on their chance at the American dream.

Here are a few ways to prepare when considering the purchase of a home:

Work with a realtor – Buying real estate can be a complex matter. A realtor can provide local market values on homes or neighborhoods you want to consider. They also have access to numerous resources to assist in your search for a home.

Get pre-approval for a loan – Before you set out with your realtor, talk to your local bank or loan officer. The institution will review your financial situation, including a credit report. Based on its findings, the lender will suggest a loan amount and various loan programs that will fit your needs.

Start your search – Determine your needs first, especially bedrooms and bathrooms. Then consider location: Does it provide favorable commute time? Also, amenities, schools, and medical care may be important deciding factors. Ask your realtor to provide you a list of available properties that fit your criteria. With the Internet, you can preview homes in detail, before you ever step a foot inside. Once you've selected several homes, your realtor can arrange personal on-location showings. Don't be discouraged if you don't find the right house the first time out, as the real estate market is very dynamic; there are new listings every week.

Find the home, make an offer – Once you've found the home you want, your realtor will assist in making a written offer to the seller. Ask your realtor to provide comparable properties to ensure you are making a fair and informed offer. Along with the offer, provide a deposit or earnest money showing good faith and intention to purchase the home.

Anticipation – Your realtor will inform you when the seller is ready to respond or counter your written offer. Once buyer and seller agree on price and terms, the offer becomes a contract.

Financing – Once you've established a written contract, get moving on the financing. Contact your loan officer and make the official application for the loan. The loan process can take several weeks. Many lenders require appraisals, termite inspections, and home inspections.

Home inspection – Every buyer is encouraged to do a home inspection, which provides a report on the structural and mechanical functions of the home. It's important to be sure your new investment is a sound one. All inspections are paid for by the buyer.

At the settlement table – Here is where all the hard work and due diligence pay off. Closings are normally held at an attorney's office or a title company. The buyer signs off on the final mortgage documents and appropriate closing documents and in return receives the key to his/her new home!

If you are interested in buying a home, choose a realtor and get started!

Be Aware of Key Benefits of Life Insurance

You may be unaware of it, but September is Life Insurance Awareness Month. And while a whole month may seem like a long time to focus on life insurance, it's actually a good opportunity for you to realize the important role that life insurance can play in your life.

Unfortunately, many people don't have sufficient insurance. A recent report by LIMRA, a research and consulting group, shows the following:

• Individual life insurance ownership among U.S. households has reached a 50-year low.

• Three out of every 10 households (about 35 million households) currently have no life insurance — an increase of 11 million households since 2004.

These figures help explain why the nonprofit LIFE Foundation coordinates Life Insurance Awareness Month each September. Simply put, many people don't realize how many ways that life insurance can help them and their families.

To be specific, life insurance can:

• Educate your children — If you were to die prematurely, your life insurance policy can pay, in whole or in part, your children's college education. And if you live a normal life span, life insurance can help to pay for your grandchildren's college education.

Pay off your mortgage — If you have sufficient life insurance, the death benefit can pay off your mortgage, so your family wouldn't have to move.

• Help pay for your spouse's retirement — Your spouse might be counting on sharing some of the money you eventually withdraw from your retirement plans — such as your 401(k) and IRA — to help with his or her own retirement. If you were to die early, your spouse, as beneficiary, would receive the existing account balances in these plans, but your future contributions would, of course, die with you.

• Help pay for your retirement — You don't even have to die to reap some benefits from your life insurance. If you've purchased some form of permanent insurance, such as whole life or universal life, you have the opportunity to build a cash balance. And through policy loans or withdrawals, you can tap into this cash to help you pay some of your expenses during retirement.

• Help you leave the legacy you desire — Life insurance can be an important part of your estate plans. To use life insurance properly for estate planning, consult with your legal advisor.

Of course, one big question that you may ask is this: How much life insurance do I need? You've probably seen those estimates that say your insurance should be worth a certain number of years times your annual income. Actually, there is no hard-and-fast rule for every single individual. The amount of insurance you need will depend on a variety of factors: your age, income, size of family, value of home, employment situation and so on. Your financial advisor can help you determine the level of insurance that's appropriate for your needs.

Now that you've seen how life insurance may help you over the years, and you've got a sense of how to determine the amount of coverage you need, you can appreciate the message behind Life Insurance Awareness Month — so take it to heart and make sure you've got the proper insurance plan in place.

RAIL FEST OPEN HOUSE SCHEDULED – The 1884 Oakland B&O Railroad Station Mussum Committee will hold its Rail Fest open house this weekend. During the event, the Oakland train station will be filled with model railroad club displays and model railroad vendors. From Baltimore, Bantrak will set up its display in the baggage room of the station, while model railroad clubs from Washington, D.C., and Clarksburg, W.Va., will have displays in the waiting rooms. Original 1930s and 1950s tin-plate layouts will be located in the ticket office. Model railroad vendors Mount Storm Hobby and Valley Railroad Model Trains will have items available for purchase. Bruce Elliott will also be selling B&O train pictures and videos. Station hours will be 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Sunday. BPW Approves Beitzel Farm For Royal Legacy Prog.

Gov. Martin O'Malley announced yesterday Board of Public Works (BPW) approval to preserve 87 acres in the Bear Creek Rural Legacy Area in Garrett County.

Preservation of the Beitzel property will permanently protect 87 acres of valuable agricultural and forest lands. All forest management on the property will be in accordance with a Forest Stewardship Plan, the primary objective of which is timber production in support of Maryland's timber industry.

"The farm owned by Del. Wendell Beitzel and his wife Ruth will be a valuable addition to Garrett County's Bear Creek Rural Legacy plan due to its proximity to Deep Creek Lake's growth area; the size of the property, its proximity to other protected lands, its water quality protection values, and the protection offered to the existing natural habitat," said Chad Fike, agriculture preservation administrator for Garrett County. "This easement protects Bear Creek and its tributaries, which are natural trout streams regularly stocked by the Maryland Department of

Service Learning Day Postponed

Because of inclement weather forecasted for this Friday, the Garrett College Community Service Learning Day has been rescheduled for October 21, according to Theresa MacLennan, executive director of Garrett Trails, which is partnering with Garrett College on this project.

Deer Park VFW Selected As All-American Post

The Deer Park Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 10077 announced that the organization has been selected as an All-American Post by the national VFW headquarters. Only 1 or 2% of the posts in the United States receive this award each year.

According to a spokesperson, there are strict guidelines and regulations that must be met before a post receives this designation. These include increasing post membership, conducting certain fundraising activities, meeting all the requirements to be an all-state post, and a number of others.

Immediate past Commander Paul Everly of Post 10077 traveled to the national convention in San Antonio, Texas, in August to receive a plaque for the post. He also received the coveted "Red Hat" which goes to the commander of the post.

Commander Everly accepted a plaque and a $1,000 scholarship for Post 10077, winning the Fred C. Hall Special Outstanding Project contest in June. This was a separate award from the All-American designation, although winning the Hall con-

Swallow Falls Road Bridge Slated For Temporary Closure

The Swallow Falls Road Bridge will be temporarily closed beginning on Monday, Sept. 26, at 9 a.m. The structure is located five miles from Oakland on Swallow Falls Road over the Youghiogeny River.

Recent bridge inspections had limited traffic to a single lane, and further assessment shows that a replacement is required for two-lane traffic, according to county administrator Monty Pagenhardt.

The closure is attributed to continued deterioration that has weakened the structure. A temporary bridge will be installed by the Garrett County Roads Department, which will allow the legal loads of 80,000 pounds/40 tons combination vehicle.

The planned closure will be necessary to complete the installation of abutments and placement of the temporary bridge structure, Pagenhardt noted.

"The Board of Garrett County Commissioners would like to thank the general public for their continued patience and understanding during this time of construction," he said.

Public inquiries can be directed to Dwight Emory, Engineering Department director, at 301-334-7481 or Pagenhardt at 301-334-8970.

GC Commissioners Review Wide Variety Of Issues During Public Mtg. On Tuesday

The Garrett County commissioners reviewed a wide variety of issues during their public meeting Tuesday afternoon with personnel from the Department of Financial Services, Partnership for Children and Families, Department of Planning and Economic Development, Department of Economic Development, and Purchasing Department.

Topics discussed included a budget audit, an allocation for after-school programs, proposed wind turbine projects, economic development priorities, and bid awards.

Financial Services

Director Wendy Yoder and Assistant Director Scott Weeks, Garrett County Department of Financial Services, reported that an audit of the fiscal year 2011 budget is under way and will take several weeks to be completed.

The total fund balance for 2011 is projected at $23,486,060. That includes an unassigned (reserve) fund balance of $2,489,048.

Carryovers from FY 2011 to FY 2012 amount to about $10,580,000. This includes $145,479 for the Water and Sewer Master Plan, $58,000 for economic development projects and equipment, and $47,751 for after-school programs.

The previous board of commissioners had allocated $110,000 last August to the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families to help the agency maintain after-school programs in Oakland, Accident, and Grantsville. In previous years, the Partnership received about $260,000 from the state's 21st Century fund, but that grant was not awarded in 2010. As a result, the agency had to reduce the number of after-school sites from six to three and rely on county funding to maintain them.

Partnership for Children and Families

Officials with the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families and its Local Management Board met with the commissioners on Tuesday to ask for county funding again to maintain after-school programs. Crystal Stewart said her agency would not receive 21st Century funding again this year. She noted that a two-year effort to find other sources has not been successful.

The agency did receive a $49,000 grant from the Governor's Office for Children. Stewart noted that this and the $47,751 in carryover funds from FY '11 would be helpful, but $76,000 would still be needed to keep the three after-school sites open and running for the school year. She asked that the commissioners to allocate $76,000 to met that goal.

Several parents and after-school officials stressed the importance of the program, especially to at-risk children. After-school provides homework assistance, tutoring, enrichment activities, and meals/snacks. About 140 students were enrolled at the Accident, Grantsville, and Oakland sites last school year, according to Stewart.

After reviewing the issue and learning from Financial Services that the county had a projected unassigned fund balance of $2,489,048, the commissioners unanimously approved allocating $76,000 for after-school programs.

Commission chair Gregan Crawford noted the importance of the programs and that the allocation amounted to about only 3 percent of the unassigned fund balance.

The commissioners also unanimously approved the designation of the Garrett County Health Department as the partnership's Local Management Board (LMB). Health officer Rodney Glotfelty indicated that "massive" funding cuts over the years

Two Story Oakland House Damaged By Fire Sunday

A two-story, wood-framed single-family house south of Oakland sustained moderate damage as a result of a fire Sunday afternoon.

Some 20 volunteers from the Oakland and Deer Park fire departments were summoned to the residence of Charles Harsh, 1487 Silver Knob Road, at 2:57 p.m. after Harsh discovered fire in his basement ceiling.

According to a report filed by Maryland Deputy State Fire Marshal Jamie Rodeheaver, the fire was out upon the arrival of the first fire units; however, he estimated the damages to be $10,000 to the structure and $5,000 to contents of the house.

The report said that the cause of the blaze remains under investigation.

Also summoned to the scene was the Southern Rescue Squad. There were no injuries reported.

"COMPLAINING" WASN'T ALLOWED during this past weekend's SavageMan Triathlon Festival, as is obvious by the signage in this photograph. Hundreds of athletes from across the planet, as well as many local competitors, took part in the three-pronged, two-day event. All proceeds from the festival went to the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation, which is dedicated to research and melanoma education. The results and multiple photographs are currently posted on the organization's web site, which is located at www.savagemantri.org. The results tab was not operating properly this morning, so the achievements of the local athletes and other information will be published next week. By all accounts, the event was a resounding success, and raised more than $275,000 for the foundation. More information will be published in next week's issue.

THE GRAND OPENING of the Garrett County Historical Society's new transportation museum, located along Liberty Street in Oakland, is scheduled for this Saturday, Sept. 24, at 2 p.m. The building, which consists of the storefront facades of three former Oakland businesses, as well as that of the fire hall, was built primarily with funding from the Howard and Audrey Naylor Family Trust. All are invited to the ribbon-cutting and grand opening.

Marching Bands Of NHS, SHS Now Competing

The marching bands of Northern and Southern Garrett high schools are now engaged in the competitive marching season, having participated in two contests so far.

Both bands debuted their shows at Elkins, W.Va., on Sept. 10 at the annual preview show clinic. At this event, bands perform their shows for the first time of the season and receive direct feedback from clinic judges.

The two local bands are both in Group 1, which is based on size. Joining them in Group 1 at Elkins was Fort Frye High School.

Northern Garrett took top honors with a score of 69.6, with Fort Frye second, scoring 68.8, and Southern in third with 68.65. Northern won the specialty award for Best Field Commander, and Southern garnered the Best Auxiliary trophy.

"I am extremely proud of the work ethic in this year's Northern Band," said director Duane Salisbury. "It is one of the hardest working and most dedicated groups that I have had the privilege to instruct."

Southern is directed by Joshua Elmlinger, who also composed the music for the band's show.

"We have a very challenging show this year," Elmlinger said. "The kids are working very hard and I am exceedingly proud of how well they are performing it."

The next outing was to Martinsburg, W.Va., for that high school's Marching Spectacular. There the two local bands were joined in Group 1 by Catoctin High School.

Northern again took first place, this time with a score of 72.3. Again Northern's drum major (Shannon Miller) won the award for Best Field Commander, and Northern also won for Best Music.

Catcotin came in second with a score of 71.15, and Southern was third with 70.70.

Northern's show is a tribute to rock and roll. The musicians perform five popular songs: "You Shook Me All Night Long," "Frankenstein," "Carry On Wayward Son," "Back in Black," and "I Love Rock 'n Roll."

NHS, SHS BANDS BEGIN COMPETITIONS – Both of the county's high school marching bands are now involved in the fall competitive season, having already taken part in two contests, one at Elkins, W.Va., and the second at Martinsburg, W.Va. See story. Pictured above is Northern Garrett, with drum major Shannon Miller in the center, and assistant drum major Elizabeth Green at left. Miller garnered the Best Field Commander trophy at both shows. Shown below is Southern Garrett as they perform Invasion! The color guard, or auxiliary, took top honors at the Elkins show. The captain of the guard this year is Michelle Welch. Photos by John McEwen. To see multiple photos of both bands, persons may go to the newspaper's web site, www.therepublicannews.com, and click on the blue button on the home page.

"Our students have been doing everything we have asked them to do, and the results speak for themselves," Salisbury said. He is assisted by Zach George, assistant director; Caroline Stahl, brass and marching instructor; Hannah Walters, marching and choreography; and guard instructors Susan Bennett and Trisha Knox.

Southern's show is titled Invasion! and features four pieces of music: "Paranoia"; "The Ballad: Abduction"; "Force Field"; and "The Machine."

Elmlinger is assisted by Amy Friend, assistant director; Brent Furr, percussion; Twila Huerta and Jennifer Bishoff, guard; David Wall, brass; and Christie Elmlinger, artistic consultant. The set design and construction for the show was accomplished by Bob Fike and Randy Sisler.

Both bands are assisted by Richard Clever, former longtime band director at Southern. He assists with woodwinds as well as overall marching and music technique with both groups.

This Saturday, both Northern and Southern will be competing at Keyser (W.Va.) High School. The show begins at 5:30 p.m. Northern is to take the field at 5:45 and Southern at 6:13.

and Grantsville Community Outreach Center at 28 Hershberger Lane in Grantsville on Nov. 18 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Recommendations from Center for Disease Control (CDC) are to vaccinate as soon as vaccine is available and to vaccinate all persons 6 months of age and older The composition of this year's seasonal vaccine is the same as last year's.

All children 6 months to 8 years who receive seasonal influenza vaccine for the first time should receive two doses approximately one month apart. Additionally, children aged 6 months to 8 years of age who did not receive at least one dose of seasonal vaccine last season should receive two doses of 2011-12 seasonal vaccine.

The following persons at higher risk of complications from influenza or likely to need medical care should receive vaccine for their protection: anyone with long term health care problems (such as heart or lung disease, asthma, kidney disease, metabolic disorders including diabetes, anemia and other blood disorders, certain neuro-muscular disorders that can cause breathing problems, persons with weakened immune systems as a result of HIV/AIDS, long-term treatment with drugs such as steroids or cancer treatment or radiation), and persons who have direct contact with at-risk individuals such as health care providers, nursing home staff and residents, household members of those in the high-risk groups, household contacts and caregivers of children younger than 6 months of age, and women who will be pregnant during the influenza season.

In addition to the injectable influenza vaccine, the Garrett County Health Department has a supply of FluMist®, the live, attenuated (weakened) nasal spray influenza vaccine. It is recommended for healthy persons from age 2 through 49 years of age who are not pregnant.

A new high-dose influenza vaccine will be available this year for persons aged 65 and older. According to the manufacturer this new high dose vaccine offers higher antibody protection against influenza in this age group; however it has not yet been tested clinically for effectiveness in reducing influenza illness. This vaccine may have a slightly higher occurrence of local reactions such as pain and low grade fever. Persons can check to see if this new high-dose vaccine is available at their doctors' offices.

The charge for either influenza vaccination is $25, although no person will be denied vaccine for inability to pay. Pneumococcal vaccination will be available for $50. For persons with Medicare Part B, the Garrett County Health Department will bill Medicare for the service. Medicare is the only insurance approved as a payor The Garrett County Health Department will not be responsible for billing private insurance or Medical Assistance, and payment will be due at the time of service. Vaccine(s) will be available for free for children and if the children are Vaccines for Children (VFC) eligible (age 6 months through 18 years).

Persons who have questions about either vaccine should contact their physicians or the local health department at 301-334-7777 or 301-895-3111. More information about the flu vaccine clinics can be found by visiting www.garretthealth.org/clinicians/seasonal.htm or by calling the Flu Information Hotline at 301-334-7697 or 301-895-3113.

Joins Garrett Co. Memorial Hospital Foundation Board

Offutt Johnson recently joined the board of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital Foundation. He will serve as a member of the Gala Steering Committee, which helps plan and organize the annual event scheduled for November

"As a result of my cousin Dan Offutt's support of the GCMH Foundation, I am increasingly aware of the outstanding support that the foundation provides to advance and expand the hospital's facilities, equipment, and health services that are so vital to our growing community and region," remarked Johnson. "I welcome the opportunity to be a part of that effort."

Originally from the Oakland area, Johnson spent much of his 35-year career in Annapolis with the Department of Natural Resources. With a lifelong dream to work as a park naturalist, he continues to be interested and involved with forests and parks. He continues to work on writing and interpreting the history of Maryland's state parks, and he is a founding member of a new effort to create a charitable foundation to raise funds for the preservation of Maryland Conservation History, which will cover the rich history of all the conservation agencies within the Maryland DNR.

He and his wife Joan reside in Oakland, but spend a portion of each year in Texas with family.

Natural Resources, and forestland, which is important interior-dwelling bird and black bear habitat."

This easement, which will be held by Garrett County, will provide a permanent forest buffer on 2,990 feet of Bear Creek and its tributaries and extinguish 28 development rights.

Beitzel filed a Form B disclosure and Form D disclaimer with the Maryland General Assembly Joint Committee on Legislative Ethics relating to this acquisition. In a letter from that committee, dated July 20, Beitzel was informed that his disclosure and disclaimer fully satisfy the requirements set out by the Joint Committee on Legislative Ethics for a legislator who is participating in the Rural Legacy Program.

The Bear Creek Rural Legacy Area totals 31,437 acres, of which 5,774 (18.36 percent) are protected.

Maryland's Rural Legacy Program provides funding to preserve large tracts of forestry and agricultural land and natural resources, and for environmental protection while sustaining land for natural resource-based industries. Enacted by the General Assembly in 1997, Maryland's Rural Legacy Program has to date provided over $267 million to protect 72,468 acres of valuable farmland, forests, and natural areas.

The 11-member Rural Legacy Advisory Committee and the Rural Legacy Board, which is comprised of Maryland's Agriculture, Natural Resources and Planning secretaries, reviews grant applications annually. Additional information is available at dnr.maryland.gov/land/rurallegacy/.

The three member Board of Public Works is composed of O'Malley (chair), Treasurer Nancy Kopp and Comptroller Peter Franchot. The BPW is authorized by the General Assembly to approve major construction and consultation contracts, equipment purchases, property transactions and other procurement transactions.

SPECIAL MEETING HELD – Community Trust Foundation board of trustee members recently held a special meeting at the new Garrett County Museum of Transportation to promote contributions totaling $1,200,000 provided to the project by the Naylor Family Trust Fund. After nearly 16 months of construction, the Garrett County Historical Society is ready to welcome the public to its new 10,000 square foot facility on Liberty Street in Oakland. Troy Gnegy & Son Construction Company was a major partner in executing the architectural vision into a reality and performed some tasks at cost, contributed to numerous restoration efforts, and donated many artifacts for inclusion. "We started with a vacant lot. The building funds were received through the Naylor Family Trust Fund by the Cumberland-based Community Trust Foundation and sidewalk and landscaping installation were made possible by funding received through the Maryland Main Street Program," said Bob Boal, president of the Garrett County Historical Society. The original lot and adjacent parking area were arranged with First United Bank & Trust and the Garrett County Community Action agency as part of a 99-year lease. "I'd be remiss if I didn't mention the Allegany Museum board of directors. They were incredibly supportive in providing expertise and insight through the course of the project from start to finish," Boal added. The hours of operation will be Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. through Jan. 1, 2012, excluding holidays. Hours will then be Thursday through Saturday from January through April. The Board is considering Sunday afternoon hours during the summer months. For more information, persons may visit www.garrettcountymuseums.com, e-mail gchsmuseum@verizon.net, or call 301-334-3226. From left, beginning with the front row, are Dr. Gary Horowitz, Dr. Julie Ferris, Marlee Gabriele, treasurer Kathy Getty, vice president Marion Leonard, Brenda Smith, and Jo Wilson. Back row: Dr. Wayne Spiggle, Boal, Terry Stephens, Jack Barr, Pamela Ronan, and president Shane Grady. The Community Trust Foundation, serving Allegany, Garrett, and Mineral counties, is an organization committed to building vibrant, strong communities by working in partnership with donors and community groups providing leadership to address community issues. A range of fund options are available to meet the unique needs of donors. An Unreasonable Request...

It's no secret that rural towns throughout much of the country are in dire straits financially, and several of Garrett County's municipalities are barely hanging on, as less and less money is coming in from state and federal sources. So it is imperative for those towns to hold tightly to what they have in terms of economic base.

The major "industry" in the town of Friendsville, one of those aforementioned fragile municipalities, is whitewater rafting on the upper Youghiogheny, which brings in hundreds of customers from far and wide every year. They spend money not only to raft the rapids, but also for room and board. A number of them have ended up purchasing property in or near the town, which benefits the entire county.

However, if the Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board (PRB), and to a certain extent the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, have their way, the town of Friendsville stands to lose all of that business.

The concern of the board and chamber is the effect that the water releases into the Yough to make rafting possible have on the level of water in the lake. Home owners at the lake, particularly those who are located in the many coves where the water is most shallow, are most negatively affected when the lake levels drop. Besides releases for rafting, there are other releases that are done in order to maintain a temperature in the river that will support the trout population.

So a letter dated Sept. 1 was sent by the PRB to the Maryland secretaries of the Department of Natural Resources and of the Environment demanding that "something more needs to be done" about maintaining the lake level. It suggests not only that releases for rafting need to be pared back considerably, but also that the "rationale of annually stocking trout below the dam should be re-examined." In other words, if the trout weren't stocked, the temperature enhancement releases could be eliminated. Obviously, that would virtually wipe out the sport of trout fishing in the Yough and, of course, the thousands of trout that are in the river now would simply die. (What a foul smell that would be.)

The economic impact of Deep Creek Lake on our county cannot be over-estimated; it's enormous. However, it seems to be terribly wrong for the PRB, the chamber of commerce, and the state to basically say "to hell with Friendsville; not our problem," and "sorry, trout fishermen, you'll have to go elsewhere."

Looking at the science of all of this makes the PRB's request even more unreasonable. First of all, while there are those who claim that Deep Creek Lake coves are rapidly filling up with sediment, the fact is that sediment levels in the lake, with the exception of a few coves, have been growing at a rate of about one inch per decade. Secondly, if all releases for whitewater rafting were ceased, calculations indicate that the level of the lake, just by evaporation and natural outflow, would be maintained for only about five more days. In other words, if the lake level is X feet on Sept. 1 of an average rainfall summer with releases for rafting, it would be at the same level X feet on Sept. 6 without the releases. So are five extra days of "inconvenience" for cove residents – many of whom are not full-time residents of Garrett County – really worth the sacrifice of the town of Friendsville and trout fishing in the Yough River?

It is recognized that the well-being of Deep Creek Lake is the primary responsibility of the PRB, and because of its economic impact, it must also be a priority for the chamber of commerce. It seems though that the members of each need to take a closer look at the scientific information and the numbers. The economic destruction of one of our towns, and the loss of whitewater rafting and trout fishing in the Youghiogheny River – both of which draw thousands of people to the county – simply cannot be part of the solution to this problem.

To the Editor:

Americans want to create real American jobs. Little did the American taxpayer realize how $535 million in taxpayer funds would be invested in Solyndra, and in doing so President Obama added new meaning to "shovel-ready."

The Bush Administration declined to award a U.S. Energy Department loan to Solyndia, a California-based solar-panel maker. Weeks after President Obama's 2009 inauguration, the department reversed itself and suddenly approved a $535 million loan guarantee. These were in the heady days of getting America back to work through the 2009 federal stimulus plan. "Companies like Solyndra are leading the way toward a brighter and more prosperous future," said President Obama. Solyndra filed for bankruptcy protection in August.

Solyndra hired 1,100 temporary workers at $486,363 per job. Layoffs started in November 2010. Solyndra reportedly threw away over $100,000 of defective solar panels per week. Solyndra installed over 1,000 solar panel installations at U.S. taxpayers' subsidy of $535,000 per installation.

Officials at the U.S. Energy Department would not comment to a congressional committee on who oversaw the public's money, even though it had a director on Solyndra's board of directors.

The "Chicago way" is taking on whole new meaning. George Kaiser, an oilman, bundled together campaign contributions from multiple sources to fund Obama's 2008 presidential campaign. It has been learned that in 2009 the Kaiser Family Foundation gave a $10,000 donation to Urban Health Institute, a sponsored organization of the University of Chicago Medical Center where Michelle Obama was an executive, as were additional White House staffers.

The White House received 20 official guests from Solyndra between March 2009 and April 2011. In February 2011, the federal loan guarantee was renegotiated. It was claimed that Solyndra's investors would lend the company $75 million, but be first-in-line on loan repayment in the event of bankruptcy, in front of taxpayers." Kaiser and other investors breathed a sigh of relief. Coincidence? You be the judge.

Jay Carney, White House spokesperson, said recently, "There are no guarantees in the business world about success and failure. This is just the way business works, and everyone recognizes that." Really?

Obama's definition of shovel-ready must be that the American taxpayer can dig trillions of public debt for our children and grandchildren and for us to pay. At a recent press conference, the president laughed, "I guess that the shovel-ready projects were not so shovel-ready." And Americans continue to want to create American jobs – real jobs.

Sincerely,
Gary Ruddell

To the Editor:

Thank you, everyone!

Thank you to The Republican for the great pre-SavageMan articles by Mary McEwen and editorial by editor Don Sincell. Relatively few people understand what a triathlon actually is, since it's not as universally followed as football and baseball. You've really brought people closer to the details, as well as the excitement and endurance factors.

Thanks again to Mary, and to Denise Safko, for the wonderful story on Joanna M. Nicolay and her legacy continued by her family. This year's SavageMan participants and their contributors raised over $275,000 for the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma foundation.

Thanks to race directors Greg and Denise Safko and Kyle Yost for developing and organizing this spectacular, world-class event. Thank you to all the wonderful volunteers who keep the course running, to the staff of Deep Creek Lake State Park, and the Maryland State Police for the incredible support. And some unsung heroes – workers in the Garrett County Roads Department – for all the resurfacing of damaged areas for the safety of the bikers.

Thank you to Joe and Andrea Howe of Howe's New Germany store for their helpfulness in stocking supplies and providing services that athletes have needed while training on the course.

And thank you to all the participants – 1,100 athletes, from Garrett County, across the nation, and around the world, plus their families and support people! I've heard so many say, "This place is gorgeous... we're going to be spending more time here."

To the Editor:

I thoroughly enjoyed the article "Local Editor Reflects on Days Spent Helping Construct Garrett Community College" (September 8, page B-1), and it brought back my own pleasant memories as a youth in the 1960s, helping construct one of the first Dunkin Donuts, the Chevy Chase Library, Tenley Office Building, Aspen Hill Library, Bionetics Research Laboratory, and other buildings around the Washington area, as well as helping renovate the National Weather Bureau, Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Fort Meade, and other construction projects around Maryland.

There is one significant problem with the article I would like to correct, however, or at least supplement the record. Reporter Peggy Santamaria mentions "then-Governor Marvin Mandel (later convicted on bribery charges)," but fails to note this was a corrupt prosecution and later thrown out on the very basis that Governor Mandel initially argued at his original trial, i.e., that using the mails to purportedly defraud citizens and public officials of intangible, non-monetary rights was not conduct ever made criminal by federal statute.

The United States Supreme Court, after Mandel's conviction, agreed with his original trial court arguments and held that the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO), 18 U.S.C.S. 1961, had been improperly used by an overzealous prosecution.

As a result, in United States vs. Marvin Mandel, et. al., 672 F. Supp. 864, Criminal No. S 75-0822, decided November 12, 1987, United States District Court Judge Smalkin granted Mandel's Petition for Writ of Error Coram Nobis, and vacated the convictions and sentences for mail fraud and racketeering because of the retroactive application of the Supreme Court decision that defined the scope of the mail fraud statute.

Governor Mandel's "conviction" for supposed mail fraud and RICO violations was thrown out because the requisite pattern of racketeering activity was lacking. Accordingly, all of defendants' convictions and sentences were vacated, and The Republican has a duty to note that Mandel's wrongful conviction was overturned.

Governor Mandel is still a practicing lawyer, and in my personal experience, both he and Governor Harry Hughes were the best governors Maryland has ever had during my lifetime. They were unafraid of tackling tough political issues, and the resulting controversies surrounding Mandel were nothing more than political red herrings to block his efforts to create new dynamics in state government bureaucracy.

I write to add to the record for those readers too young to understand the political facts of life of the 1970s.

Yours,
Douglas Arey

Review Issues

have adversely affected the administrative functions of the LMB. He noted that moving those functions to the Health Department would be a cost-saving measure, as office space and other administrative issues would be covered.

Department of Planning and Land Development

Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development officials presented an update report on local wind energy projects. Jim Torrington, permits and inspections chief, reported that his office approved two permit applications submitted by Synergies to erect meteorological towers at two sites: one off Frostburg Road (Fourmile Ridge) and one off Pine Swamp Road (below Elbow on Rhodes Hill). The towers are typically 198 feet in height and are used to measure wind speeds and characteristics to assess a site for potential wind projects.

EDP Renewable has also submitted an application to erect a meteorological tower off Pigs Ear Road (Winding Ridge). Additional construction plans and fees are still needed before a permit can be issued, Torrington noted.

He also reported that his office is currently in discussion with Clipper Wind to erect a meteorological tower south of Criterion's 28-turbine project on Backbone Mountain. Running from Allegheny Heights to near Rt. 50, this proposed project would be known as Fair Wind and consist of 12 wind turbines.

Economic Development

Assistant Director Frank Shap, Garrett County Department of Economic Development, reported that Gov. Martin O'Malley recently sent a letter to the state's economic development directors, notifying them of new a process called FastTrack. It was established to move projects through the permitting process faster, thus making it easier to do business in Maryland.

The governor asked the directors to submit their top three priorities to his office for review and possible FastTrack inclusion.

Shap noted that Garrett County currently does not have any initiatives that needed FastTrack, but his department planned to send the governor its list of top three priorities and a brief description of them to make him aware of the issues.

The commissioners unanimously approved the list, which will now be forwarded to the governor. The priorities and Economic Development's descriptions are as follows:

"1. Development of the Marcellus Shale – Development of the Marcellus shale natural gas deposit in Garrett County has potential for tremendous economic impact. Estimates predict billions of dollars in tax revenue royalties, lease payments, jobs, and indirect economic benefits. Development of this resource has potential for economic impact that far exceeds that of any other single project or business sector. The county believes this resource can be developed in an environmentally safe and prudent manner that allows the county to realize the tremendous potential economic benefits, while protecting the environment and preserving the county's quality of life.

2. Broadband – Improved and affordable broadband access is critical to the county's future. Given that the jobs of the future are going to be predominately knowledge based, ubiquitous and affordable broadband access is a must. The county will be the beneficiary of approximately 50 miles of fiber backbone via a federally awarded grant to improve broadband access in Maryland's rural counties. The county recently awarded a contract for the preliminary engineering/design to build on the federally funded backbone. Upon completion of this work, the county plans to follow up with a multi-year capital plan to expand broadband access. The county's goal is to achieve 90 percent access by 2014.

3. Deep Creek 2014 – Garrett County will host the International Canoe Federation's 2014 Canoe World slalom Championships at the Adventure Sports Center whitewater facility Sept. 17–21, 2014. This competition will bring hundreds of paddlers and visitors from all over the world to Garrett County. The last time this competition was hosted in the United States was 989 on the Savage River in Garrett County. There will be a number of ramp-up events, beginning in 2012, leading up to the World Championships."

Purchasing Department

Purchasing agent Brian Bowers, Garrett County Purchasing Department, presented three bids to the commissioners for their review.

The commissioners unanimously approved Charles J. Merlo Inc.'s bid of $2,419,745 for the Garrett County Landfill Lateral Expansion project. The Mineral Point, Pa., company's contract duration is 365 calendar days from the Notice to Proceed. Phase 1 cell construction must be completed by June 30, 2012, Bowers noted.

The commissioners also unanimously approved Western Maryland Sign Service's bid of $16,536.82 to construct a sign at the Northern Garrett Industrial Park. The faux stone sign will list the businesses located in the park.

The Frostburg company has 60 calendar days from the Notice of Award to complete the sign.

Bowers noted that Economic Development has carryover money for FY 2011 to cover the cost of this project.

The commissioners also unanimously approved Amdex Computer Inc.'s bid of $23,569.75 to supply the county's Information Technology (IT) Department with Coraid Ethernet SAN equipment.

The Rochester, N.Y., company has 14 days to days to deliver the equipment after receipt of the order.

Bowers said the FY 2011 IT Department's capital budget includes a $20,000 appropriation to cover the cost of this equipment. The remaining balance for this purchase will be amended from the FY 2011 IT Department's small equipment budget.

ALWAYS READY to donate their time and energy, Master Gardeners share their knowledge and use their skills to educate and encourage local people to grow flowers and vegetables in their own gardens. Several gardeners are pictured above sharing their expertise at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Those wanting to preview Master Gardener classes are invited to a workshop at Garrett College on Tuesday, Sept. 27, from 6 to 9 p.m. in room TC-311. See story for details.

Workshop Slated On Composting, Wintering Gardens

A gardening class that will include an informational preview of spring Master Gardener classes has been scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 27, at Garrett College from 6 to 9 p.m. in room TC-311.

The title of the session is "Composting and Putting Your Garden to Bed for the Winter." Several local gardeners and farmers will offer tips and strategies for keeping gardens healthy during the long winter on the mountaintop.

The spring classes are designed to educate and encourage local people to grow flowers and vegetables in their own gardens. They develop expertise in pruning, composting, soil science, pesticide use, lawn care, and many other specialty topics through a series of educational classes offered through the University of Maryland Extension. This series of classes will be previewed at this Sept. 27 get-together.

The workshop is sponsored by the Garrett County Master Gardeners and there is no cost to attend. The Maryland Master Gardener Program is an exclusive program of University of Maryland Extension (UME).

The principal goal is to train qualified residents to become certified Master Gardeners and serve as volunteer horticulture educators. The program's mission is to educate Maryland residents about safe, effective, and sustainable horticultural practices that build healthy gardens, landscapes, and communities.

Local classes are planned to begin in the spring of 2012. Anyone interested in learning more about the program should call the University of Maryland Extension Garrett County office at 301-334-6960, and/or attend the Sept. 27 workshop.

Maryland Feels Sting Of Nat'l Poverty Spike

by Jeffrey Benzing
Capital News Service

Experts say national poverty numbers released Tuesday morning are already out of date and could be getting worse, even as Maryland hit a poverty rate of 10.8 percent, the highest in nearly two decades, according to a report by the U.S. Census Bureau.

"It is so disheartening because it feels to us like this roiling up of what is the perfect storm," said Deborah Flateman, chief executive officer of Maryland Food Bank. "It's bringing people to our agencies in droves."

Maryland's statistics are well below the national rate of 15.1 percent – yet the state's poverty rate has increased 12.5 percent from 2009 to 2010, the period measured by the annual census report.

And as Flateman has seen droves of the hungry and poor, so has the federal government, which is spending more than $1 billion to feed Marylanders this year through the Food Supplement Program, up from $350 million in 2007, according to the state's Department of Human Resources.

Maryland was named the wealthiest state by the Census Bureau in December, but pockets of suburban wealth conceal rural and urban poverty across the state, said Al Passarella, research and policy associate at Advocates for Children and Youth.

"Quality of Service Is What Sets Us Apart From the Rest!"

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

I saw a few ads run by a large, well-known chain trumpeting their deep concern about development of work forces. But we can also find a national lawsuit that charged that same chain was guilty of regular discrimination of its female workers. But since the number of claimants was so high, it would be difficult to try.

Often, firms hiring more male workers than female say, "Well, they have families to support." But there are many single mothers who are also trying to support their families.

Clearly, the private sector has failed many millions of Americans by sending jobs overseas. And most Internet retail companies are based in foreign nations. Many "customer service" departments of big businesses and call centers for many national firms are the same way. If you make a phone call, it gets answered by a resident of India or Pakistan.

Many state and local governments think the only answer for their declining tax base is to fire teachers and all kinds of public servants, even those whose jobs are needed by the local economy.

High school teachers are facing huge classes, with so many students that they can't have time to evaluate each student's work.

My experience is not in high school, but I used to try to help ill-prepared writers. But the only way to teach someone to write well is to require students to write lots. It is far beyond simple mechanical skills such as grammar. More important is the ability to organize and provide adequate support details and evidence to support the point they are attempting to make. And often, that required face-to-face discussion with each student.

Some students also had the kind of personal problems that they were almost unable to overcome – those that used to be taken care of by government agencies, but their budgets have been sharply cut. A victim of family abuse and neglect is not in the position to be a high performer in any setting, either in education or a job. And it should be taken care of by their communities, including churches, neighbors, or the wider family. But that does not happen.

The whole world listened to the soft, whispering voice of our former first lady Jackie Kennedy in the long interview she did in 1964 about the reality of living in the White House with her husband John F. Kennedy. Although they seemed to be the most privileged couple in the whole world, it wasn't as simple as that. She was going to bed every night with the leader of the Free World.

She remembered how it was in the days following the failed Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba after it was clear that the Soviet Union had sent many nuclear weapons to Castro, posing an immediate and huge threat to America. She begged her husband to not send her and their children to Camp David. She wanted to stay by his side, even if it meant she would die beside him if the worst happened. But fortunately, that is not how it played out, because her husband looked straight into the eyes of those threatening America and did not blink.

I will always treasure when she said in that soft, whispering voice to me, "Thank you." I had only given her a leg up on her horse at the Hunt Club in New Jersey. I did not say what I thought – "It is my honor to serve you in any way."

Sept. 12 would have been the 58th anniversary of the Kennedys' wedding. It was just a few months before I was born in Nov. 1953. I am pretty sure it was my 7th birthday in 1960 when the election ushered in the era of "Camelot," a word coined by Jackie referring to their too-short three years of inhabiting the White House.

Can any American forget the sight of her with her head draped in a black veil beside her murdered husband's casket during the Nov. 1963 state funeral? All Americans watched it with tear-filled eyes. And that was the end of America's innocence, or belief that America was indestructible.

Jackie clung to the arm of her brother-in-law Robert, whose life was snuffed out only five years later, another victim of gun violence. Not even the Secret Service can prevent murder by gun. So how silly is the belief of some Second Amendment advocates that if all Americans would be "armed and dangerous," they could stop a violent attack without endangering any innocent bystanders?

In Obama's message, he reminded everyone to call their Congress people and tell them to pass the jobs bill now. I called Roscoe Bartlett, but I doubt if anything heard from the people of his district will cause anything to happen.

By the way, the phone number for the Congress switchboard is 202-244-3121. I was surprised that I had to go into my address book to find it, because since I call it so often, I thought I had it memorized. But I doubt many people ever bother to try to find it, so I wanted to put it here. Everyone should call and tell them to pass this bill now.

I can't say I am very pleased to hear the flock of black birds that regularly appears in my long line of pine trees, both in the spring and fall migrating season. It is just one more sign that winter is approaching, unlike when they arrived in mid-March and were a sign of the approach of spring. Boy, it's way different than the earliest days of spring. Last Friday was about as dreary a day as you can easily imagine. Besides a day-long rainfall, it was pretty cold – at least shockingly cool after several recent days that were quite warm.

But like Pastor Randy Richardson said when he and Cindy stopped by on their way to Bible study at Cherry Hill Assisted Living, and like usual brought me a vanilla milkshake from Brenneman's Store, "I guess this is a sign of future things, and no one asked me whether I wanted it."

I can't help but remember a few years ago when early mid-October suddenly turned really ugly with a huge ice storm while there were still lots of leaves on the trees. That caused huge damages to many trees, and those falling branches took down many power lines so we were without electricity for about two weeks. It was quite a rude shock in October.

But it is even more of a rude shock that it is now in the 30s in Bittinger. It's in the high 30s, but still close enough to become frost. And it's cool inside my house, so I can't help but run my furnace a little bit. I really can't see how I can buy enough fuel oil to keep me somewhat warm when real winter strikes with all its venom.

I can't believe I failed last evening to look for a Pirates game. Instead, I tortured myself by trying to watch and listen to the Tea Party. It was very unpleasant. However, the Pirates racked up a win against the St. Louis Cardinals.

There was no doubt that last Saturday was a perfect day for college football, at least here on the mountaintop, and it was probably similar in Morgantown. And it looked perfect on television in College Park. Caitlin and Mere got a ride down the road with Zack Beitzel, who is a Maryland student. But I talked to Caitlin about an hour before the game, and she was at a tailgate party with some of her cousins.

West Virginia is very passionate about football. But like most ACC schools, Maryland is more passionate about basketball. But West Virgnia has also had some good basketball teams recently.

It is interesting how Bittinger's adults are divided between the two teams. Bill and Sheila Southerly are solid West Virginia fans, and the Bass family is divided. Kevin is an alumni of WVU, and of course, Carol, like all of my siblings, was a Maryland student. And Gary Buckel always prefers Maryland teams.

Altar flowers at Emmanuel on Sunday were given by Bill and Jenny Hady in celebration of the wedding of their son Andrew to Ashley Franklin. The wedding was performed by Pastor Randy Richardson at Emmanuel on Sept. 17.

The annual Bittinger Parish retreat is scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 25, at Uno's. The retreat will begin at 1 p.m. and will conclude at 6 p.m. with dinner. All members of the parish are invited.

St. John's Women of the ELCA will be collecting donations of personal care items for the Dove Center during September. In October, they will be collecting donations of non-perishable items for the Bittinger Food Pantry.

Cindy Richardson and Marvin Beckman currently serve as volunteer members of the board of directors of Community Lutheran Partners. They attended a board retreat recently at Huttonsville, W.Va.

The three churches of the Bittinger Parish observed "Community Lutheran Partners" Sunday last Sunday during the worship service with special prayers and recognition for the work being done in the synod by this organization.

WAITING FOR NEW HOMES THIS WEEK at the Garrett County Animal Shelter are two pug mixes (above) that were dropped off at the facility after business hours, a male chow mix (below left) that was picked up as a stray at Garrett College, and a young female black Lab (below right) that was also found wandering around. The large female bloodhound that was picked up near Potomac Camp and the Rottweiler mix given up by his owner are still available at the shelter, along with several other dogs and cats. "One dog was reclaimed and a few were taken to rescues by HART, along with a lot of kittens, but kittens continue to be brought in almost every day," said a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. "If you are feeding a feral cat but you haven't had it spayed or neutered, you are adding to the overpopulation problem. Capture all feral cats, and either have them altered or take them to the shelter. The shelter is still in need of newspapers. You can drop them off Monday-Friday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the county-operated facility is open Monday through Friday. Photos courtesy of HART, a nonprofit volunteer organization.

Sanders Honored By Md. Ag. Dept.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) honored 41 employees this week, including one from Garrett County, for their years of service to the department.

Shaun Sanders of the Office of Resource Conservation in Oakland was honored for 35 years of service.

"MDA and the agriculture community are fortunate to have such a dedicated and knowledgeable corps of employees working to strengthen the state of Maryland and this agency each and every day," said Maryland Agriculture Secretary Buddy Hance. "For more than 35 years, MDA has been protecting consumers and the environment and ensuring fairness in the marketplace. It is a true testament to the value of our work that many of the employees honored this year have been with department since its earliest years."

AMONG THE ITEMS AT THE HARVEST SALE, which is slated for Friday, Sept. 23, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, will be "birdhouse gourds," as shown above. The Swan Meadow School students, who with their parents are hosting the 62nd Harvest Sale, grew the gourds in the spring of 2010. The gourds wintered in the schoolyard on a trellis built by the students. The students then painted them and made them each unique, and they will be for sale in the auction at the sale. To reach the Pleasant Valley Community Center, persons should go south from Oakland on Route 219, and turn left onto Paul Friend Road, then right onto Joni Miller Road. The community center is on the right. The evening of activities will begin at 5:30 p.m.

Fundraiser Set To Support Md. Ag Education

A fundraising event to support Western Maryland agricultural education and the Maryland Agriculture Education Foundation Inc. (MAEF) will be held on Tuesday, Sept. 27, in Williamsport.

Several persons from Garrett County will attend, and the planning committee includes Senator George Edwards, Delegate Wendell Beitzel, Cheryl DeBerry of Garrett County Economic Development, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce members, and persons from the local farming community.

"We're raising money to increase the amount of agriculture in all grade levels in Western Maryland, specifically the four western-most counties," DeBerry said. "We have very active FFA chapters in Garrett County that are also helping with this event by joining with the other FFA chapters in the four counties to donate and volunteer at the event."

The evening will feature a "Wild in Western Maryland Dinner," offering local beef, pork, lamb, goat, sweet corn, new red potatoes, and baked apple dumplings. There will be a live and silent auction, and the blue grass band Fertile Soil will provide music.

The ticket price is $40 per person to attend. For more information, persons may contact MAEF at 410-939-9035 or visit www.maefonoline.com.

The Garrett County Farm Bureau is a gold sponsor for the event, Keystone Lime is a silver sponsor, and there are five local bronze sponsors: Red Rock Enterprises LLC, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, Gap Run Farm, Cove Run Farms, and Clear Mountain Bank.

Local businesses that donated items for auctions are Adventure Sports Center International, FireFly Farms, DeBerry Farm Fresh Produce, Pleasant Valley Dream Rides, Steyer Brothers Maple Syrup, and Oakland Southern States Cooperative.

Hummel Releases Country Bluegrass Album "Sweet Spirit Comfort Me"

Award-winning, recording artist Loretta Hummel has released her new studio album "Sweet Spirit Comfort Me." The album represents a sought after vocal harmony of old country gospel and bluegrass music.

"We've all heard of people who wear their heart on their sleeve. Well, Loretta puts her heart in her voice," stated Paul Mullan, station operations manager of WMSG Radio, 1050 AM. "Her lyrics are some of the most penetrating I've heard, and her songs mean so many different things to so many different people. She's a joy to be around and a joy to listen to."

Hummel wrote all the new and original songs for her eighth album, "Sweet Spirit Comfort Me," which was recorded at River Track Studio located near the Country Music Highway in Kentucky. Studio engineers Otis Lynn Dillon and Robert Maynard not only recorded and mixed the album but also provided some instrumentation.

"I am very pleased with Otis's banjo and mandolin playing," said Hummel, "and I'm happy to have bluegrass musician Ron Stewart of Indiana playing the fiddle on this album."

Cuts from the album's 11 tracks include, "Garrett County Memories," in which words of imagery evoke reminiscence of the local landscape and pleasant memories. "I Know Jesus Is My Savior," is one of her several songs that share the word of the gospel. This new album reveals some of Hummel's talents, including light yodeling. A Christmas song, and even a soldier's song are included. A tribute to our men in service, "God Bless the Soldiers," has the voice of a soldier's personal plea for God's blessing.

The album CD is available at Mountain City Traditional Arts, Frostburg, and at the Kids Corner near Grantsville. Hummel can be contacted at 301-689-8160. Her music can also be downloaded from iTunes.

She has been getting radio play on several stations including WFWM 91.9 in Frostburg, WMSG 1050 AM in Oakland, WVSB 104.1 FM in Romney, W.Va., and WQZS 93.3 FM in Meyersdale.

During the 2011 CGMA (Country Gospel Music Association) Eastern Division Convention, held this past August in Hanson, Ky., Hummel received a Silver Heart Award for the performance of her original piece, "The Artist," which is on this newest album. As an award recipient, she is automatically entered in the international awards process that will happen at the International CGMA Convention to be held in Branson, Mo., Oct. 17–22.

"The Country Gospel Music Association was established to assist musical artists in gaining recognition from the general public and their ministry-oriented peers," commented Billy Hale, president of the CGMA. "For this cause, we formed the Silver and Golden Heart Awards so that they could endorse and recommend one another. In the short time Loretta Hummel has been with us, her peers have presented her with two Silver Heart awards. Loretta has a beautiful voice, lovely nature, and appropriate approach to Christian ministry. As an organization, we support her wholeheartedly, and recommend her as a music minister."

The BookWorm

I'M NOT THE BIGGEST BITCH IN THIS RELATIONSHIP
edited by Wade Rouse
C. 2011, New American Library, $14; 259 Pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

You simply could not resist. You always thought that getting a dog was something that required forethought. It was something you planned. Getting a dog was getting a best friend, a work-out companion, a burglar alarm, or a child substitute, but a dog was not an impulse item.

And then you saw that fur-baby And you simply couldn't resist.

Now that little Sophie or Brutus has settled in, though, the question remains: Who now runs the house? As you'll see in the new book I'm Not the Biggest Bitch in This Relationship, a book of short stories edited by Wade Rouse, you're not the only one who answers with "The dog does."

Without a doubt, your pooch is a member of your family. She sleeps with you. You share your food with him. You might even dress your dog in better duds than you have in your own closet. The relationship you have with Puppykins might be stronger than most of the ones you have with humans. Surely you can't be the only demented dog-lover in the world... can you?

Not by a long shot.

Let's say you couldn't ignore the dog that seemed to need you more than anything in the world – but the second you got her home, she turned into a tornado with fangs. If that describes your household, then flip to "Squatting with Stella by Starlight" by Allie Larkin. Think a minute, and you might realize that you need the pup more than vice versa.

Like many puppy parents, you might share a bed with the furkid. But whose bed is it, really? In "Menage a Dog" by Alice Bradley, you'll see that battling Buster for bed real-estate is a common occurrence in lots of households.

Can't tolerate a beggar? Might as well give up after reading "A Dog Day of Summer" by W. Bruce Cameron because – seriously – how long can you say no to those big, sad, hungry eyes? And how can you resist using babytalk? You can't, so go ahead, read "Dum-Diddle-Dum-Dum" by Wade Rouse and "There's No Place Like Home, Judy" by Alec Mapa, and know you're in good company.

Finally, if you ever truly wonder whether that pooping, shedding pile of fur really loves you, then stop and read "Wuzsha, Wuzsha, Wuzsha" by Eddie Sarfaty. And pass the tissues, please.

Are you daft over doggies? Crazy about canines? Moonstruck over mutts? Then you're going to sit up and beg for this book.

Author and editor Wade Rouse pulled together more than 20 authors (counting Chelsea Handler's dog, Chunk, who wrote the foreword) and comedians to create a treasury that's definitely funny, but that also has its serious side. I howled, I whined, I yipped, and I was glad I fetched this book.

If you're a dog lover (and you must be, if you've read this far), you won't be able to resist reading what's in here. I'm Not the Biggest Bitch in This Relationship is a book to fall head over tail in love with

Trumpet, Piano Recital Set; Will Feature Beachy

The Frostburg State University Department of Music Faculty Artist Series will present trumpeter Dereck Scott and Grantsville pianist Dr. Sean Beachy in a presentation of American music for trumpet and piano this Saturday, Sept. 24, at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Pealer Recital Hall. The recital is free and open to the public.

Performed at the recital will be "Intrada" by Joseph Turrin, "Sonata for Trumpet and Piano" by James Stephenson III, "The Hollow Men" by Vincent Persichetti, "Sonata Through Salt-Rimmed Glasses" by Edward Kight, and "From the Shores of the Mighty Pacific" by Herbert L. Clarke.

Scott, who is skilled as a trumpet player, conductor, and composer, grew up in Canonsburg, Pa. He earned his bachelor's degree from Duquesne University and his master's degree in trumpet performance and instrumental conducting at West Virginia University, where he is completing his doctor of musical arts degree.

While at Duquesne, Scott was a two-time semi-finalist for the Collegiate Division of the National Trumpet Competition, an exclusive solo competition held annually in Fairfax, Va. In addition to holding leadership positions in the various ensembles at Duquesne, Scott was also an active performer in the Pittsburgh area. Most notably, he performed with the Pittsburgh Play House in their production of Grand Hotel, which was awarded a two-performance run at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington, D.C.

Pianist Beachy attended Alderson-Broaddus College in Philippi, W.Va., where he earned a bachelor's degree in applied piano. He then earned a master of music degree in composition from Shenandoah University, and recently graduated from West Virginia University with a doctorate in composition.

Beachy has had pieces premiered and performed throughout the United States. In 2007 his commissioned work "Suite for Tuba" was premiered by Logan Lindsey at the Hawkeye Regional Tuba Euphonium Conference at the University of Iowa. That same year, he won the first Anthem Competition sponsored by First Baptist Church of Worcester, Mass.

"Then I Saw a New Heaven ..." for soprano, alto, tenor, bass choir, and organ was premiered by the FBC Worcester Chancel Choir during the annual Music and Arts Weekend in April 2007. In 2009, his piece for soprano and electronics titled "Stretch of Time" was chosen to be performed at the SEAMUS Annual Conference at Sweetwater Sound, Inc., Fort Wayne, Ind.

A freelance composer and accompanist, Beachy is the church organist at Frostburg United Methodist Church and the accompanist for various local high school choral programs, as well as a faculty member at FSU and WVU.

Huskies Take Four Straight Wins, Outscore Their Opponents 14-2

Two wins on the road were followed by two more at home for the Northern High School girls' soccer team this week. The Huskies allowed only two goals in four games, outscoring their opponents by a margin of 14-2.

Earlier in the week, Northern recorded wins at Frankfort (3-0) last Thursday and then at Hampshire (2-1) on Saturday. The Huskies then made use of their home-field advantage on Monday, trouncing Bishop Walsh, 7-0, before adding yet another win, 2-1, on Wednesday while hosting Mountain Ridge.

On the road at Frankfort, Callie Vernon, Madi Gallagher, and Ashley Murphy all scored unassisted goals in the Huskies' victory.

Vernon's goal set the tempo early in the match, coming just 30 seconds into the first half of play. Gallagher then made it 2-0, kicking one in with 23:80 left before the break. Goal number three, courtesy of Murphy, was recorded eight minutes into the second half.

Northern led in shots by a margin of 7 to 2, and also in corner kicks, 5-1. Alex Diehl made one save in goal for the Huskies. Brooke Snyder had three for the Falcons.

The Northern jayvee squad also defeated Frankfort, winning its match, 3-0. Shannon Warnick had a goal and an assist, while Kaneena Felicia and Brianna Snyder had the other goals for the Huskies.

Hampshire proved to be more of a road test for Northern than Frankfort. Near the end of a closely played match, Husky Sydney McFarland converted a penalty kick into a tie-breaking, second-half goal to beat the Trojans. McFarland was also responsible for the Huskies' first goal, an unassisted kick in the third minute of the second half.

Northern had entered the second half down 1-0, as Hampshire's Brittany Maphis had scored at the 13-minute mark in the first period.

McFarland's tie-breaker set up the Husky win 29 minutes into the second half.

Northern held an edge in shots (15-8) and corner kicks (6-2), and received six saves from goalie Diehl. Hampshire's Shelby Kaiser gave her team seven saves.

Hosting Bishop Walsh on Monday, Vernon opened the scoring for the Huskies a little over a minute into play with an assist by Murphy. Vernon would add an unassisted goal later in the first half. Gallagher scored a first- and second-half goal off assists by McFarland and Vernon, respectively. McFarland opened the second-half scoring with an assist from Amanda Paape. Jocelyn Williams then scored unassisted and Kirsten Rayner kicked the game's final goal.

Northern goal keepers combined for a total of four saves. Bishop Walsh's goalie tallied 13 saves in the loss. The Trojans had four corner kicks to the Huskies' six.

Against Mountain Ridge on Wednesday, Gallagher played a big role in Northern's 3-1 win, kicking in a goal and assisting on the go-ahead score in the second half. The Huskies' win was also the Miners' first loss of the season.

After a first-half defensive battle the two teams found themselves locked in a 0-0 tie. Northern would make the first strike, however, as Gallagher's goal came at the 35:28 mark in the second half.

Mountain Ridge then tied it on an unassisted goal by Annabelle Hegeman less than seven minutes later.

With 12 minutes to play, Gallagher assisted Paape's goal to give the Huskies the lead and notch the score at 2-1. Rayner would then score an unassisted goal with three minutes to go.

Mountain Ridge held the edge in shots, 11-8, while Northern had two more corner kicks, 4-2.

The Miners' Chelsea Muir made three saves while Northern's Diehl and Kloey Werner, each playing a half, stopped two apiece.

Warnick scored both of Northern's two goals in its junior varsity victory.

Northern's recent wins notch its record at 6-1 (5-0 in conference), which is good enough for second place in the current AMAC standings. The Huskies will next visit Southern on Tuesday. That intra-county rivalry match is set to begin at 7 p.m. The jayvees will begin at 5:30 p.m.

Southern Beats Bishop Walsh, Then Hampshire

The Rams bested Bishop Walsh, 2-0, on the road, to begin the week in Southern High School girls' soccer action before edging Hampshire, 2-1, at home on Tuesday.

In its win at Bishop Walsh, Southern kicked a goal in each half, while Annie Martin collected her second shutout of the season.

Alli Shaffer booted an unassisted goal with 36:55 left in the first half to make it 1-0, and Sophie Schwab scored with 35:43 remaining tint he second to account for both Ram goals.

Southern launched 25 shots, while Bishop Walsh had only 10 scoring attempts. Neither team was awarded a corner kick.

Martin finished with four saves in the shutout for the Rams, while Brittany Koffman had 10 saves in the loss.

Hosting Hampshire, the Rams scored two first-half goals and spent the second half keeping the Trojans at bay.

Southern's first goal came off the foot of Taylor Germain, who scored at 35:36. Shaffer provided goal number two for the Rams, scoring unassisted with 20:32 on the clock.

In the second half, Brittany Keesling got Hampshire on the board at 4:02 on an assist by Jayden Ware.

Southern outshot the Trojans by a margin of 21-10, and held an 8-1 advantage in corner kicks.

Shelby Kaiser saved 19 shots at goal for Hampshire, while Martin stopped nine for Southern.

"Annie Martin was outstanding tonight," said Southern head coach Sara Shaffer.

"It's hard for a young keeper to stay focused when the ball doesn't come down her way for quite a while. Annie bailed her team out of a few tight situations tonight.

"The Hampshire girls never quit and had a couple of really nice opportunities on goal that Annie was able to handle."

Southern earned a record of 4-2 after its win over Hampshire. The Rams played Allegany in a match last night, though further information was not received. Southern is scheduled to host Garrett County rival Northern this Tuesday. That game will begin at 7 p.m.

THE GOING WAS TOUGH on this run by Northern Husky Cody Rodeheaver against the Golden Tornadoes of Keyser High last Friday, a game in which the Huskies took a one-point lead into the fourth quarter, but were then handed a 30-19 defeat. Rodeheaver was ultimately sidelined with a mild concussion, and will not be available for this week's clash with Frankfort. Other Huskies identifiable above are Josh Mason (#5) and Zach Meyers (#70). Late Keyser Rally Results In 30-19 Defeat For Injury-Plagued Huskies Injuries to key personnel on an already thin roster continued to plague the Northern High School varsity team last Friday, as the Huskies held a 19-18 lead going into the final period over visiting Keyser, but could not hang on for the win. The Golden Tornadoes rallied for a dozen points in the fourth quarter to secure a 30-19 victory, their second in three starts.

The Huskies were already playing without starting quarterback Pat Sines, who holds most of the NHS passing records, and then lost two more key players against Keyser. Starting guard/nose guard Sean Kamp was sidelined in the first quarter, and senior receiver Cody Rodeheaver had to leave the game early in the third stanza.

The Tornadoes got on the board first when Cody Eversole capped a drive with a one-yard touchdown run at the 6:40 mark of the first quarter. The conversion kick was no good.

The Huskies took the lead in the final moments of the first period when Josh Mason hauled in a 10-yard TD strike from quarterback Chris Murdock and Justin Durst booted the conversion.

The lead went back to Keyser early in the second quarter when Eversole connected with Wyatt Nelson on a 58-yard touchdown aerial at the 10:51 mark. The run for the conversion was stopped short by the Husky defense, and Keyser led 12-7.

A one-yard run by Murdock at the 7:54 mark of the third quarter put the Huskies back on top by one, 13-12. The pass for the two extra points was incomplete.

Danny Fife then broke through the Northern defense and raced 75 yards to cut the Huskies lead to 19-18 with 3:09 remaining in the third.

Eversole was sidelined by injury in the second quarter, and it was freshman quarterback Ryan Streets, who led Keyser's rally for victory.

Streets hit Brandon Clay with a 25-yard scoring strike to give Keyser the lead for good with 8:55 left in the game.

The Tornadoes put their final points on the board when James Flint scored on a 25-yard carry with 5:44 to play.

Alex Baker led the Huskies' 209-yard rushing attack by rolling up 123 yards on 23 carries, while Murdock picked up 78 yards on 11 carrics.

Baker also led the Huskies' defensive effort as he finished with 11 tackles and blocked an extra point, while Zach Meyers recorded nine tackles and Kyle Rosenberger had a fumble recovery.

Fife paced Keyser's ground game with 120 yards on 16 carrics, with his 75-yard scoring jaunt making up the majority of his total.

"We were really tickled with the effort of our kids," said Northern head coach Phil Carr. "Not many area fans would have predicted that we would have been leading going into the fourth quarter. We played very hard, but had some problems with our execution.

"Chris [Murdock] played much better, now that he has had a full week of taking snaps in practice," Carr said. "Our biggest problem is that we are scraping the bottom of the barrel for players. With Pat, Cody, and Jeremy Bender all out, our defensive backfield is severely depleted."

Sines continues to be sidelined with a broken collarbone, and Carr said that Rodeheaver definitely will not play this week, and Kamp and Bender are both listed as doubtful.

Next up for the Huskies this Friday at home is Frankfort, a team that is also 0-3, but has been in all three games right until the end. The Falcons are coming off a 7-6 loss to Berkeley Springs after a two-point conversion attempt in the final moments was stopped short.

"Frankfort is down a little from where they usually are," said Carr. "They are playing a lot of juniors and sophomores, so are suffering a little bit from a lack of senior leadership. But they are still a much better team than their record indicates."

Back this year for the Falcons is big senior fullback/linebacker Jeremy Leedom (6-0, 220), who Carr said "ran all over us last year."

Leedom ran for 143 yards and three touchdowns in a 54-38 shoot-out win by Frankfort last season. Now-graduated teammate Joey Luciw added 158 yards and three scores.

Sophomore Cole Smith (5-8, 145) is calling the signals this year, and the other starting running back is senior Ben Brown (6-1, 180).

"Brown is not as fast as Luciw, but he is still a good runner," Carr said.

The Falcons play a 4-4 defense, which is what the Huskies have faced in every game so far this season, and they are led by Leedom at a linebacker spot.

"They do not have as much speed or size as they did last year," Carr said, "but with our injury situation, we are still going to have to play a near-perfect game from an execution standpoint in order to win."

Friday's kickoff at the NHS athletic field is set for 7 p.m.

Steelers Whip Steelers, 22-14; Still Unbeaten

The Division 1 Northern Steelers of the Cumberland Area Youth Football League upped their record to a perfect 4-0 this past Sunday by defeating the visiting Keyser Steelers, 22-14.

The score was close at halftime, with the Northern squad clinging to an 8-6 advantage, but a pair of third-quarter touchdowns, both involving Northern quarterback Aaron Rodeheaver, ultimately put the game out of reach for the visiting Steelers.

Rodeheaver had an outstanding day running the ball, as he finished with 214 yards on 23 carries.

Jake Vernon gave Northern the lead for good with a two-yard touchdown run and by kicking the two-point conversion early in the first quarter.

Keyser cut the lead to 8-6 later in the same period when Amonte Turner broke through the Northern defense and raced 65 yards to the end zone. The conversion kick was no good.

There was no scoring in the second stanza, but Rodeheaver opened the third quarter with a 10-yard carry for a touchdown. The two-point kick was no good, and the Northern Steelers led 14-6.

Northern's next drive was capped with a 40-yard touchdown pass from Rodeheaver to Logan Yommer. Vernon was successful on the conversion kick, and the home team led 22-6.

Still in the third quarter, Keyser reached paydirt again, this time via a three-yard run by Vince Blackburn. Robert Horner kicked the conversion for the final two points of the game, as the fourth quarter was scoreless.

Defensive standouts for the Northern Steelers were Kyle Beard and Shay Shumaker each with a fumble recovery, and Logan Fratz with an interception. Cole Weaver, Gage Canan, and Aaron Miller paced Keyser's defensive effort.

The Division II Northern Steelers were topped in Sunday's other game, 26-8, by their counterparts from Keyser.

The only points recorded by the home team were those of Austin Evans, who scored a touchdown on a 14-yard run in the third quarter, and also kicked the two-point conversion.

Matt Liller was the big offensive gun for Keyser, as he scored on runs of two and 42 yards from scrimmage, and on a 58-yard punt return. Andrew Liller also scored via a one-yard dive in the fourth quarter.

Jacob Toothman, Brady Fratz, and Garrett Beaulieu led the Northern defense.

The Division I Steelers will be off this week, while the Division II squad (1-3) will play at Bishop Walsh on Sunday.

Husky Jayvees Fall To Campers

The junior varsity football team of Northern High School fell to the freshmen team of Allegany High in Cumberland on Monday, 20-10.

A 50-yard touchdown run by Messach Metz, followed by a conversion kick by Justin Derato, gave the Huskies a 7-0 advantage in the first quarter.

Also quarterback Trevor Evix cut the Huskies' lead to 7-6 early in the second quarter when he scored on a one-yard sneak.

The Huskies regained the lead late in the same quarter when Derato booted a 34-yard field goal, but those would be the final points scored by the visitors.

Allegany took the lead for good in the third quarter when Kirk Robinette scored on a nine-yard run, and Dajuan Pendergast kicked the extra point to make the score 13-10.

Blake Milburn capped another Camper drive in the final stanza with a four-yard touchdown run, and Pendergast again tacked on the conversion.

The Huskies will host the Allegany junior varsity Monday.

Ram Jayvees Fall At Home To Hampshire

The Ram jayvee squad suffered an eight-point loss to Hampshire, 14-6, when the two football teams met last week at Southern High School.

The game proved to be a gritty defensive matchup as neither team had scored by the end of the first quarter. Hampshire's Patrick Dawson broke the scoring drought in the second quarter with an 8-yard touchdown run. The Trojans then handed the ball off again to Dawson in an attempted two-point conversion run, but Southern bottled up the play and kept it close, 6-0, to enter the half.

After the break, the third quarter saw no scoring. It was not until well into the fourth quarter that Hampshire's Dale Bryson snatched a 10-yard pass from quarterback Shane Barrett for six more. The Trojans were successful in their second conversion attempt, as Barrett followed his touchdown effort by running it in for two, making it 14-0.

The Rams, determined to come from behind, would then get on the board after Reese Haskiel punched in a 1-yard touchdown run. A failed point after made it 14-6, the game's final score.

Jeff Eddington rushed for over 100 yards to lead the Rams' offense.

Mike Dee made two sacks for Hampshire's defense.

Southern will play at Mountain Ridge on Monday.

Rams Lose Pace Against Trojans, Look For First Win Hosting Indians

The Rams varsity football team finds itself with an 0-3 record so far this season after hosting a tough Hampshire team on Friday that handed Southern High a 49-27 loss.

Hampshire was able to pull away from the Rams after scoring three consecutive touchdowns over the late second quarter and then into the third period. Both teams were vying for their first win of the season. That victory went to the Trojans, while Southern looks forward to another shot at the win column tomorrow in its home game with Berkeley Springs.

In its loss to Hampshire, Southern was able to move the ball effectively and finished with a total of 349 yards. Quarterback Kurt Gangler had his arm tested to the tune of 295 yards on 17-of-33 passing and two touchdowns. Logan Stewart was Gangler's favorite target, as the two hooked up for seven completions and 90 yards. That effort included a 47-yard touchdown pass. Zack Knotts caught four passes for 71 yards and one touchdown. Knotts also ran for a touchdown.

Trojan Spencer Malick scored three touchdowns and amassed 201 total yards of offense, leading Hampshire to its game total of 384. Malick scored on runs of 80, one, and, 32 yards. He had a total of 176 yards on 10 carries, as well as catching one ball for 25 yards.

The Trojans took a 21-7 lead in the first quarter after a 14-yard pass from Caleb Landis to Kylan Pepper, a Tyler Hott fumble recovery in the end zone, and Malick's 80-yard score.

Southern's first quarter touchdown came after Gangler found Stewart for a 47-yard touchdown reception. The Rams were able to trim the score to 21-13 when Derek Noble scored from a yard out, but Malick added a one-yard score with 16 seconds to play before halftime to make it 28-13.

With 9:47 remaining in the third, Cole Davis scored on a run of five yards to extend the lead to 35-13 before Denard Hartwell pushed the advantage to 42-13 when he returned an interception 20 yards for the next touchdown.

Knotts ran in his three-yard Ram touchdown on the next drive, but Hampshire answered with Malick's 32-yard score.

Knotts then caught his 4-yard touchdown from Gangler with 11:08 left in the fourth, placing the score at its final margin, 49-27.

Hott, who recovered a fumble for a touchdown, also had an interception for the Trojans.

The scheduled kickoff for Southern's next game is set for 7 p.m. tomorrow evening (Sept. 23), as Berkeley Springs visits Oakland.

Rams Fall Short Of AMAC Title; Gindlesberger Ties Low Score

The Southern High School golf team finished last Thursday's Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference Tournament with a score of 368 – an effort which earned it second place. The tourney was held during cold, wet, and windy conditions at Maplehurst Country Club.

Mountain Ridge took the title, after four of its golfers shot in double-digits. One of them, Tyler Whitaker, tied Southern's Billy Gindlesberger for the tournament's low score, 86. The Miners finished with a six-stroke edge (362) over Southern.

Finishing third was Fort Hill (381), which had a four-stroke advantage on the fourth place Northern High School team, 385. Allegany (425) placed fifth, Frankfort (450) was sixth, and Keyser shot a 456 to come in at seventh. Bishop Walsh had a 461 to place eighth.

The Rams had three players post scores in the 80s to the Miners' two, but Mountain Ridge had a pair of players shoot in the 90s while no one else was able to break 100 for Southern.

Following Whitaker, Aaron Raines shot an 88, Jared Wilson 90, and Joe Patterson 98 for the Miners. Besides Gindlesberger, Southern got an 88 from Evan Friend and an 89 from Bryce Friend.

Fort Hill's lowest scorer was Brian Lutton at 93, with Josh Lutton adding a 94. Northern was led by David Hall's 91 and Caeman Feller's 94; and Allegany's low was Keegan Ott with a 96. Bryce Trezise added a 105 for the Campers.

Ryan Hutchinson shot a 107 to lead Frankfort, and Emily Courtney had 111. Keyser's Matt Landes led his team by shooting a 102. Josh Bane was a stroke back at 103. Brendan McMullen (110) and Brandon Murray (111) had the lowest scores for the Spartans.

The All-AMAC team is made up of the 10 lowest scores during the conference championship. Whitaker and Gindlesberger made the team as medalist, with Evan Friend, Raines, Bryce Friend, Wilson, Hall Brian Lutton, Josh Lutton, and Feller also joining the all-star squad.

At the Maryland Region I High School Golf Championship on Tuesday, Gindlesberger turned in the lowest score from area golfers, shooting an 83 on the course at the Black Rock Country Club.

The Rams finished the event in 14th place, scoring a team total of 367. The Huskies took the 16th spot with a 375.

Southern and Northern are set to face each other today in the County Championship. Tee off is set for 4 p.m. at the Oakland Golf Club.

Poverty Spike

afflicting Baltimore City," said Passarella, who is concerned about poverty even in traditionally wealthy areas. "There s a lack of availability of jobs. There's a lack of availability of social services."

Maryland fares better than other states, he said, in part because state lawmakers have made efforts to curb poverty, but the problem hasn't diminished.

Flateman said she is seeing a troubling number of families above the poverty line looking for food. They don't qualify for government assistance, but can't make ends meet.

"They're working to cobble a life together," she said.

From 2009 to 2010, the number of Marylanders in poverty increased by nearly 80,000. Poverty rates have fluctuated according to past census data, but are now just above the 10.7 rate the state hit in 1994, the earliest available state figures

Isabel Sawhill, senior fellow with the Brookings Institution in Washington, said she expects national poverty numbers to continue growing unless services and jobs are increased for the poor. The federal poverty line is too low, she said, and doesn't include many families and individuals who make slightly too much money for government aid.

The federal poverty line varies with the size of a family, but, for example, is now $22,050 for a family of four.

Tuesday's national report comes as no shock, but illustrates struggles facing an increasing number of Americans, according to Flateman.

"It tells the story that we're not improving people's lives," she said.

The American Community Survey, focused more directly on state economies, will be released by the Census Bureau later this month.

State Economic Dev. Commission Includes Russell

Governor Martin O'Malley this week joined with members of the Maryland Economic Development Commission (MEDC), the Maryland Venture Fund Authority and local elected and economic development officials on a visit to GEICO headquarters in Chevy Chase. The visit to the nation's third largest private passenger auto insurer is the first in a series of quarterly meetings called ExeConnect that the MEDC is planning to hold at the state's fastest growing and most innovative businesses.

As part of the meeting, Governor O'Malley kicked off ExeConnect, welcomed new members of the MEDC, and recognized GEICO's 75th anniversary as well as CEO Tony Nicely's 50th year with the company. The governor also thanked GEICO for its expert advice in helping to shape InvestMaryland, which will invest a minimum of $70 million in start-up and early stage companies in Maryland through a tax credit auction to insurance companies scheduled for early next year.

"I want to thank Tony Nicely and the team at GEICO for hosting us today for the MEDC's first ExeConnect meeting, and also for their support of InvestMaryland, which we will be rolling out over the next nine months," said O'Malley. "With today's meeting, we are continuing to move forward on the key recommendations of the MEDC's five-year economic development plan, which includes connecting with our business community, harnessing innovation and building on our core strengths in life science, cyber security and space and defense."

Founded in 1936 as the Government Employees Insurance Company, GEICO has been a wholly-owned subsidiary of Berkshire Hathaway, headed by Warren Buffett, since 1996. It provides auto insurance coverage for 10.5 million policyholders in all 50 states and insures more than 16 million vehicles. It has 25,500 associates, with 10 percent of its workforce in Maryland, and reported revenues of more than $14 billion in 2010. Last year, GEICO was first in the insurance industry to provide mobile users with the ability to quote and buy a policy from mobile-friendly pages on their iPhone and Android mobile devices.

"We want to thank the governor, MEDC, and the Maryland Venture Fund Authority for providing GEICO the opportunity of hosting the first ExeConnect meeting," said CEO Nicely. "We feel the InvestMaryland initiative is an excellent vehicle for raising the necessary financial support for exciting new companies to grow and be prosperous in the state. GEICO supports similar programs nationally and we know the InvestMaryland program will be very successful."

In addition to visiting with GEICO, the governor also welcomed eight new members of the MEDC and announced the appointment of Steve Dubin, senior advisor to DSM Nutritional Products who previously served as the commission's co-chair, to MEDC chairman. The new members include Janis M. Russell, co-owner of Savage River Lodge in Garrett County.

"Although we're still seeing mixed signals in the broader economy, Maryland's location, resources and talent pool can create tremendous opportunities for our region and our nation," said Goldman, president and TeaEO of Honest Tea. "As a member of the Maryland Economic Commission, I hope to help guide the state toward a combination of policies and partnerships that advance our emerging entrepreneurial and environmentally-aware culture."

Re-launched in 2009, the MEDC is comprised of 25 members that help to shape Maryland's business policy, regulation and legislation. Earlier this year, the governor joined the MEDC to unveil a five-year strategic economic development plan, Charting Maryland's Economic Path: Discovery, Diversity & Opportunity. Focused on four core strategies, the plan outlines a framework to position Maryland for growth; build on the state's leading economic drivers, like life sciences, cyber security and federal and military operations; embrace regional and economic diversity in tourism, manufacturing and agriculture; and make it easier to do business in the state.

Significant progress has been made since the release of the report, according to a spokesperson. In addition to the launch of ExeConnect, the state has unveiled an aggressive plan to grow the space industry; implemented Fasttrack as part of Maryland Made Easy to streamline and expedite the review of state permits for major development projects; and named the Maryland Venture Fund Authority, which will serve as advisors and independent best practice executives to oversee InvestMaryland.

COMMISSIONERS CONGRATULATE CIVIC CLUB WITH PROCLAMATION – The Garrett County Commissioners recognized the General Federation of Woman's Clubs (GFWC) Civic Club of Oakland recently to celebrate the occasion of its 100th anniversary. The club was initiated in 1911 and has been active for a century, providing projects and programs that assist with the needs of the citizens of the county. The commissioners congratulated the club with the proclamation, which read in part that the officials "command the generosity of spirit" of the organization and extend "best wishes for another 100 years of continued service to Garrett County." The club will celebrate the milestone with a dinner dance on Oct. 1 at Silver Tree. Pictured from left are Commissioner Bob Gatto, Barbara Frantz, club president, Commissioner Gregan Crawford, Judi Schiff, club secretary, and Commissioner Jim Raley. A full feature about the history of the club will be published in next week's issue of The Republican. OH, HAIL – Pictured above: An ill omen, a sign of blustery winter days and freezing temperatures to come? Maybe. A kind of solid precipitation that consists of balls or irregular lumps of ice, formed in an environment of strong, upward moving air within a parent thunderstorm? Fact (at least according to wikipedia.org). In any case, the photo comes to us courtesy of Connie Grove, owner of the Endzone in Corinth, W.Va., who took the image in her business parking lot after the thunderstorm on Sept. 14. She said she snapped the picture approximately 45 minutes to an hour after the storm was over.

Purchasing Dept. Marketing Surplus Equipment Online

The Garrett County Purchasing Department is among the more than 4,000 government agencies nationwide adopting GovDeals' online auction solution.

The department's first auction, which began on Sept. 9 and ends this Friday, Sept. 23, consists of a 1979 Caterpillar D8K Bulldozer. Bidders can register to participate in the auction free of charge at md.govdeals.com.

Forty three Maryland government agencies have adopted the GovDeals program. GovDeals (www.govdeals.com) is an online auction service for city, county, and state governments and agencies. Specifically, GovDeals is designed to enable governmental entities and their agencies the ability to sell surplus and confiscated vehicles, assets, property, and equipment over the Internet.

GovDeals also supports the redistribution of excess assets within public institutions. GovDeals has assisted Maryland governmental agencies in the sale of more than $6.1 million worth of surplus and seized property, according to the company.

"GovDeals was recommended to us by other Maryland government agencies," stated purchasing agent Brian Bowers, GC Purchasing Department. "While we may from time to time utilize local public auctions and the sealed bids process for the disposition of surplus, we're hoping GovDeals will help us generate greater revenue by reaching a larger audience of buyers for specialty items such as heavy equipment."

GovDeals is endorsed by the numerous municipal and county associations nationwide as a strategic partner offering online auction services to its members.

The festival landed in the international spotlight four years ago when the popular travel web site MSN.com listed it tops among fall festivals in the world. For the past three years, travelchannel.com has also listed the festival and Garrett County as one of America's Three Best Autumn Road Trips, and in 2008, the baltimoresun.com listed Garrett County as one of the top five locales for fall foliage.

United Way Asks Locals To Care And Share

The United Way of Garrett County is planning its eighth annual Day of Caring and Sharing for Friday, Oct. 7. According to a spokesperson, approximately 150 volunteers will be needed from 8 a.m. until noon to complete projects for local service agencies and to prepare for the upcoming Autumn Glory Festival.

The chair of the event is Robin Murray, senior vice president of First United Bank and Trust. Co-chair is Kim Conroy, branch manager for Susquehanna Bank.

"Last year there were over 160 participants and approximately 16 different projects," stated Murray. "Projects included painting, cleaning, and hanging decorations for Autumn Glory."

"Projects are requested from our local towns and local non-profit agencies that partner with the United Way."

The day of activity will begin with a kickoff rally at the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department at 8 a.m. Volunteers will receive a light breakfast, lunch (usually pizza), and will be outfitted in a United Way T-shirt provided by the sponsors of the event – Columbia Gas of Maryland and Dominion Energy.

Last year, breakfast and lunch were donated by Smiley's Pizzeria, Winner's Circle, Sorellee's Pizza, Pizza Hut, Browning's Foodland, Wal-Mart, Ari's Pizza, and Hey Pizza.

All citizens of Garrett County are encouraged to register for this event. Teams from local businesses and organizations are also invited to participate.

FAMILY FUN DAY HELD IN OAKLAND – The Oakland Nursing & Rehabilitation Center held its annual Family Fun Day last Saturday. Many residents and their families, as well people from the local community participated in the event. One of Mae King's (left) favorite moments of the day was eating cotton candy, and Nellie Fraley enjoyed reminiscing about "the good old days" in a classic car.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

HARDWARE MOLES
by Dr. Stephen I. Parks

Q: We hear about electronic spying and data mining invading our privacy. I do all the right things – I maintain my password and keep my antivirus software up to date. How safe am I?

A. You are sort of safe, but we are all vulnerable in a number of ways. Your antivirus won't catch the fraudulent "phishing" e-mails from your Nigerian uncle. There are "cookies" that mine your computer for marketing information and sometimes more sensitive stuff. Crooks are always trying to find creative ways to get around your antivirus software. Do what your mama taught you – always be careful when you are in a strange cyber-place and always wear protection when you browse.

But there are more interesting ways for spies to get into your electronics, especially if you are a person or business "of interest." And forget about invasion plans, foreign industrial spies prefer to steal designs and trade secrets. In electronic surveillance the "bug" has morphed into a mole.

Once upon a time the spy world played a game of competitive bugging to eavesdrop on conversations. I guess the classic for cleverness was the national seal plaque containing a bug that the Soviets gave the U.S. ambassador. It hung in the ambassador's office for years, passing on secret conversations. And the classic phone "wiretap" is alive and well, thank you – although it has adapted to survive in the wireless age.

But now the most important secrets and the most sensitive communications are computer-to-computer and can be heavily encrypted. Even a supercomputer has no chance of decrypting a sophisticated "public-key" code – one where you can post the key for encryption (making a text illegible) on the bathroom wall or Facebook or wherever, and the competition still can't read the messages, unless they can steal your protected decryption key. Problem is, a good decryption key can be long and hard to remember. So, you write it down and keep it in your wallet or the drawer under the computer. That's where human spying comes in. Throughout history, careless control of decryption keys has brought disaster to one side or the other.

But there are other ways to capture the codes. Hardware in the computer can be modified with special firmware to relay keystrokes to the other side. Once you have the keystrokes, figuring out which strokes are the access or decryption codes is not too hard.

We think of malware getting in over the Internet, but there are many other ways. Before the Internet (Yes, some of us croakers remember those days!) viruses traveled on boot floppies. Apparently the malware that destroyed Iran's nuclear-separation centrifuge arrived on a flash-drive in a minor low-security facility and then spread via their closed, secure network until it got where it needed to be. These days the source can be any USB appliance – a printer, a keyboard, a camera, a mouse. Or, it can be built into the computer's CPU right from the get-go, lying dormant until it sees a very special sequence of bytes that order it into action.

Given the globalization of the computer industry, it's safe to say that your computer and mine contain such sleeper codes. They will faithfully execute their orders when told to do so. There isn't much an individual can do about it, so just suck it up and keep going. And don't throw out that 20-year-old calculator or your 30-year-old CB radio. After the attack they may be the only electronic gizmos that work.

Dr Parks has a Ph.D. in solid-state physics, and most of his career has involved the design of sensors and instrumentation. Side interests include molecular biology, exotic travel, and nature study.

We read and hear of many promises for this or that magic potion to improve our looks... lose weight... straighten our hair...look younger! There's always a hidden cost. But one promise is tried and true... God's Holy Word. His promises do not appeal to vanity, for true beauty begins in the heart and soul.

His promises are guaranteed to all who believe them and desire to be rich in the Spirit. No hidden costs; free to those with enduring faith and hope. Worship this week and learn about God's promises.

What Can You Do Without?

A king once asked a wise man what his teaching was good for. The king claimed that he was happier than the wise man because he had sumptuous palaces to live in, armies at his command, and beautiful women to consort with. The wise man asked the king whether he could be perfectly content doing nothing for an hour, to which the king replied that he could. Then the wise man asked him if he could be perfectly content for an entire day while doing absolutely nothing. The king replied that this would be quite difficult, to which the wise man responded that he could be perfectly happy doing nothing for seven days and seven nights, and thus the wise man had the greater share of happiness. Perhaps what this story really reveals is that it is not what we have that makes us happy but what we can do without.

"I know what it is tobe in need, and I know what it is to have plenty. I have learned the secret of being content in any and every situation, whether well fed or hungry, whether living in plenty or in want."

New K.J.V. Philippians 4:13

Strange BUT TRUE

• It was 20th-century American humorist Evan Esar who made the following extremely sage observation: "Anger is the feeling that makes your mouth work faster than your mind."

• The Ghirardelli company, now renowned worldwide for the fine chocolate it produces, originally was a purveyor of mustard and spices.

• Frank Lloyd Wright was an unusually prolific architect. During the 70 years of his professional career, he designed a whopping 500 buildings.

• Unless you're employed in the publishing field, you might think that a typographical error is rather insignificant, something that only nitpickers worry about. Typos, however, sometimes radically change the meaning of text. Take, for example, the 1631 edition of the Bible published by the royal printers in London. A word was left out of one of the Ten Commandments, resulting in the exhortation, "Thou shalt commit adultery." This book is now known as the Wicked Bible or the Adulterous Bible. Robert Barker and Martin Lucas, the publishers responsible for the error, were fined 300 British pounds, or about $54,000 in today's currency.

• In 1826, the eastern part of Texas declared its independence from the United States, calling itself the Republic of Fredonia.

• You might be surprised to learn that author Norman Mailer, best known for his novel "The Naked and the Dead," majored in aeronautical engineering when he was in college.

• For reasons surpassing understanding, in 1845, the city of Boston made it mandatory to have a doctor's prescription before taking a bath.

Thought for the Day: "A man has to live with himself, and he should see to it that he always has good company." -- Charles Evans Hughes

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 27, 1854, two ships collide off the coast of Newfoundland, killing 322 passengers and crew. The wooden-hulled Arctic was severely damaged when it slammed into the iron-hulled steamer Vesta. In trying to beach the ship, the Arctic's captain ran over several lifeboats, causing even more people to drown.

• On Oct. 1, 1890, an act of Congress creates Yosemite National Park, home of such natural wonders as the 2,425-foot-high Yosemite Falls, rock formations Half Dome and El Capitan, and three groves of giant sequoias, the world's biggest trees.

• On Sept. 28, 1938, auto inventor Charles Duryea dies in Philadelphia at the age of 76. Duryea and his brother Frank designed and built one of the first functioning gas-powered automobiles. Charles insisted on taking full credit for the brothers' innovation and said that Frank was "simply a mechanic."

• On Sept. 26, 1957, "West Side Story," composed by Leonard Bernstein, opens at the Winter Garden Theatre on Broadway. "West Side Story," a reinterpretation of William Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet, tells the tale of a love affair between Tony, who is Polish American, and Maria, a Puerto Rican, set against an urban background of interracial warfare.

• On Sept. 29, 1969, the U.S. Army drops murder charges against eight Special Forces soldiers accused of killing a Vietnamese national. The case against the Green Berets was dismissed for reasons of national security when the CIA refused to release highly classified information.

• On Oct. 2, 1985, Rock Hudson, a Hollywood romantic leading man during the 1950s and '60s and later a TV star, dies at the age of 59 from an AIDS-related illness. The 6-foot-5 Hudson rose to fame starring in such films as "Giant" (1956), for which he received an Academy Award nomination.

• On Sept. 30, 1999, large doses of radiation are released at Japan's Tokaimura nuclear plant, an accident caused by a serious error made by workers at the plant. Instead of pouring 5 pounds of powdered uranium into nitric acid, workers poured in 35 pounds.

Q: I have a wall pocket of "Bambi" that dates from the mid-1950s. It is clearly marked "Bambi, Walt Disney Productions" and is in almost perfect condition with no chips or damage. The original price sticker of 80 cents is still attached to its bottom. Is this a yard-sale item or something to save for my son? -- Rachel, Bethalto, Ill.

A: The scene of Bambi learning to walk on ice from the original 1942 Disney production might just be the most famous sequence the studio ever produced for a feature cartoon. Your wall pocket is worth about $75. If it has sentimental value, I would save it for your son.

Q: I was a big fan of David Cassidy of the Partridge Family during the 1970s, and I purchased several of his comic books, including issues from February 1972, May 1973 and September 1973. Are they worth anything? -- Debbie, Hammond, La.

A: The first David Cassidy comic book was issued by Charlton in February 1972, and that premiere issue is worth about $25 in near-mint condition. The other two are worth in the $10 to $15 range, again depending on condition.

Crazy for Cardinals

A sure way to bring these red beauties into your yard is to offer safflower seed. This smooth white seed has a bitter taste that cardinals love. A tube feeder with a tray will work, or toss it on the ground in front of a brush pile. They are sure to come.

Time will fly for 'Dexter' when series returns

By Jay Bobbin

Michael C. Hall

Q: I've heard that "Dexter" is going to make a jump in time when it starts its new season. Is that true? –Mark James, Milwaukee

A: Yes, but not by all that much. The Showtime mystery's producers will have advanced the plot by a year for the start of season six when it begins Sunday, Oct. 2. The reason is that they want to put more distance between Dexter (Michael C. Hall) and the death of his wife, Rita, so that he's making sort of a new start as the show resumes.

Q: I've seen Jane Lynch on "Two and a Half Men" repeats. What other series did she appear on before "Glee"? –Carol Williams, Columbus, Ohio

A. Quite a few. In fact, she was a regular cast member on another one – the Starz comedy "Party Down" – at the time she was enlisted for her now-iconic role as gym coach and glee club nemesis Sue Sylvester on the Fox show that made her a household name and an Emmy winner.

Lynch also had recurring roles on "Criminal Minds" (as the mother of Spencer Reid, played by Matthew Gray Gubler), "The L Word" and "Boston Legal" as well as on Lisa Kudrow's "Web Therapy" Internet series that has been getting a Showtime run lately. "Psych," "American Dad" (in voice only, of course), "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation," "Friends," "Las Vegas," "Monk," "NYPD Blue," "7th Heaven," "The X-Files" and "Judging Amy" are among the many other shows that have benefited from having Lynch as a guest star.

Q: I am wondering when Tim Burton's "Alice in Wonderland" will make it to TV. Has it been on HBO or Showtime, and I already missed it? – Ellen Schmidt, Palm Coast, Fla.

A: Actually, it has been on one of their rivals ... Starz, the network of such original series as "Torchwood: Miracle Day," "Spartacus" and Kelsey Grammer's forthcoming "Boss." Director Burton's take on the Lewis Carroll classic has been making the rounds on the Starz/Encore set of channels for the past several months, and that run still has a while to go.

After that ends, we wouldn't be surprised to see it turn up on Disney Channel and also ABC, which often uses Saturday nights for family-oriented movies ... and it especially would be no surprise to find "Alice" there, since Disney owns that network.

Active aging week is just around the corner. For the week of September 25, Flowery Vale Senior Fitness Center will be hosting a week full of fun outdoor activities. This week gives older adults the chance to exercise with people their own age, and allows them to use nature as their playground. You need not be a member of the fitness center to participate in any of the scheduled activities; however, you must sign a waiver releasing the center of any responsibility for medical issues or accidents.

Our schedule of events for the week consists of hiking at Herrington Manor State Park, biking with Bill on the C&O Canal, walking the Accident track, having a luncheon with activities, yoga in the park, and an outdoor fun class. Bikes will be available for rental if you need one. Lunch will follow outdoor activities, but is not included.

The schedule is as follows:

Monday, Sept. 26 – Herrington Manor State Park hike, 11 a.m., lunch following.

Tuesday, Sept. 27 – Yoga in the Park, 9 a.m.; Biking with Bill, Canal Place, 10 a.m., $15/bike, lunch following.

Wednesday, Sept. 28 – Accident track walk, 4:30 p.m.

Thursday, Sept. 29 – Yoga in the Park, 9 a.m.; Luncheon with games, 10:30 a.m.

Friday, Sept. 30 – Outdoor Fun Class, 4:30 p.m.

For more information on the weeks events, please call Flowery Vale Senior Health and Fitness Center at 301-746-8050.

This project promotes the Garrett County Community Action Committee strategy of providing older adults with lifelong learning opportunities.

GC Outlines Goals For $529,852 Grant-Funded STEM Initiative

by Peggy Santamaria

Garrett College was recently awarded a multi-source grant for $529,852 to enhance Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics, or STEM programming. Funds are provided by the Appalachian Regional Commission in the amount of $264,926 and by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners in the amount of $182,926. In addition, Garrett College will provide $82,000 towards this STEM initiative.

Dr. Richard MacLennan, president of GC, underscored the appreciation of the college for this grant and the growth it will stimulate.

"We are grateful for the support this grant will provide Garrett College as we continue to develop programs and services that are relevant to our community's needs," MacLennan said. "The emphasis that this funding places on the development of STEM-related education will help us achieve great strides in ensuring that our graduates are well prepared."

Garrett County administrator Monty Pagenhardt explained why this project is a good investment for the county.

"With business and industry increasingly dependent on technology, Garrett County will benefit directly from the STEM Program as workforce skills grow to meet employer needs which will potentially stimulate the local economy and lead to more job development," he said.

The grant will fund the various components of the new project. Support will go toward associate-degree programs in STEM-related studies, plus cyber security, computer technology programs, and elementary and secondary education; a Rural Entrepreneurship Academy; formation of a competitive robotics team; and purchase of equipment and training.

James L. Allen Jr., interim dean of instruction and director of institutional planning, spoke of the positive impact he foresees with the implementation of the STEM initiative. He noted that the United States, long the world in leader in developing and implementing technology, risks losing this edge.

"This is happening partially because of a steady decline in the number of students enrolling in science, technology, engineering, and math (STEM) at our colleges and universities," Allen said. "The grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission and the county will enable Garrett College to enhance and expand its STEM programs as a way of encouraging more students from Garrett County and the surrounding region to enroll in and complete programs that will provide them with the advanced technical skills needed to compete in a global economy."

Dr. Qing Yuan, GC's director of business and information technology, outlined plans to use some of the STEM grant in addressing needs for greater scope in the curriculum to meet current and future market demands.

"As the issues of cyber security and critical infrastructure protection have become the focus of the nation, the need for a more trained and better prepared cyber security workforce is inevitable," she said. "The ARC grant will assist GC in implementing an A.A.S degree in cyber security, which will help our graduates enter the workforce with the knowledge and competitive skills in the cyber security field or transfer to four-year universities to pursue further education."

This semester Garrett College introduced its electrical engineering program. The STEM grants will allow for growth in engineering technology, Dr. Yuan explained.

Yuan also said that a portion of the grant will be used for the college to start a competitive robotics team that will compete both regionally and internationally to earn the academic recognition for the college. It is hoped that the robotics team will lay a solid foundation for the future engineering technology programs.

"Garrett County has a long history and reputation for its nationally recognized robotics teams with K-12 students. The robotics team and the new engineering programs will provide more advanced opportunities for the k-12 students," Yuan said.

Alexander Tuel, director of education and teacher preparation, related his plans for enhancing the curriculum of his pre-service teachers.

"The students we are training today will be the classroom teachers of tomorrow," he said. "At Garrett College we are working with future teachers of secondary, elementary, and pre-school students. The classrooms where they will work will be equipped with high-tech assistive technology, and we want our graduates to be able to derive the greatest possible benefit from use of such equipment. We also want to be training educators to inspire interest in the sciences, mathematics, engineering, and technology. With the help of the STEM grant, we can go a long way in achieving these goals."

The Entrepreneurship Program to be developed under this new grant was explained by Julie Yoder, dean of continuing education and workforce development.

"The concept behind the whole program is to provide real-life, hands-on experience in developing a business plan and actually bringing the plan to fruition," said Yoder "Once students complete the Entrepreneurship Program, those who are interested will have an opportunity to compete for space in the Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC) at a discounted rate. Our goal is to help provide knowledge, guidance and support to help entrepreneurs overcome barriers that many start up businesses may face, ultimately leading to a higher degree of success."

Garrett College Students Ready To Blaze Trails

As part of Garrett College's annual Community Service Learning Day, the school will partner with Garrett Trails and provide the opportunity to more than 120 Garrett College students to explore the Savage River State Forest while revitalizing some of the park's hiking trails. The outing will take place tomorrow (Sept. 23) on Mt. Aetna.

The trail-revitalization project is one way Garrett College has decided to celebrate 40 years of service to the community. A representative for Garrett Trails has stated that the group is excited to be working with Garrett College, the Savage River State Forest, Department of Natural Resources, Savage River Lodge, and Garrett County Community Action on this project.

"We believe this is a great way to introduce students to some of the outstanding public hiking, biking, and cross-country ski trails Garrett County has to offer,"stated Steve Green, Garrett Trails board president.

"This county has an incredible natural beauty and some really unique forest lands. We hope this experience will help students develop a love for these areas."

The day is scheduled to begin early for participating college students with a bus ride from Garrett College to the Savage River State Forest and Mt. Aetna.

Following presentations on sustainable trail-building practices, wilderness safety, and eco-friendly trail use, students and trained trail builders will head into the wilderness with safety glasses, pruners, shovels, picks, and trash bags in order to "spruce up" existing trails within Savage River. Students will also relocate two trails that are currently too close to waterways.

Other Garrett Trails projects currently underway include the development of a single-track loop and bridge in the Fork Run Recreation Area, as well as the creation of a county-wide trail head at the Garrett County Visitors Center.

Garrett Trails is a non-profit volunteer organization "dedicated to the development of a well-used network of outstanding quality trails that provide access to Garrett County's historic, municipal, and environmental treasures."

Garrett Trails "believes world-class trails are important to the economic development of Garrett County as they attract visitors and promote fitness and outdoor enjoyment for all."

Those interested may find further information about Garrett Trails at www.garretttrails.org.

GC GETS THUMBS-UP – Garrett College gets a "thumbs-up" from Sharon Elsey. Starting college as an adult and on "a wing and a prayer," Elsey embarked on an adventure that just keeps on going. Her work days are now spent as administrative associate for college's signature Adventure Sports Program. See story.

"This is My Garrett College"

by Peggy Santamaria

Since opening 40 years ago, Garrett College has provided educational opportunities to people of all ages in the community. Day and evening classes of credit and non-credit offerings have helped thousands of Garrett County residents acquire skills and knowledge to enhance their lifestyles.

Sharon Elsey is among the many adults who have jumped at the chance to attend Garrett and glean the benefits of education. In 1985 she had been out of school for 10 years and was raising two small children. Going to college seemed to be more the stuff of dreams than of reality. A casual phone conversation changed all of that.

Recently, Elsey signed onto the Garrett College web site to share the story about her life-changing educational journey.

"I came to Garrett College on a wing and a prayer," she said. "I had no money, no car, and no babysitter. My Aunt Jean and I were talking on the phone, and she noted how busy she was working with new students registering for college. I made the statement that I wished I could go to college. She remarked that I could. When I said I didn't have any money, car, or babysitter, she told me about the Pell Grant, offered me a ride, and told me to ask my mother if she would watch my two young children. The next day, I was enrolled in college!"

Being a student again was not easy. Elsey was pursuing an associate's degree in secretarial science and felt challenged each day. Not only did she have classes to attend, but she also had landed a student work-study job on campus as secretary to the executive director of information technology, Don Storck. She said he gave her an enormous amount of experience by producing a plethora of reports, letters, charts, and documents of all sorts, which Elsey remembers with great clarity,

"It was tough that first semester, but I studied hard. As time went on, I learned to juggle classes, work, and family. So, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., I attended classes, did my homework, and worked," she said.

To her surprise, Elsey had found that she was not the only adult in her classes. On the contrary, most people in her classes were adults who had previously been in the workforce.

"We had all worked in other fields that ranged from custodial staff to coal miner," she said. "We were all very serious about our education, too, and it was our top priority. We became like family."

Reflecting on the instructors at the college, Elsey praises them for their support and knowledge. Though recognizing that the adult students had a lot more responsibility outside the classroom than did the traditional students, the faculty cut them no slack. This in itself was part of the education process.

"Every class I took prepared me for my future," said Elsey. "The instructors didn't give us any breaks either, which enabled us to follow a higher standard of learning. It gave us a sense of pride and accomplishment, and prepared us to face with confidence the challenges that the business world would present."

After two years at Garrett College, Sharon Elsey graduated with honors.

"It wasn't easy, but it was the most gratifying thing I had ever done," she said.

The following year (1987), Elsey was hired to be the office manager for the 1989 World Whitewater Championships that would be held in on the Savage River in Garrett County. She worked with event organizers for four years.

"What an experience it was to go from not having any education, other than high school 10 years earlier, to having one of the most prestigious jobs in the county," she said. "I met people from all over the world, many dignitaries and public officials."

Not long after that work experience, Elsey found herself back on the campus where it all started for her. She was not in a classroom, but an office, where she currently is an administrative associate working with faculty and students of the Garrett College's signature Adventure Sports program.

During the many years she has been affiliated with Garrett College, Elsey has watched her alma mater grow and enrich its programs to prepare students to take their place in an ever-changing world community. She encourages other adults to find out what life-enhancing opportunities are available.

"If anyone is afraid to start again, I'd like to tell them 'Please don't be. There is so much out there waiting for you. You just have to take a chance,'" Elsey concluded.

Garrett College invites former and current students to share their GC memories/stories. To submit information, persons are invited to visit the college web site ar www.garrettcollege.edu/mygc/.

A new dehumidifier can save you $20 a year in energy costs.

Replacing an old dehumidifier with an ENERGY STAR® qualified dehumidifier can save you about $20 per year, or more than $220 over its lifetime. These dehumidifiers are more efficient than conventional models, so they use about 15% less energy. In fact, the energy you save over its lifetime could power an ENERGY STAR qualified refrigerator for five months.

AN ENCOUNTER RARELY SEEN and even more rarely caught by a camera is that of two stags squaring off for a fight. These bucks were captured by John Colhoun's Moultrie game camera in front of his house in Aurora, W.Va., at about 3 a.m. on Sept. 6. He was able to capture a short series of shots, showing the two first circling one another, and then engaging in the fight as pictured. The wildlife on the Mountaintop and surrounding areas can most certainly make for good entertainment, and great photographs. Thanks to Mr. Colhoun for sending this one in.

Dove Center Receives Grant From Mary Kay

The Dove Center has been selected to receive a $20,000 grant from the Mary Kay Foundation as part of its annual $3 million national domestic violence grant program. The Dove Center is one of 150 domestic violence organizations participating in the program. The grant will be used to support operating expenses of the agency's domestic violence shelter, which houses an average of 125 women and children every year.

"We are so happy to have the support of the Mary Kay Foundation as we enter our 20th year in Garrett County," stated Heather Hanline, Dove Center executive director.

"With the help of this grant and our new facility – which is the product of 10 years of planning, fundraising, and grant writing – we are fully prepared to provide comfort, safety, and healing to families in crisis."

According to the Mary Kay Truth About Abuse national survey conducted last March, the current economic downturn has increased demand for the services provided by domestic violence shelters. The report also finds that the ability for these centers to raise funds and provide services will decrease in 2012. The survey also suggests that:

• 80 percent of domestic violence shelters nationwide report an increase in women seeking assistance from abuse, with most victims attributing violence to financial issues;

• 76 percent of domestic violence shelters indicate their funding has decreased;

Two Arrested In Connection With DCL Burglaries

Two West Virginia residents have been arrested in connection with numerous burglaries throughout the Deep Creek area that occurred over the course of approximately six months.

Joshua Todd Culp, 30, and Jessica Dawn Picou, 23, both of Mt. Storm, were arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies this week on warrants charging them with the related offenses. The burglaries reportedly occurred between December 2010 and June 2011.

Culp is charged with six counts of first-degree burglary, three counts of theft $1,000 to $10,000, four counts of destruction of property, three counts of fourth-degree burglary, and three counts of possession of burglar tools. Picou is charged with five counts of first-degree burglary, two counts of theft $1,000 to $10,000, three counts of fourth-degree burglary, and three counts of possession of burglar tools.

Both Culp and Picou were taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

GFWC Civic Club Of Oakland Marks 100 Active Years Of Service

by Mary Sincell McEwen

A need to assist the people of the Mountaintop, as well as to beautify the areas in which Garrett Countians live and carry on with the business of life, was the initial spark that lit the long-lived candle of the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland. This spark was sent up 100 years ago, and has burned brightly for a century.

The Republican newspaper printed an article in 1932, just after a celebration of the club in observance of its 21st anniversary. Thekla Fundenberg (she later became a Weeks) was the guest speaker at the event, having been the founder and first president of the club.

In what is among literally thousands of Civic Club of Oakland reports in The Republican, Miss Fundenberg was quoted at the conclusion of the story:

"Always remember, no matter what you are called upon to do in any kind of service work, that you are more than repaid in seeing your object accomplished, making pleasant friends and happy memories."

That sentiment does indeed seem to be alive and well 100 years on, as the members now thrive on the hard work they volunteer to do, and they enjoy one another's company immensely. The club meets every last Tuesday of the month from March to November at the Will O' the Wisp Restaurant at Deep Creek Lake. They share lunch at noon, and the business meeting follows.

The initial motivation to form the club was apparently the unsightliness of the town of Oakland in 1911. Rubbish piles, other scattered trash, muddy streets, and untamed grasses and weeds prompted a group of 23 women to act. They formed the club on March 31, 1911, and immediately engaged in a massive clean-up effort. According to the story in the paper, "their project ended in a rubbish parade in which wagon loads of dirt and trash were hauled away and disposed of."

So that was the beginning of a century of such work. Cleaning and beautifying the Oakland Cemetery was the young club's next project, which led to the construction of the stone walls and gates that are still there today. The women engaged in organizing and maintaining the local library, cooperated with public health authorities, worked with the American Red Cross, and sponsored an active and effective orthopedic services program with charter member Grace Jones serving as a rehabilitation specialist, chiefly for children with foot and leg problems.

The club inspired residents to spruce up their own properties by holding yard and garden contests, with the results always published in the newspaper. The women also transformed the Oakland Hotel grounds into a town park.

So the themes were set early on for this truly "civic" organization, such as working to make the area more attractive, safer, cleaner, and a better place for children to thrive. Supporting other organizations – such as the United States military, the arts community, and schools – is another common theme. These threads run throughout the entire 100-year fabric

Intel Foundation Lists Crellin Elem. Among Nation's Most Innovative

by Kyle Lantz

Crellin Elementary School is set to receive a $10,000 grant and $100,000 in donated equipment and professional resources from the Intel Foundation. This award comes after Crellin Elementary joined just six other schools from across the country to be named as one of the 2011 Intel Schools of Distinction.

Through this award, the Intel Corporation, which partners with sponsoring companies to distribute around $1 million in grants and awards each year, recognizes schools for the implementation of innovative math and science programs.

Crellin was chosen along with 17 other finalists to attend Intel's award ceremony last week (Sept. 20) in Washington, D.C., where winners were announced. Representing Garrett County at the ceremony were school system administrators and Crellin Elementary teachers, including the school's principal, Dr. Dana McCauley.

"It was really a humbling experience and a privilege to be able to join the other finalists in D.C.," McCauley stated. "We met with so many excellent educators and were inspired by all of their stories."

After a visit to Capitol Hill and a Tuesday-night gala event, Crellin Elementary was honored for its "extraordinary commitment to educational excellence and innovation," winning for its performance in mathematics.

"Improving math and science education is one of the critical issues we see facing the United States if it is to compete effectively in a global economy," says Wendy Hawkins, executive director of the Intel Foundation.

"It is encouraging to see examples of such excellence from across the country. These schools launch their students on a path to lifelong learning with programs that are rich, exciting and demanding."

The Intel Foundation chose its winners based on its criteria of extraordinary commitment to instituting 21st century teaching and learning environments, as well as the implementation of innovative programs that inspire students to excel in the areas of math and science.

Crellin Elementary has improved the learning experience of its students, who have gone from testing 40 to 100 percent proficient in math since 2004, by engaging them with innovative teaching methods that emphasize the process as much as the solution and allows them to draw their own conclusions.

Instead of sitting in classrooms and solely relying on text books, educators at Crellin Elementary routinely ask their students to apply math through projects that require them to perform tasks such as taking water or tree samples.

"We didn't want the kids to have the impression that learning math was all about getting the right answer," stated McCauley. "We wanted them to develop conceptual understanding, to draw their own conclusions. The hands-on teaching methods really started moving us in

House Destroyed By Fire Tuesday; Cause Unknown

The cause of a fire that destroyed a one-story wood-frame house in McHenry late Tuesday evening remains under investigation by the office of the Maryland State Fire Marshal.

Volunteers and equipment from the Deep Creek, Accident, Friendsville, and Oakland fire departments responded to the 10:26 alarm after a call was received from the owner of the residence, Robert Moats, located at 60 Ginseng Springs Lane.

The single-family dwelling was fully engulfed in flames upon the arrival of the first units; however, the blaze was brought under control in

Man Arrested On Numerous Sex Offense Charges

An Oakland man was arrested Tuesday by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on numerous sex offense charges.

James Henry Burns, 41, has been charges with 27 assorted counts of child abuse, second-degree rape, and other sexually based crimes. Charges stem from an investigation that was initiated on Sept. 26 by the GCSO after allegations were made that Burns was having an inappropriate relationship with a juvenile female that began in the late 1990s and continued through 2011.

After Burns' arrest, he was taken before a judge of the Garrett County District Court, who issued a bail in the amount of $100,000.

GC Commissioners Award Funding For After-School Progs.

For the third year in a row, the Board of Garrett County Commissioners has prioritized the need for after-school programming and have provided emergency funding to help keep programs operating in the communities of Accident, Grantsville, and Oakland.

"Many thanks go out to our new commissioners – Gregan Crawford, Bob Gatto, and Jim Raley," said Crystal Stewart, president/CEO Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families.

The Partners After School (PAS) programs are funded through the Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc./Local Management Board in collaboration with the Garrett County commissioners, Board of Education, Community Action Committee, GC Health Department, County United Way, and other partners.

"The PAS programs provide a safe, supervised, and enriching environment for children during the high-risk after-school hours when many parents are still working," Stewart said. "The programs offer comprehensive programming that focuses on academic achievement and school success, cultural enrichment, and positive youth development."

Over the past few years, the PAS programs have suffered devastating budget reductions. Previously, the Partnership/LMB offered

McHenry Water System Follow-Up Hearing Scheduled

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners will hold a follow-up hearing on the McHery Water System – Water Connection and User Fees and Connection Amortization Policy this Saturday, Oct. 1, at 9 a.m. in the Garrett College auditorium.

The event is scheduled to review and receive public commentary on proposed changes to the existing policy and to address questions on expansion of service to the water district.

The commissioners and GC Department of Public Utilities personnel have compiled answers to several questions that were presented during the initial public hearing on Aug. 27. These are available on the county government web site at garrettcounty.org.

Interested persons who may have questions on this issue are asked to attend the Oct. 1 hearing. For more information, one may call the DPU at 301-334-6983 or the county administrator or commissioners at 301-334-8970

RIBBON CUT FOR NEW MUSEUM – The new Transportation Museum of the Garrett County Historical Society was officially opened and dedicated during a special ceremony held Saturday afternoon. Among the honored guests were the children of Howard and Audrey Naylor, as the majority of the funding for the new structure came from the Howard and Audrey Naylor Family Trust. Conducting the ribbon-cutting in the photo above are, from left, Lon Naylor, Bart Naylor, Michael Naylor, Tyler Lupis (grandson of Lon Naylor), and Beth Naylor Watson. Special tribute was also made to Robert Boal, president of the society, who has led the effort to bring the museum to reality. Pictured below with Lon Naylor, Boal holds the plaque and photo which honors him for his work. Approximately 250 people were present for the grand opening. CRELLIN ELEMENTARY NAMED AN INTEL SCHOOL OF DISTINCTION – The Intel Foundation recently named Crellin Elementary School as one of its 2011 Intel Schools of Distinction. This annual award recognizes schools for "implementation of innovative math and science programs." Crellin Elementary won for excellence in mathematics and was cited by Intel as "offering students a rigorous, challenging, and engaging program." The school will receive a $10,000 grant and $100,000 in donated equipment and services. See story for details. Pictured above, from left to right, are: Barbara Baker, assistant superintendent; Crellin Elementary teachers Sandra Coluzzi, Amanda Mayne, Karen Gilpin, Dana McCauley (principal), Carrie Hordubay, and Linda Stephens; Tom Carr, BOE president; and Carlos Contreras, Intel representative.

100 YEARS OF SERVICE AND FELLOWSHIP – A century has passed since the birth of the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, and while many things have changed with the times, others have stayed much the same. The initial inspiration of the club was to help, and to enjoy the process of helping. This continues today in the club, with members gathering monthly to visit and chat, to share food, to laugh together, and also to set about the work of aiding and assisting their neighbors. The two in the first photo are unidentified members at a 1940's tea. In the other photo are Dorothy Tuel and Beverly Maynard at a recent club function. of the club, most decidedly continuing today.

Just as the club once sponsored Grace Jones to not only become educated in physical therapy, but to provide a platform for her to help thousands of Garrett County school children for many years, the club today continues to assist children through such projects as Warm the Children, together with this newspaper, helping to clothe hundreds of children in need each autumn.

And just as the 1920-something club made the health of the environment a priority, with very early reports of the group working to plant trees throughout the town and surrounding area, the organization has kept that up over the years, including a project during Oakland's sesquicentennial in 1999 that involved planting 150 saplings.

The club in 1931 made the planting of trees a priority. What follows is an excerpt from a report of activities in that year.

"Our meetings have shown an interest pledged to a common purpose, and we have become inspired with increased energy and disposition to continue in our work begun twenty years ago: to elevate and make better our community."

The report goes on to say that the club started out the year by planting 1,500 trees, covering two acres on the state property at Herrington Manor. The Boy Scouts, assisted by the state and district foresters of that time, did the actual work, the report notes. The conclusion states that "75% of these trees are not only living, but thriving."

Another common thread that has most definitely run consistently throughout the club's history is the meticulous act of recording every event, effort, and announcement. The club has kept constant and complete records in scrapbooks as a regular function. The earliest news reports cover nearly every aspect of the monthly meetings.

One such report, in the early 1930s, first includes information about a donation of $50 made "for the work of teaching mothers of little children who are afflicted with infantile paralysis how to properly massage and care for them."

That same article has a rather humorous conclusion:

"The following article was one of those read from the book 'The Business of Being a Club Woman,' and the women of the club have asked that it be republished in The Republican, as it contains good advice for any organization.

Ten Ways To Kill A Club

1. Don't go to meetings.
2. If you do go, go late.
3. If the weather doesn't suit you, don't think of going.
4. If you do attend a meeting, find fault with the work of the officers and members.
5. Never accept an office – it is easier to criticize than to do things.
6. Get sore if you are not appointed on committees, but if you are, don't attend committee meetings.
7. If asked by the chairman to give your opinion, tell her you have nothing to say. After the meeting, tell everyone how things should be done.
8. Do nothing more than absolutely necessary, but when members use their ability to help matters along, howl that the institution is being run by a clique.
9. Hold back on your dues, or do not pay any at all.
10. Don't bother about new members. 'Let Mrs. Brown do it.'"

As is true today, the membership obviously enjoyed a good laugh, and also knew of the usual issues that may arise among a small number of folks in any volunteer organization. However, the plague of lazy, ineffective members has not affected the Civic Club of Oakland on the whole, as the members, now numbering around 85, do indeed work hard and contribute, and continue to make a positive difference in the lives of Garrett Countians.

In the same 1931 report about the trees, the writer (who was Lottie M. Loar, president) stated that among many other activities, the club that year responded to an emergency call from "our Truant Officer and county nurse for clothing for girls of school age.

"We have made approximately 80 dresses and 40 undergarments. Women out of town as well as in helped club members in this work."

In the same response to need, the Civic Club of Oakland has been involved with Warm the Children since its inception about 14 years ago. The Republican newspaper was initially approached by Mack Stewart, a retired newspaper publisher, who had the brainchild for the project, which basically seeks donations via newspaper advertising (at only the newspaper's cost). The money raised is put into an account while children in need are identified. Then during late October and throughout November, these children and their parents are taken shopping to purchase new winter clothing and footwear.

The Civic Club jumped into the program in the very first year, with longtime member Bobbie Henderson and former member Bobby Andersen taking the reins first. The program has grown each year, with the newspaper staff and the club working together closely to bring it to fruition. Last year more than 430 local children were served. Members Betty Ellington, Ellen Fritz, Beverly Maynard, and Dorothy Cathell are the leaders for the club in this effort, but many members serve as volunteer shoppers throughout the program. So the legacy of helping area children has been a constant for 100 years.

The organization has planted seeds other than those of trees. The drive to arrange for a public library in the early years resulted in nothing less than the Ruth Enlow Library system of Garrett County. The members in the late teens worked tirelessly for the national right to vote, and those members were among some of the first in the country to go to the polls.

The Junior Woman's Civic Club of Garrett County was born of the organization, branching off in the 1960s.

The women worked to restore and preserve Washington Spring in Oakland, an important landmark not only of the town, but of the country.

More seeds are planted every single year as the club organizes, coordinates, and hosts the annual Autumn Glory Festival Antique Show and Sale. This event brings in money that the club then donates to multiple local organizations and groups. The club invites representatives to a meeting to make a "pitch," and members listen to upwards of 35 spokespersons. After discussing and voting on these allotments, the club makes donations to all of them.

Each year the club hosts an art contest for local school students, giving these students the opportunity to move on into region and state contests. The members also put together hundreds of "ditty bags" each year for the area's military veterans.

Another annual effort by the members is the compilations of a "publicity book," which is far more complicated and detailed than its scrapbook predecessors. The publicity book is nothing short of a work of art.

Having become a member of the General Federation of Women's Clubs (GFWC) in 1916, the local group has had ties with the state and national GFWC for nearly a century. The publicity book is a different, more successful direction."

"Crellin proved to be a really good example of what education should and can be," explained Carlos Contreras, Intel representative.

"They've integrated their outside environment to personalize education for their students. What they have done is an excellent application of real-world learning – not a boring memorization process, but a good use of surrounding resources to engage students. We visited the site and found it to be an extraordinary place, a jewel of the [Garrett County] community."

This new approach began while Principal McCauley was attending doctorate classes at West Virginia University.

She began discussing teaching methods with one of her doctoral advisors, Dr. Sandra Atkins, who eventually came to Crellin Elementary to instruct its teachers in the process of educating through a more conceptual, inquiry-based, and interdisciplinary approach to mathematics.

"Teachers really benefited from watching Dr. Atkins instruct," said McCauley.

"The kids really stepped up as well. They believed in the new process and put in the time to make it work. Everyone – parents, WVU, members of the community – gave us so much support."

In addition to the $10,000 grant from Intel, Crellin Elementary will receive an award package that includes curriculum materials, professional development resources, hardware, and software from sponsors BrainHoney, BrainWare Safari, Dell, Knowledge Delivery Systems, I-CAN, LanSchool, Pearson, SAS, and SMART.

McCauley hopes these donations benefit the Garrett County school system as a whole.

"A lot of these things we can share, such as some of the software we're set to receive. We'll have a keynote speaker come, and it would be much more beneficial to have that expert speak in a larger venue."

Though proud of its accomplishments thus far, Crellin Elementary shows no signs of slowing down. In fact, the school will be eligible to win an Intel Foundation award again in three short years.

"We don't want to be judged on a test score or an award alone," said McCauley.

"The best part about all of this is that our kids can apply math and make connections. In D.C. we felt a sense of pride and were definitely inspired, but we know we can be better. We're constantly restructuring classes and methods and want to continue engaging children."

In the end, the experience with Intel may prove beneficial in more than a monetary sense. Crellin Elementary is currently planning to send one of its teachers to visit another of the finalist schools in Kansas to borrow from its agricultural-based program.

Oakland Man Arrested On DUI, DWI Charges

Garrett County sheriff's deputies arrested an Oakland man following a single-vehicle accident on Oakland Sang Run Road Wednesday.

Further investigation into the accident revealed that Nathan Thomas Parsons, 19, was reportedly driving under the influence when he swerved to miss a deer in the roadway, causing his vehicle to strike an embankment before coming to rest. He was charged with DUI, DUI per se, DWI, failing to control speed to avoid a collision, and driving in violation of a license restriction.

Taken To GCMH After Truck Rolls Several Times

Oakland Driver Injured After Losing Control Of Vehicle

An Oakland woman was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a single-vehicle accident Monday morning.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to Third Street, Oakland, at approximately 11:30 a.m. Investigation revealed that Esther Householder, 75, had been traveling south, when she lost control of her vehicle and struck a sign pole in a private parking lot.

Householder was taken by Southern Rescue Squad to GCMH. Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene. No charges were filed.

Two-Vehicle Wreck Sends Two To Garrett Memorial

Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to Garrett Highway in the area of U.S. Cellular on Wednesday for a two-vehicle accident with injuries.

Investigation revealed that Nancy Lee Riggleman, Oakland, was turning north onto Garrett Highway, when she failed to yield right of way to an oncoming vehicle driven by Michael Dale Hauser, who was southbound. They collided in the intersection.

Riggleman and her passenger were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad. Hauser refused treatment and was not injured. Charges are pending.

Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the evening scene.

Woman Arrested On Theft And Firearm Charges

An Oakland woman was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies Sunday morning on the strength of a warrant that stemmed from the theft that occurred in early September.

Vana Sue Gank, 27, reportedly removed a handgun from an Oakland residence while visiting the victim of the theft. Detectives later discovered that Gank had pawned the gun at a shop in Frostburg. She was charged with theft under $1,000 and illegal possession of a regulated firearm. She was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

Our Response Is... Huh?

It has been less than a month ago since this column focused upon the financial straits of the U.S. Postal Service, noting that the agency is facing an $11 billion deficit for the current year. The editorial strongly suggested that a major restructuring is needed if the USPS is to survive, and acknowledged that some of that restructuring is now on the table (closing post offices, laying off 110,000 employees, etc.)

The expanding use of the Internet for both communication and billing has resulted in about a 25% reduction in the volume of mail. Dealing with that kind of monetary loss is a challenge even for the most efficient operations, however, as also noted in the previous column, labor and union issues, such as salaries, benefits, and pensions, are also a major key in breaking the USPS bank.

The intent of this corner today is not to simply restate all that which appeared in the Sept. 8 editorial, but to note another bit of news that appeared this week concerning the postal service which seems to strongly reinforce the concept of gross inefficiency within the agency.

A story released Wednesday by the Capital News Service centered on a rally of postal workers in Baltimore to support a bill that would grant the agency access to the $21 billion that is sitting in its retirement fund. To date it is mandatory that the agency funds pensions many years in advance. However, allowing access to the money now, according to some lawmakers, is simply kicking the proverbial can down the road, and would result in an unfunded liability of nearly $100 billion by the year 2017.

The story also reported the proposed closing of four USPS processing centers in Maryland, including the one in Cumberland. These are in addition to the closing of the Frederick processing and distribution facility already scheduled for the end of the year.

But the real kicker is the final sentence of the story, which seems to speak volumes. In referring to the aforementioned center closings, a spokesperson for the USPS said that the closings "would not affect mail delivery." It's worth writing it again – the closings would not affect mail delivery.

About the only response this writer can think of is "Huh?!"

"I USED TO PRAY FOR HOPE and CHANGE... NOW, I JUST HOPE SOMEBODY WILL GIVE ME SOME CHANGE."

To the Editor:

This year, 30 New York City children found out once again just how special summer is in western Maryland. Fresh Air Fund hosts, volunteers, and local supporters dedicated their time and efforts to help these inner-city youngsters experience simple summertime pleasures, including afternoons of swimming, fishing at sunset, and roasting s'mores over a campfire.

None of this would be possible without Alice Orendorf, your local Fresh Air Fund volunteer leader, who works throughout the year to make sure host families and children have the opportunity to enjoy memorable summertime experiences together. I invite you to join Alice and the local Fresh Air Fund committee to help spread the word about the wonderful opportunity of hosting next summer.

The Fresh Air Fund, an independent, not-for-profit agency, has provided free summer vacations to over 1.7 million New York City children from low income communities since 1877. For more information on how you can help to continue this wonderful tradition of volunteering, please call Alice Orendorf at 301-245-4326 or go online to www.freshair.org.

Sincerely,
Jenny Morgenthau

To the Editor:

For many years Relay For Life has provided Garrett County a way to fight back against cancer and work toward finding a cure. Every year we create teams, hold fundraisers and spend one night – 12 hours – walking around a track until we feel as though our feet are going to fall off!

But we don't mind, because we know we are making a difference! We are raising money for the programs in our county, such as Look Good, Feel Better, Road to Recovery, and Reach to Recovery. These programs help cancer patients and their families through the cancer journey and provide them with hope and support.

I can remember participating in Relay For Life as a little girl growing up in Garrett County. My most vivid memory is the number of people who were there. However, we have seen our committee [illegible] smaller. We have a small committee, which honestly just can't do it all, even though we try with all of our might. The committee members pour their blood, sweat, and tears into this event!

So, not as an ACS staff member, but as a Garrett County citizen, I am reaching out to all of you to ask for your help. We need more people to help our committee make the 2012 Relay For Life the best and biggest one yet! We want to get back to the way it was years ago when there wasn't a spot left on the field, and the track was filled with walkers all night long!

I have decided to bring Relay For Life interest rallies to different parts of our community. Do you want to get involved, make a difference, and help Garrett County fight cancer? Then please come to one of our interest rallies and learn about all the exciting opportunities with Relay For Life! The dates and locations are as follows:

Friday, Oct. 7, 3:30-5 p.m., Grantsville Library;

Tuesday, Oct. 11, 3:30-5 p.m., Kitzmiller Town Hall;

Wednesday, Oct. 12, 3:30-5 p.m., McHenry, Garrett College Continuing Ed., Room 203;

Thursday, Oct. 13, 3:30-5 p.m., Oakland, Ruth Enlow Library;

Thursday, Oct. 20, 3:30-5 p.m., Friendsville, Northern Rescue Squad building.

So join me, join your community, and help us in creating a world with less cancer and more birthdays! We promise you won't be disappointed!

Sincerely,
Brittany Milbourne-Friend

To the Editor:

I write as the executive director of the River Management Society, whose mission is "to support professionals who study, protect, and manage North America's rivers. Dedicated to holistic river management, our diverse membership includes federal, state, and local agency employees, educators, engineers, researchers, and organizations."

I have learned that a group of citizens has requested a lower rule band governing the release of water to the Upper Youghiogheny River from Deep Creek Lake so that they can further enjoy their lakefront property. I have not seen or heard the precise number of residents who have made this request, but understand it is "a handful."

I also write as a citizen of Maryland. I have been kayaking since 1979 and have visited Friendsville several times annually for 30 years from Cincinnati, Atlanta, Denver, N.C., Easley, S.C., and now Takoma Park.

The Upper Youghiogheny has been a constant in my life as a personal and work-related treasure. During visits this past summer, I've noticed several dozen vehicles representing 75-100 paddlers, and one to two dozen rafts carrying commercial passengers. On an average day trip to the Upper Yough, I spend $75 on beverages, snacks, dinner at the Riverside Hotel, and gas for my return trip home to Takoma Park. I try to spend it in Friendsville, too, to support the town whose resources and residents have become an important part of my life. However you do your math regarding whitewater's impact on the economy, those who visit specifically because of the water in the river are important to the town, as they have been for decades.

Changing the water level required in Deep Creek Lake to serve 10, 20, or 30 residents seems petty compared with maintaining whitewater releases for thousands of annual visitors and the businesses in Friendsville, as well as nearby Grantsville, McHenry, Oakland, and Cumberland that have become both primary and secondary homes for Upper Yough paddlers. I can see why lake owners might be sad to experience the impact of our changing environment. However, from a management standpoint, the resources should meet habitat and recreation agreements, arduously achieved a few years ago, recognizing the tremendous importance of our aquatic friends and the impact of river users.

I am sure the forum in which the rule band is being discussed will consider the national notoriety of the Upper Yough as one of the Mid-Atlantic's treasured whitewater runs in order to choose steps wisely.

Risa Shimoda
Executive Director

Takoma Park

To the Editor:

Ten years ago we purchased a vacation home a few miles from Friendsville. The main reason we selected the property was so that I could regularly paddle the Upper Yough River. We have convinced 11 of our friends to also buy property in the area for the same reason. This summer I have paddled the river 20 times because of the reliable Friday, Saturday, and Monday releases.

If they start to limit the weekend releases from the dam, we may have to move out of the area. I'm not sure what my friends will do if this request by PRB is acted upon. We shop at S&S grocery, which we really like, and frequent the restaurants in Friendsville and the McHenry area. These businesses will certainly experience a loss in revenue if this request limits the releases from the dam.

We support your editorial, which explains that it would be a big, negative economic impact to Friendsville to restrict the Deep Creek Dam releases during drier years. Most of the releases from the dam this year were for generating power during times of high-power demand during the warm spells in the D.C. area. The dam exists to make money for the power company, but also to protect the river and fish population when necessary.

The past agreements the power company made with the paddling community would become meaningless if they could no longer follow the existing rule curves.

So any support you can give to convince the PRB that a few property owners at the top of the [illegible] have more rights than the thousands [illegible] water related [illegible] is greatly appreciated.

To the Editor:

I am writing to applaud your recent editorial highlighting the incredible value that recreational and fisheries releases bring to the Friendsville region, and the equally large threat posed by efforts to curtail those releases. I am the executive director of American Whitewater, a national non-profit river stewardship organization. My organization has co-managed both the put-in and the take-out for the Upper Yough for many years because we know how important this river is to the regional paddling community and the regional economy.

We were also involved in negotiating the thoughtful and inclusive current state permit for the management of Deep Creek Lake, the reservoir that provides flow releases that are critical to support paddling and angling on the river. These negotiations carefully weighed all trade-offs and resulted in a balanced permit that is significant for power generation, homeowners on the reservoir, and the many paddlers and paddling related businesses based in and around Friendsville. Now, certain stakeholders involved in those negotiations want to turn off the tap, drying up the river, the fish, and the river economy.

As an illustration of the economic benefits of whitewater recreation, I want to share data from two economic impact studies conducted on other eastern rivers. On the Nantahala River in western North Carolina, outfitting and other adventure-based tourism in the Nantahala River Gorge contributed a total of $85 million to the local economy. In terms of employment, the Nantahala River Gorge created and maintained 1,061 jobs to the regional economy. On the Gauley River in Summersville, W.Va., American Whitewater hosts Gauley Festival on the third weekend of September. Gauley Festival generates $1.1 million spent in the local economy by festival participants during that one weekend and is responsible supporting 19 local jobs.

The current permit is the product of a collaborative process, is well balanced, and works. In low-water years, paddlers, the power company, and the homeowners on the reservoir all share the pain equally. And even in those low-water years, the permit provides vast benefits for all three groups. Keep the permit as it is, or risk the loss of adventure-based tourism opportunities the river brings.

American Whitewater agrees with your paper's assessment that economic destruction of one of your towns, and the loss of whitewater recreation and trout fishing in the Youghiogheny River, simply cannot be part of the solution to lake levels.

To the Editor:

I recently learned of the possible change in the operating rules for whitewater and trout releases on the Upper Yough. I know this issue stems from the dozens of landowners on some of the shallow back coves of Deep Creek Lake, and can understand their concerns. However, it's difficult to believe that these individuals were totally unaware of the fluctuating lake levels when they purchased their properties and that they now are demanding changes in an operating rule band which has been in place for years.

According to some estimates, the altering of the release schedule during drought years would allow for only an extra week or two of pleasure boating in the affected coves. The consequences of this change would, however, affect hundreds of businesses and individuals depending on the income and recreation these releases provide.

I for one have been fishing and kayaking on the Upper Yough for the past 25 years, and even purchased a home in the area so that I can retire to one of the most incredible locations in the United States. Many others who kayak and fish the Upper Yough nearly every weekend, many of whom have also bought homes near the Upper Yough, share my opinion of the area.

Please consider all the options before changing a recreation system that has encouraged tourism and business development in your area over the past decades.

Sincerely,
Robert Alexander

To the Editor:

I saw a copy of your editorial in The Republican concerning the recent actions of the Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board (PRB). I wholeheartedly agree with the sentiments expressed in the editorial – that the proposal to increase the low-water limit for Deep Creek Lake is shortsighted and will do little to alleviate the perceived problems. In contrast, the loss of recreational amenity and fish habitat downstream has the potential to be severe in drought years. This will, of course, negatively impact on the economy of Friendsville.

Although I live in Canada, I have made the journey from Ottawa to Friendsville and the upper Youghiogheny several times in recent years, always during the fall release period. The Upper Yough is justifiably well regarded in both the domestic and international whitewater paddling communities. It remains one of my favourite rivers in the U.S., and is always worth the travel. I have met many good folks while canoeing and rafting down this whitewater gem, and in the surrounding region.

Since the distance I have to travel is quite considerable, the scheduled water releases are vital – I cannot just pop over and see if there is some water in there! I am very grateful for all the hard work that makes these releases possible – the result of negotiations between the hydro company and various user groups, including American Whitewater and fishing interests.

Many thanks for bringing this issue to the attention of the public. It would be a shame if the preferences of a few property owners on Deep Creek Lake are allowed to have such far-reaching consequences for so many other people, both locally and from farther afield.

To the Editor:

I am writing to applaud the editorial published September 22. Releases from the Brookfield Hydro facility have had a tremendous impact upon my life, as well as on Garrett County.

I first paddled the "Upper Yough" with great trepidation as a kayaker in 1976, as a kayaker's rite of passage, and still manage to paddle it a couple times a year. I have noticed that some of those I met on the Upper Yough now live, work, and employ people in Garrett County. Expert paddlers Dave and Mimi Demaree started Demaree Inflatable Boats in Friendsville, and Don Morin chose Garrett County to start Garrett Container Systems.

Paddling the Upper Yough introduced me to Garrett County. It is not a coincidence that the county is part of the territory I serve as a business broker. I have enjoyed working with businesses in the area and have been impressed by the economic impact provided by tourism and the high level of support for tourism that has developed over the years.

The Upper Youghiogheny is a very beautiful river and an incredible natural resource. The scheduled releases from the Brookfield Dam have transformed this natural resource into a financially viable whitewater river. Branded as a "world-class whitewater destination," it has become an economic resource that draws tourists to Garrett County from all over the world.

In addition to whitewater rafting, the Upper Yough has become a mecca for highly skilled whitewater kayakers and canoeists, some of whom choose to train on the Upper Yough for international competition. Regular releases on the Upper Yough, and its proximity to the Savage River, helped Maryland to win the bid to host the 1989 World Whitewater Slalom Championships on the Savage River in 1989. The effort in 1989 led to the construction of the incredible Adventure Sports Center International whitewater course in McHenry and the return of the Whitewater World championships to Maryland in 2014.

As a board member of the Greater Grantsville Business Association, I have enjoyed meeting Sen. George Edwards, Delegate Wendell Beitzel, and Nicole Christian, executive director of the county chamber. They have all been instrumental in supporting the successful bid to bring the world championships to Garrett County in 2014. In addition to competing on the ASCI course, paddlers from all over the world will also look forward to the regular releases that have transformed the beautiful Youghiogheny River in Maryland into the world renowned "Upper Yough."

To the Editor:

I really appreciated your recent editorial supporting balanced water management on the Upper Youghiogheny River. This river means a lot to me. Like many whitewater enthusiasts, I paddle in groups of individual sportsmen, without the services of a guide.

My first run on the Upper Yough was in the spring of 1972. I got scared and walked out. I came back a month later and did the entire stretch. For many years after that, I regularly made the 4½-hour drive from my home in Philadelphia to Friendsville. Soon I was bringing friends to the river. My wife is also a kayaker; we were married in Swallow Falls State Park and held our reception at Deep Creek Lake. We now live in Bruceton Mills, W.Va., and paddle here regularly. We also visit the lake to eat dinner or visit with paddling friends who own property nearby.

The Upper Yough is one of the finest expert whitewater runs in the country and one of the few with reliable summer water. It's quite popular, and the town of Friendsville has many businesses catering to whitewater enthusiasts. Several years ago kayakers and outfitters joined the Town of Friendsville, Trout Unlimited, American Whitewater, and Brookfield Power to develop new regulations governing operations at the Deep Creek hydroelectric plant. The permit allows profitable operation, provides a healthy river environment for trout, and allows regular whitewater releases. As requested, the lake's minimum level was left unchanged from previous years. Since then the river has seen increased use. All stakeholders, including paddlers, suffer in times of drought. It's only fair.

This past winter the Deep Creek PRB, after complaints from property owners on the lake's backwaters, demanded that the lake be kept a foot higher than the agreed-upon permit. These properties have always fronted on shallow water. After a full hearing, they were turned down. Now they're once again threatening the whitewater and fisheries releases. Granting these requests will eliminate over 2/3 of the summer whitewater releases. Without scheduled summer water, visitation will drop steeply, which will devastate river runners, rafting outfitters, fishermen, and Friendsville businesses.

This past Monday I paddled the Upper Yough with three friends. We're all over 60 and have run the river many times. We never tire of it, and believe that younger paddlers should have the same opportunities to enjoy the river that we had. If the water is managed fairly, they will.

To the Editor:

I am writing with concern for the future of the Upper Youghiogheny Deep Creek hydro relicensing. The Upper Yough is approximately 45 minutes' driving distance from my home. I am an avid whitewater kayaker and fly fisherman.

The Upper Youghiogheny is a "gem" to local kayakers and fisherman alike. This river, because of the frequent hydro releases, provides phenomenal recreational opportunity to not only me, but to many Morgantown residents and WVU students. It has allowed me to enjoy some of the greatest whitewater experiences that I have had my five years of kayaking.

The river brings great people from all over the country and even the world to gain similar experiences. Because of the attraction of the Upper Youghiogheny, I have had the opportunity to meet some of the best kayakers around, who have helped me immeasurably. I have learned not only the skills to run technical rivers, but also the safety techniques that make kayaking truly enjoyable and responsible.

In addition to kayaking the river, I have also had the opportunity to fly fish the Upper Yough for trout. I have been able to bring friends and family from all over to enjoy one of the most beautiful and challenging trout streams in the region.

While in Friendsville, we've also enjoyed food from the Jubilee Diner and friendships at Precision Rafting company.

While I can understand the lake residents' request for the increasing the height of the lower band rule, I truly believe that maintaining the current rule, which allows for releases that provide quality recreational opportunities on the Youghiogheny River, would be providing the greatest good to the greatest number of people.

Gratefully,
Aaron Barkhurst

To the Editor:

I live in New York City and for years have traveled regularly to Garrett County to kayak the Upper Yough. A few years ago I bought a cabin a few miles outside of Friendsville, in a development that consists almost entirely of kayakers, all of whom purchased their properties and built cabins there primarily for access to reliable, world-class whitewater throughout the summer. More kayakers are buying properties and building cabins there every year.

In the summer, my wife and kids stay at our cabin and I make the 5+ hour drive to Friendsville on weekends. I'm just one of many who travel comparable distances. The whitewater is that good. Without reliable releases throughout the summer, I'm one of many who couldn't continue to justify owning a cabin so far away.

Look at Friendsville on release days compared to other days. The amount of economic activity that the river brings is apparent, and the town can use the money. I understand there are a lot of stakeholders in the area with conflicting wants, and that balancing them is reasonable and appropriate for a public resource like the lake and river. However, each release brings hundreds of people that would not be there otherwise.

Raising the lower rule band would appease some property owners who are inconvenienced by lower lake levels, but it's hard for me to imagine that the benefits of doing so would be worth losing the economic activity those hundreds of rafters and kayakers bring to Friendsville and Garrett County.

Sincerely,
Chris Kirkman
New York, N.Y.

To the Editor:

Thank you for your clear-headed editorial regarding the PRB's deliberations on Deep Creek Lake's rule bands. As an avid whitewater kayaker, I understand the recreational value of the regular releases. The world-class rapids on the Upper Yough make for an extremely popular stretch of river and a truly unique opportunity for which people travel great distances.

All these people certainly must have a tremendously positive impact on the local economy. I drive from Pittsburgh almost every weekend to enjoy the whitewater, and while in Friendsville, I frequently eat a meal at one of the local establishments, shop for snacks, fill my gas tank, and sometimes buy a beer at the liquor store. Many of my friends who don't live as close as I do spend the weekend in the area, occupying campsites and hotels, and also spending money at the aforementioned businesses.

I will add that the Deep Creek area benefits from the whitewater community beyond just the Upper Yough. When there is sufficient flow on the Top Yough and other area creeks, many paddlers travel to the area for those. Most notable are the whitewater releases on the Savage River.

If you also consider the people who come to the area for the trout fishing, you have a significant economic mechanism in an area without a lot of other sources of income.

I say shame on those wealthy homeowners on Deep Creek Lake, many of whom are part-time residents, who have such a narrow vision of the world so as to see only their own inconvenience and are blind to the bigger picture.

When the facts are examined and it becomes evident to all that the impact of the releases, sediment, and water levels is minor, I hope that common sense prevails over selfish indulgence.

Thank you,
Steve Kroser

To the Editor:

The editorial in the September 22 edition of The Republican appears to have been written by "Chicken Little," being afraid that the sky will fall along with Friendsville becoming a ghost town and the upper Youghiogheny River turning into a cesspool of dead and dying fish. All of this the result of the Deep Creek Policy Review Board writing a letter to the secretaries of the Maryland Departments of Natural Resources and of the Environment.

Misleading, yes; truthful, no. Many pertinent facts seem to have been overlooked or omitted. First, Deep Creek Lake was established as a source of hydroelectric power in 1924. The hydroelectric plant is still operational under a contract with the current DCL owner, the state of Maryland. Since its inception, the hydroelectric contract allows the contractor to lower the lake level several inches during portions of the year to provide water to operate the turbines. Thus, every summer the lake level drops as water is used to operate the turbines.

Second, for several widely known reasons not identified in the editorial, the state modified the contract to allow water releases for whitewater rafting on the upper Yough. Garrett County has continued to expand its water and sewer systems to meet the needs of county residents; however, the sewer effluent ends up in the Yough, depleting the dissolved oxygen level required by trout that were stocked there. The state's solution was to allow additional water releases from the DCL dam. Both of these needs have been incorporated into the hydroelectric plant contract.

The DCL Policy Review Board is an advisory board mandated by state law. Its function is to advise the DNR secretary about concerns. Indeed, they have properly discharged their concern about lake-level lowering by bringing to the secretary's attention that the current contract needs critical and objective re-examination if it is to serve the needs of all of Garrett County's population's interests.

What the PRB needs is the support of all interested parties, not an editorial lacking pertinent facts. I challenge The Republican to examine the costs and benefits of DCL as it operates under the current contract. Where do the funds that support and maintain DCL and its facilities come from? Who benefits from the current system of support and maintenance of DCL and its facilities? In what ways could the balance of costs and benefits be improved?

To the Editor:

I have been kayaking the Yough from Swallow Falls to Friendsville since 1984. It is a wonderful river for advanced kayaking and rafting whenever the water is high enough to allow passage. I drive 105 miles from my home to Friendsville to kayak as often as possible, and since my retirement, that is 40 to 50 times a year. Obviously, this river is very important to me. During the summer months the reliability of water from Deep Creek makes the river nearly unique in the eastern U.S.

The operating rules for releases are the result of open negotiations between all of the users of the lake water: the land owners at Deep Creek, the whitewater community, especially the rafting companies, DCNR for maintaining the fishery and the hydro plant for generating electricity. All these stakeholders have a valid interest in using the water for their individual benefit, but they have to play well with others. They have to share.

I understand that some lake land owners whose land is in naturally and unavoidably shallow sections of the lake want to change the sharing agreement and take water from the other users to benefit themselves. Sometimes it doesn't rain enough for all stakeholders to get maximum benefit of the water. Last year especially, the lake was low in July, August, and September, and the water was used according to agreement to preserve the fishery at the expense of whitewater, power, and lake owners. That's the priority all parties have agreed to several times in the past when there were opportunities and negotiations to apportion the water.

Nothing I know about gives the lake owners a superior position on this. When it doesn't rain enough, everybody loses something. If we have a real drought, even the fish will lose. Do the lake owners want to purchase the water from the other users at a market price?

To the Editor:

I am the president of a large whitewater rafting and multi-sport outfitter based in Ohiopyle, Pa., and Friendsville. We offer adventures and rafting trips in seven states and 15 rivers, and have operated on the Upper Yough in Friendsville for over a decade. We employ a number of local river guides and a retail clerk at our Friendsville operation.

The Upper Youghiogheny rafting trip is a world-class day of whitewater, and it is right here in our Garrett County backyard. We believe that this resource has so much potential that we have invested heavily by purchasing the land that is the take-out for the river and a large building that was sitting empty in Friendsville. We have turned the empty building into a retail store and hope to build on the community's work to increase recreational opportunities (business opportunities) and create a thriving and vibrant town. We are proud to be a member of Friendsville's business community and wish to stay that way.

During the 2010 rafting season, our business suffered a 25% loss in Upper Yough dam releases because of the lake water permit rule band that I had agreed to in previous negotiations hosted by the Maryland Department of Environment. Meanwhile, the lake use numbers indicate a record year.

My business has been operating rafting trips for more than 45 years. I know that there will be some bad drought years along with good rainy years. All parties agreed to the rules that we operate by, and they were intended to fairly distribute the use of water, or lack thereof.

Our Upper Yough/Friendsville operation is a marginally profitable division of our business. We continue to operate it because of the high quality of the experience and resource. But if the Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board gets what it wants – raising lake levels for the benefit of cove properties – I will be forced to sell my Friendsville location due to the dramatic reduction in whitewater dam releases. That would be a sad day for Friendsville, my company, and the visitors whom we serve.

To change the rules in the middle of the game in such a way that will decimate one industry – whitewater rafting – while providing only a marginal enhancement of experience to a small population of users is unconscionable.

I hope this latest attempt to help cove property owners is averted.

To the Editor:

I write as a professional public land and water manager and planner residing in the arid West. Many times I have shared the story of the Yough, its residents, its anglers, boaters and partnerships when working with communities to overcome river conflict issues. I have traveled to the Yough multiple times to recreate and learn about the river and its well-thought partnerships.

One of the few key pieces of existing river recreation research existing while I was in graduate school was a study paid for by Maryland and completed by Alan Graffe and others at the Penn State University. One may be found at http://www.esm.versar.com/pprp/bibliography/2989-0001/2989-0001A.pdf

The methods and intensity of research and data collected in Yough studies was pioneering, and has helped shaped on-the-ground management of rivers throughout the country.

One of the most troubling behaviors that I work with professionally involves recent home/land purchasers, who have every chance to understand what they are buying, making demands for changing previously agreed to provisions for the good of the public being served existing prior to their property purchase. I liken it to a person who buys a cheap house next to the slaughter house (because it is next to it), who then demands the slaughter house be shut down for the purpose of real estate values and personal enjoyment of very few people.

I am a person who would discontinue river use if science proved that unacceptable ecological conditions were discovered and found to be directly and seriously related to the conditions of the river, riparian, flora, fauna and its inhabitants. Altering the successful management cooperation, economic impact, and public use opportunities for what has cumulatively benefited millions of the public over past decades for the purpose of accommodating well-resourced squeaky-wheel second-home owners (who knew what they were buying) is horrifying!

Please discontinue any pursuit of changing a system that hasn't proved broken, and keep the promises local, state, and federal elected officials and organizations agreed to over decades of collaboration.

Thank you for your consideration.

To the Editor:

Thank you for supporting the "lower band rule" on Deep Creek Lake that makes summer whitewater releases on the Upper Youghiogheny River possible. The Yough holds a special place in my heart. I am a whitewater kayaker who has paddled rivers all over North America, and also traveled to South America and Europe for kayaking. Whitewater paddling is my passion, but my professional obligations keep me in New York City, a location that is something of a whitewater "desert," especially in the summer, which is naturally the best time to be on the river.

For me and many other paddlers in the greater New York City region, the Yough is the nearest reliable destination for high-quality whitewater paddling. I typically make the 5- or 6-hour drive to the Upper Yough at least three times a year to enjoy summer releases on one of the finest Class IV rivers in the country, taking a long weekend in the area and spending money at local establishments in Friendsville and at Deep Creek Lake.

The Yough is a remarkable resource to river enthusiasts from all over the eastern United States. The releases provide clear economic and environmental benefits. I hope that Deep Creek property owners, local businesses, river users, and other stakeholders agree to preserve the lower band rule of the Deep Creek operating agreement.

rial that ran last Thursday.

I started Precision Rafting because of the regular dam releases from Deep Creek Lake; they were Monday through Friday. Over the years I have witnessed many changes to the lake, starting with the rule bands, the first permit, five different power companies, and lake-side development into low water coves. During the last 16 years we have gone through one permit with 52 days of scheduled whitewater releases to the current permit which allows approximately 56 days of scheduled whitewater releases. This new permit has been a tremendous boost to my business, as well as to the other businesses in Friendsville which cater to kayakers and rafters. I employ during the rafting season approximately 30 people.

If the PRB is allowed to push the issue regarding the lower rule band, we will lose about 70% of our release days in a drought year, which will put me out of business. Last year the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) held a tri-annual review of the permit at the request of the PRB. All stakeholders were invited to the review and were allowed to state their positions.

Many suggestions were made in regard to utilizing the water more efficiently, and allowing Brookfield Power to manage the lake levels and still maintain the lake level above the lower rule band this past summer was very successful. I would like to commend Brookfield on their ability to manage the lake with all of the stakeholder demands.

After the review, MDE determined that the PRB demands were too great and would harm too many of the stakeholders, and refused to change the lower rule band.

This year, before the lake level ever reached the lower rule band, the PRB wanted to revisit the release schedule pertaining to temperature enhancement (for the trout habitat) and whitewater releases.

This new letter to the MDE was supported by the county commissioners, chamber of commerce, and the local senate and house representatives. I feel that complying with the PRB request will destroy the economic and local impact of commercial rafting and kayaking on the town of Friendsville, as well as the commercial outfitters.

To the Editor:

I recently read a news article in which I learned of a "plan" that is being evaluated whereby the Deep Creek Policy & Review Board is urging the state to modify the water levels of Deep Creek Lake. In this "plan," a handful of landowners are selfishly asking that the lake levels be modified (raising the Lower Rule Band) so that for an additional five days per year, they will not be inconvenienced when putting their boats on the water.

The policy under consideration would financially destroy the town of Friendsville through significant decreases in water releases from Deep Creek Lake dam, for which many whitewater enthusiasts and anglers would stop visiting, not to mention the fact that the temperature changes in the Youghiogheny River would eliminate the presence of trout completely.

Make no mistake that this is about a handful of people whining about an inconvenience. The current lake level plan allows the town of Friendsville to survive and bring cash flow from far and wide from those who visit the town for its resources. I cannot understand for the life of me why these property owners (many of which are not local residents) cannot simply take their boats to one of the many public boat ramps for that one extra weekend per year.

To give an idea of what I personally bring to Friendsville (and Deep Creek), I live in Knoxville, Tenn., and make the migration to Friendsville several times per year for the whitewater releases. During those times, I eat in local establishments, patron the convenience store at the take-out, fill my gas tank a couple of times, visit the town festival, and either give money to the U.S. Forest Service to camp at Pine Mountain or to local hospitalities for an overnight stay. I will typically spend in the neighborhood of $200 per trip, and I average four to five trips per year. If you multiply this by the thousands of visitors each year, you have a very significant impact (+/- $1 million) on the local economies.

The town of Friendsville cannot afford to lose me or those like me supporting its economy. I beg the powers-that-be to very seriously weigh sending a town into poverty vs. appeasing a handful of landowners in Deep Creek coves who don't want to be inconvenienced for five days a year when it comes to putting their boats on Deep Creek Lake.

Karl Whipp

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to the editorial in The Republican on 9/22/11. I am the owner of Friendsville Discount Liquors. I have been in business for 27 years.

My business, as well as others in this small town, depend on the whitewater rafting to stay open and alive. The Youghiogheny River which flows through our town is basically the only attraction we have to draw people to our town. If the number of releases on the river were cut back, it would drastically affect our business to the point that we would have a rough time making it through the winter. I know that my business cannot survive if I do not have the whitwater rafting to depend on.

I hope that the people who have the power to make the decision to cut back on the water releases will stop and think what it will do to our town and our businesses.

To the Editor:

I am one of the thousands of whitewater enthusiasts who delight in the splendor of the Upper Youghiogheny River. I first ran the river in the spring of 2009. Ever since, I have made the 5-hour drive from my home in Richmond to paddle this magnificent river at least eight times a year during release season. Each time, I drive up Thursday night and stay at my friend's house on Water Street, then paddle Friday and Saturday. We frequent S&S Market in the mornings before the release to buy fresh goods for breakfast, and after paddling to get food for dinner. If it were not for the whitewater releases, my friend would have never bought his second home in Friendsville, and I would have never been drawn to this wonderful place. I love and cherish the small-town atmosphere and friendships I've made in Friendsville.

However, paddlers are not the only stakeholders in the releases, as evidenced by the involvement of Trout Unlimited, whitewater outfitters, and the town of Friendsville, along with Brookfield Power during the permitting process.

To each stakeholder, releases mean something different. Trout Unlimited supports the releases for water temperature and quality to provide a suitable habitat for the trout population. Brookfield benefits by generating hydropower to meet peak-demand periods. The outfitters and the town of Friendsville rely on the releases to bring customers who purchase goods and services.

While I recognize that the receding lake level during a drought season may be less than ideal for the affected back-cove property owners, one must not forget that the water will continue to evaporate and the lake level will drop regardless of whether water is released or not. Ultimately, the recent PRB's push to raise the lower rule band by a foot is short-sighted and will have a devastating effect on Friendsville, its outfitters, seasonal businesses, an entire population of trout, and the paddlers who rely on this incredible river for recreation. This is clearly a knee-jerk reaction to the aesthetic displeasure of a few property owners that will affect thousands of people. How any group could reasonably justify a decision to elevate the concerns of one group at the expense of so many others is beyond my comprehension.

The current permit and management plan equitably distributes the water to the majority of the interested parties and therefore need not be changed to suit the whims of a few.

To the Editor:

I commend you on your editorial supporting continued whitewater releases on the Upper Yough. I am a devoted whitewater kayaker who has been coming out to the Garrett County area for over 30 years.

I first experienced the Upper Yough from the viewpoint of being a passenger in a Precision Raft. After that I was hooked, and I have been coming back to kayak it for many years.

To me the Upper Yough is the lynch pin of a broad range of outdoors activities: boating/hiking/rafting throughout the region. The regular whitewater schedule for the river provides me a reassurance to invest in the 280-mile (one-way) trip to Garrett County. If other harder-to-catch rivers such as the Big Sandy or the Cheat are running at the levels I enjoy, I may run them instead of, or in addition to, the Upper Yough. Sometimes I'll go to the ASCI center in McHenry for practice runs.

But if the Upper Yough releases were not there or not reliable, I would be more reluctant to spend a day driving to this region. Although not a resident, I make the trip out there probably 10 times a year, have stayed in motels in Friendsville, Albright, and McHenry, camped in several nearby places, and frequent many of the restaurants in the region.

It is my hope that the interest of a few home owners will not be allowed to destroy the livelihood of Friendsville and the enjoyment of thousands of rafters and hard boaters.

Sincerely yours,
Peter Bernstein

To the Editor:

I am writing to express my serious concern over the possibility of any change to the "Lower Rule Band" of the Deep Creek hydro permit. I make the 3-hour round-trip drive from Ligonier, Pa., to Sang Run probably 30 to 40 times a year to kayak the nation's finest class IV whitewater run through the Wild and Scenic corridor between Sang Run and Friendsville. I bring friends visiting from all over the country to check out this classic paddling icon. I spend money on my trips as well, money for food, drink, gasoline, gear, dining, and sometimes lodging.

Please don't let a handful of property owners impact thousands of visitors' and locals' enjoyment of your area's premier natural/recreational/tourism resource.

To the Editor:

I read with interest your editorial of September 22 regarding the demands by property owners on Deep Creek Lake to cut back water releases into the Upper Youghiogheny River.

Unfortunately, this is not an unusual situation: a small but well-heeled, politically connected, and vocal minority pursuing its own interests at the expense of an entire community. The benefit even to that minority would be minimal, preserving higher lake levels only by a few days a year. The loss to the community would be costly indeed, as the rafters, kayakers, and fishermen who come to the area for the releases bring money to businesses and support jobs in the Friendsville area. As you can see from my e-mail address, I come all the way from Michigan to visit Friendsville, and I am not at all unusual.

Your editorial summarizes the situation quite well, and you have the thanks and the support of thousands of visitors to Friendsville from many states.

To the Editor:

I am writing to show support for the editorial I read titled "An Unreasonable Request ..." Until recently, I had been working and living around the Yough River in Garrett Country for almost 10 years. I worked for a nearby outfitter who depends on the fantastic and predictable releases Deep Creek hydro supplies for whitewater use of the rivers.

These releases not only give adventure seekers a destination, they also create a summer full of economic boom for the surrounding area. Every time I am in Friendsville during a release day, I can see people flowing in and out of stores, restaurants, hotels, and bars. The locals benefit, and so do the visitors. It would be a travesty for this to go by the wayside because a few vacation home owners have complained.

Even now, when I live much farther away then I would like, I plan specific trips back to the area to enjoy all the beauty and wonder Garrett County has to offer. Not only the whitewater industry is at risk, but also the fish environment and ability to continue to fish on this river. The fishing in this area is nothing short of fantastic, and the scenery around which you fish is amazing. Fish are also an important part of a thriving ecosystem. Please keep it this way.

Thank you for your time, and for printing great editorials such as this one.

Candace Weaver

To the Editor:

Thank you for your recent editorial, "An Unreasonable Request," standing up for kayakers, fishermen, and the town of Friendsville over the proposed threat to summertime water releases from Deep Creek Lake to the Upper Youghiogheny River.

I grew up 15 minutes downstream of Friendsville, on the other end of the Yough Lake in Confluence, Pa. I learned to kayak on the Yough with my father in the late '70s. Kayaking became my passion and I started competiting in kayak slalom. I raced on the U.S. National Team all over the world for almost 20 years, and am a three-time U.S. National Champion.

But the waters of the Yough brought me home, and in 1997, my husband and I started Immersion Research Inc. (IR) in Confluence. We manufacture, design, and sell gear for kayaking. We sell to over 300 retail stores across the country and all over the world.

Confluence is another small, Appalachian town where jobs are precious and tourism has revitalized the town. We could have started IR anywhere, but chose to live and work here because of the recreational opportunities that this area has to offer, with the seenie gorge and quality class IV whitewater of the Upper Yough being first and foremost on our list for reasons to live here. 90% of our staff live here for the very same reason, four of whom reside in Friendsville, solely to be elose to the Upper Yough and regularly paddle before and after work. It not only helps the tourism industry thrive in Friendsville, but this gem of a river has also contributed to a faetory in the area that provides dozens of full-time jobs! It is not a stretch to say that our business is here beeause of the proximity to the Upper Yough.

Therefore, I feel that I ean speak to the value of the releases from not just a purely recreational view, but from an economic one as well. I hope that the Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, and DNR will look beyond a few muddy coves and will consider the recreational benefit of the releases to the town of Friendsville, an the entire economy that has flourished because of them.

Sineerely,
Kara Weld, owner
Immersion Researeh
Confluence, Pa.

To the Editor:

I applaud your editorial (9/22) outlining the threat to the economy of Friendsville that would result if whitewater releases were curtailed, as is being sought by some residents of Deep Creek Lake.

I am a resident of Lake Placid, N.Y., and travel 1,200 miles round-trip three times a year to paddle the whitewater of the Upper Youghiogheny. I stay in the local hotels, buy gas, support restaurants and bring my friends to do the same. Each time I am there I stay for 3-4 nights.

I have been coming to Friendsville since 2001, and will continue to do so despite the long drive because of the outstanding opportunity to paddle quality whitewater. However, if the whitewater releases are stopped by some property owners on the back bays of Deep Creek Lake in order to raise the lake level, Friendsville will lose the economic support of whitewater lovers like me.

Brian Hart
Lake Placid, N.Y.

To the Editor:

Thank you for your editorial about the threat to the current agreement regarding whitewater and temperature releases from the dam at Deep Creek Lake.

I visit Friendsville several times per year, primarily to run the river during whitewater releases. While there I make it a point to support local businesses. My personal little "economic impact" usually includes a tank of gas and one of those great sandwiches from the grocery store.

Eeonomies and personal recreational preferences aside for a moment, the releases should continue as agreed because it's simply the right thing to do. I can understand the lake-front property owners wanting the lake levels maintained for an extra week or so. However, they don't own the water. We all do, and it needs to be shared in as fair a fashion as possible. The current agreement is a fair one and needs to be maintained.

In an average year there isn't enough water to satisfy everyone, so we all have to make some sacrifices. The power company is limited as to how much and how often it can generate power. The fish tend to have to settle for a trickle. We boaters have to settle for oecasional releases which are short in duration. (Frankly, we'd prefer longer releases which happen more often!) The lakeside property owners, well, they generally enjoy reasonably stable lake levels, which don't stick around quite as long as they'd like.

Please say "no" to the request to reduce the current releases.

Thank you,
Ken Dubel
Elkton, Va.

To the Editor:

I've been boating in the area for over a decade, and while I live in the D.C. Metro area, I spend more of my weekends (and my money) in Garrett County and Friendsville than I do in D.C. The reliability of recreational releases during what is normally a dry time for whitewater boaters pulls in people from hours away For me, it changed Garrett County from one of those places I passed through on my way to Pittsburgh, and turned it into a second home. We stay at a friend's eabin located 10 minutes from Friendsville, and routinely dine out at various places m the Friendsville and Deep Creek area. The highlight of our summer is paddling the river, and then enioying the Friendsville fiddle and banjo eontest, which we never would have known about without the recreational releases.

If summer releases are curtailed, people would no longer be traveling several hours and spending their money in Garrett County Instead, they'd take it out of state to Ohiopyle, Pa., or Fayetteville, W.Va., some of the few other places that have whitewater year-round.

As a kayaker from D.C., I have the gift of having a beautiful stretch of the Potomac I can paddle on in Great Falls and Mather Gorge, and it's 30 minutes from my house. Yet I consistently choose to drive three hours beeause the Upper Yough is a unique and beautiful place, and beeause the area that surrounds it is amazing. I go there to get away from the pettiness and hassle that often defines D.C. Bending to the will of a few land owners reminds me too much of that pettiness. It takes away from the majesty of the area, and more importantly, it takes away my second home.

Sincerely,
Chris Preperato

To the Editor:

I am writing in regard to the potential eutback of whitewater releases on the Upper Youghiogheny River in Garrett County

I have been a high school science teacher for 15 years, and I live 550 miles away in the Chicago land area in the state of Indiana. Over the last 15 years, I have been paddling whitewater rivers all over the Appalachian Mountain states, and I have been visiting the Upper Yough (as we call it) for 13 years. Of the hundreds of rivers I have visited, I can honestly say it's my favorite. The combination of beauty, easy-access points, great people, reliable water flows, and world-class rapids that are not extreme have kept me coming baek several times a year, especially during the summer months when I am not in school. I would be so upset if my favorite getaway from the hustle and bustle of the city "dried up" beeause of eurtailing releases of water from Deep Creek Lake.

My other concern is for the many town residents, raft eompanies, store owners, and other people reliant on the water, and how it would disrupt their livelihood. If the water release schedule is reduced, there will be a loss of many dollars upon which the people in Friendsville rely I always purchase gasoline, beer, gear, and food in Friendsville. In addition, I often times spend the night at the Yough Valley Hotel in town

The bottom line is that I try to put dollars into the Friendsville economy whenever possible. On any given release day, hundreds of boaters flock to the river and spend their money in Friendsville, too.

I hope this letter, and other paddlers' writings, have an impact on keeping reliable water flowing through this watershed. To many that river may not seem all that important, but to me, it's my peace, church, social gathering, exercise, beauty, adventure, recreation, and eseape from the city, all rolled into one magical place.

I hope the releases remain unchanged, but if they are altered, I ean paddle a river (that would not be my first ehoiee) in Tennessee, West Virginia, or Wisconsin... But the people who rely on the water flow could not pack up and head somewhere else as easily So as much as I would miss the reliable flows for the Upper Yough, I am writing on behalf of those who make a living off the river.

Thanks you,
Bob Heekler

To the Editor:

I moved to Friendsville from Baltimore over 30 years ago to be close to the Youghiogheny River for its world-class whitewater kayaking. I have seen the town grow around this wonderful resource through the years. Last year the Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board (PRB) tried to dramatically eut whitewater dam releases to Friendsville. Town residents wrote letters describing the damage to its economy as a result of that intent. MDE turned the PRB demands down in the end, and Friendsville breathed a sigh of relief.

This year the PRB wants to take most whitewater releases and eut all temperature enhancement releases, which would result in a massive trout kill from the dam outflow to Yough Lake. Making these euts ealeulates to be a total of 10-12 days of improvement on lake water levels, according to MDE data that the PRB has. The PRB also has Friendsville's plea letters. At an emergeney lake-level meeting last month, the PRB weighed Friendsville's eeonomy and the trout kill against the small benefit to coves. The coves won.

Earlier this spring I found out that our chamber of eommerce had adopted a position which deems it "necessary to revisit some of the terms of the water appropriation permit with an eye toward holding water levels in the lake higher." Mayor Schlosnagle and I attended a chamber board meeting with the purpose of asking them to reseind their damaging mandate. They denied us. We asked them to include Friendsville in any discussion prior to aetion on supporting higher lake levels. They agreed to do this. chamber board member Mr. Browning is also the chamber representative on the board of the PRB. Recently, Mr. Browning attended a chamber board meeting and in the same evening attended a PRB meeting where he, Commissioner Gatto, and others voted to demand higher lake levels. The chamber went back on its word to Friendsville. Friendsville views the chamber as a liability and ended its membership last week. We "fired" them, but extended them eonditions which would let us return to the fold.

The PRB has enormous resources, high-ranking politicians, a powerful lawyer, wealth, and apparently support of the chamber of commerce on this issue. Friendsville has friends with powerful words of truth.

Thank you, Editor, for bringing to light this grossly unbalanced approach to help cove property owners through the destruction of so much Garrett County modern heritage.

To the Editor:

I write in support of your recent editorial in The Republican regarding your coneerns about the Deep Creek Policy and Review Board's effort to change the lower rule band on Deep Creek Lake and thus significantly reduee the number of whitewater releases of the Upper Youghiogheny River

I am a whitewater kayaker and visit Garrett County almost every weekend during the summer to take advantage of the scheduled releases. Although I am not a Garrett County resident, access to the Youghiogheny River directly influeneed my decision to purchase a vacation home in nearby Preston County five years ago.

When staying in my nearby home in Preston County I not only take advantage of the whitewater releases, I also visit many of the state parks, eat at local restaurants, and purchase goods and services in Garrett County A reduction in the number of

Author's Life Story May Be Published In Reader's Digest

Grantsville resident Sue Smoot's 150-word life story is one of several being considered for publication in an upcoming issue of Reader's Digest magazine.

Smoot's story is currently available for viewing at facebook.com/ReadersDigest. Local residents can show support by voting for her story or any others they like on the site.

Her story is as follows:

"Starting Over"
by Sue Smoot

On October 23, 2010, I rushed out the door on my way to attend a seminar in a nearby town. Little did I know that would be the last time I would close that door.

A fire destroyed everything I owned that day. Family photos, videos, and 40+ years of material possession were all gone. Needless to say, I was devastated. I was alone with no money and no family near by. All that remained were the clothes on my back.

My loss spread quickly through my small town and I was brought to tears many times as even strangers came to my aid.

I may never recover from my loss financially and I know that I will never forget the day of the fire, but I will forever remember the days that followed because of the kindness of strangers.

"This is all part of the Reader's Digest continual effort to enrich and simplify Americans' lives," said a magazine spokeswoman about the life stories. "This particular project – 'Your Live. . .The Reader's Digest Version' – celebrates the launch of the new book Life . . .The Reader's Digest Version, which is also the first of a new series, creating a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity for people's personal stories to be widely read and for the opportunity of one story to be published in Reader's Digest to its more than 30 million readers, plus be the recipient of a major cash award. Several runner-up stories will also receive attention and cash prizes."

Stories will be voted on by readers, and winners will ultimately be selected by Reader's Digest editors. Americans can vote for and submit 150-word stories about lessons, simple advice, funny moments, and other life stories at facebook.com/ReadersDigest.

Frostburg Museum Exhibit To Include Local Artists' Work

The Frostburg Museum is currently hosting a multimedia exhibition titled "Anything Goes," featuring the work of Western Maryland Watercolor Society (WMWS) members, which include artists from Garrett County. The exhibit is on display now and will remain so until Nov. 1.

An artists' reception and award presentation will be held on Saturday, Oct. 1, from 5 to 8 p.m., and is free to the public. Refreshments will be served and guests are invited to meet and speak with the artists.

The Frostburg Museum is located at the corner of Hill and Oak streets in Frostburg. It is open Tuesday through Saturday from 12 to 5 p.m. Artwork will be available for viewing during that time, and admittance to the museum is free, although donations are appreciated, a spokesperson said.

The WMWS was formed to allow watercolor enthusiasts in the western Maryland region to share common interests and explore new directions in watercolor painting, the spokesperson said. The exhibit will show works of local artist members, as well as some from Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

The show will feature watercolor paintings along with other media such as oils, acrylic, color pencils, pottery, and fiber arts.

The juror for the exhibit is Larry Imes, who received an art degree from Frostburg State University with concentrations in painting and pottery. Imes lives in his studio home and works in many media. He is also a featured artist in the Mountain Maryland Art Sale and Tour.

For more information, persons may contact Garry Ritchie, curator, at 301-689-1195 or by e-mail at FrostburgMuseum@Verizon.net.

The museum is also on the web at FrostMuseum.Allconet.org, and can also be found on Facebook, LinkedIn, and Twitter.

The Museum Gallery is supported in part by the Allegany Arts Council, and is a member of the Allegany County Chamber of Commerce.

TERRA ALTA

LIBRARY

National Friends of Library Week will be observed Oct. 16–22. The Terra Alta Civic Club will celebrate its 40th birthday and will have members present throughout the week to speak about their club's happenings, past and present, at the library. The Civic Club has always been a sponsor of the library.

Teen Read Week is also Oct. 16–22, when teens will be encouraged to read novels and other illustrated materials, seek out creative books just for the fun of it, and relax in their library. Several new books were purchased for the Summer Reading Program for teens and young adults. Favorite authors selected were L.J. Smith, P.C. Cast, Charlaine Harris, and Jenny Nimmo. This is a free weeklong event.

The younger readers have new chairs to sit on and a small recliner. There are also new toys, puzzles, and games to enjoy. These items have been purchased with monetary donations.

Past donors of books, periodicals, puzzles, tapes, etc., have been Linda Wilson, Doug and Pat Auvil, Angela Whitlow, Nancy Hoffman, Elizabeth Sypolt, Nan Peters, Dorothy Freeland, Lawrence Sypolt, and Harvey Gallin.

Because of the lack of extra storage space, the library will not accept book sale donations until the first of 2012. All donations have always been greatly appreciated.

Pratt Cemetery Group To Hold Its Fall Meeting

The Pratt Cemetery Association will hold its fall meeting on Saturday, Oct. 8, at the Bird's Creek Community Center beginning at 7 p.m. The care, upkeep, financial aspects, and any other issues that may arise about the cemetery will be discussed.

During the April meeting, discussions were held concerning a survey of the cemetery and the marking of family plots during the summer months.

"We hope to have information regarding the completion of the survey and, perhaps, have a completed map with the family plots identified," a spokesperson said. "Please attend this important meeting and bring a snack to share with other meeting attendees."

Those who have questions prior to the October meeting or wish to contribute to the care of the Pratt Cemetery may send inquiries or checks to Pratt Cemetery Association, P.O. Box 232, Newburg, WV 26410.

Huskies Break Tied Score In Second Half To Defeat Falcons

A third-quarter touchdown run by Josh Mason proved to be the game-winner for the Northern High School varsity football squad last Friday evening, as the Huskies earned their first win of the season, a 21-14 victory over the Frankfort High Falcons.

A highlight of the contest, and one that was designated by Northern head coach Phil Carr as a primary key to the Huskies' gaining the win, was going 7-for-9 on third-down situations.

Mason, who recorded three touchdowns and rushed for 120 yards on 17 carries, put the Huskies on the board first, as he capped his team's initial drive with a 45-yard touchdown run on a third down play at the 8:16 mark of the first quarter. The run for the two-point conversion was no good.

Mason concluded the next Husky drive with a 9-yard TD run, and Josh Baker ran successfully for the conversion to give Northern a 14-0 lead with 2:20 to play. The drive featured a long pass from Husky quarterback Chris Murdock to Kyle Rosenberger on a third-and-five play.

The Falcons seemed well on their way to the end zone on their second drive, but Rosenberger came up with a big intereception in the end zone on a fourth-and-seven from the Northern 12-yard line.

The second quarter, however, belonged to the Falcons, who answered the Huskies point-for-point to knot the score at 14-14 for the first half of action.

Cole Smith cut the Husky lead to 14-6 with a 15-yard touchdown run at the 4:36 mark. The kick for the conversion was no good.

The score was then tied when Marcellus Hockaday hauled in a 43-yard touchdown pass from Smith, and Damian Morgan ran for the conversion just 1:09 before halftime.

The visitors positioned themselves to take the lead in the third quarter when they took the second-half opening kickoff and drive the ball inside the Huskies' 10-yard line. But the Northern defensive unit did not break, and took over possession after a fourth-down play failed.

The Huskies then began the long drive for what would be the winning touchdown, and it took another key third-down play to make that possible.

On a third-and-nine from the Huskies' 45, Murdock could not find any receivers open, so he opted to run and found an opening down the sideline. He ran 60 yards to the Falcon five, and Mason carried the ball into the end zone on the next play with 22 seconds left in the third quarter. Justin Durst booted the conversion, which would be the final point of the contest.

Murdock, who completed three of five passes for 60 yards, led his team in rushing with 123 yards on just 11 attempts.

Although the final quarter was scoreless, there were some nail-biting moments for Husky fans, as the Falcons were awarded a first down on their final drive because of a pass interference call on a fourth-and-12 play. However, the Huskies essentially sealed their victory by forcing and recovering a fumble on a third-down-and-long play.

Pacing the Falcons' ground game was Jeremy Leedom, who picked up 90 yards on 22 carries.

The Falcons finished with a lopsided edge in time of possession, having the ball for 28:45, while the Huskies were in control for 19:15.

The win was the first in four starts for the Huskies, while the Falcons fell to 0-4.

"We had some very big plays just when we needed them," said Coach Carr. "Our 7-for-9 on third downs was a major key. We executed very well, and I thought our coaches did a heck of a job getting the kids ready and in encouraging them to keep working hard. It really felt good to get a win."

All three of the Huskies' losses were close contests right until the final minutes.

Carr also had complimentary words for his quarterback, who had to take over the reins of the offense suddenly a few weeks ago when school record-holder Pat Sines went down with a broken collarbone.

"Chris did an outstanding job for us," said Carr. "He had several good runs and a couple of nice passes that kept our drives alive. He is getting more and more comfortable, and we coaches are doing pretty well finding the plays that best suit his abilities."

The Huskies will be back in action this Friday at Clear Spring, and with the exception of Sines, should be at near full strength, as three other players sidelined with injuries will be ready to go.

Senior receiver/defensive back Cody Rodeheaver, junior running back/defensive back Jeremy Bender, and senior guard/noseguard Sean Kamp are all expected to play.

"This will be about the healthiest we have been since the season started," Carr noted.

The Clear Spring Blazers are coming off a loss to undefeated Boonsboro; however, they won their first three games of the season, so Carr is expecting a tough contest.

Clear Spring is led by senior quarterback Tyler Mellott, who passed for nearly 1,600 yards and 11 touchdowns last season. His favorite target is senior Mike Habel.

"They are a big threat through the air," said Carr, "and they run an offense that we rarely see. It's called the pistol formation, which is similar to the shotgun. We saw a little bit of it against Bishop Walsh last year, but it will definitely be a different look for our defense."

Carr said that the Blazers have a big line, averaging around 280 pounds.

"They are definitely bigger than we are, but I am hoping we can counter that with our speed," he said.

"Their skill players are all really good, though, so we will have our hands full," he added.

Friday's kickoff at Clear Spring is set for 7 p.m.

RAMS DOMINATE VISITING INDIANS – The Southern High School varsity football team got itself into the win column with its first victory of the season, a 42-18 Friday-night drubbing of visiting Berkeley Springs. In the picture above, senior halfback Danny Sislo (#20) can be seen fighting for extra yardage in one of many plays in which the Rams systematically ground down the Indians' outmatched defense. Providing a little breathing room for Sislo are offensive linemen Ben Rodeheaver (#65), Seth Dewitt (#77), and Brian Rinker (#50). The Southern defense is shown below smothering an Indian play. Defensive ends Tim Glotfelty (#47) and Seth Holler (#56, helmet visible) were credited for the tackle, though defensive tackle Cole Sanders (#74) certainly made his presence known, ending the play atop the pile of red jerseys. To the left are Derek Noble (#25) and Scott Cooper (#35) keeping their eyes on the ball. Photos by John McEwen. Battering Rams Plow Through Indians; Knotts Tallies 212 Yards

Ram linebacker Zack Knotts had a big third quarter for the Southern High School varsity football team on Friday, scoring on an 11-yard pass and a 44-yard run to pull his team well ahead of visiting Berkeley Springs. The win, 42-18, is the first of the season for a Rams team that has played better than its record would suggest.

"I'm really happy with our play this week," stated Southern High coach Steve Savage.

"We didn't make any crucial mistakes and were sound fundamentally. In the last few weeks we've given up about 12 points on turnovers each game, but my guys are improving in areas that will help us win more football games."

After a scoreless first quarter, Southern's Derek Noble was first to light up the scoreboard, as he pushed through the Indian defensive line for a 2-yard scoring run.

Berkeley Springs answered promptly, however, when Andrew Truax returned the following kickoff 66 yards for a touchdown.

Southern's offense then retook the field and the lead after moving the chains deep into Indian territory and setting up another redzone run by Noble, who punched the ball in from the 1-yard line. Noble, a senior, finished the game with 8 yards on the ground and two touchdowns.

After Berkeley Springs kicked a field goal to pull within four points (14-10), Knotts scored his first touchdown of the night on a 4-yard run, making it 21-10. The Rams made it a 28-point second quarter when quarterback Kurt Gangler hurled a 14-yard touchdown pass to receiver Kevin Colaw. Kicker Wyatt McBee's point after made it 28-10 at the half.

Southern refused to let up on the Indians in the third quarter, as Knotts scored on his 11-yard catch and 44-yard run. He finished the game with a total of 212 all-purpose yards – gaining 67 on the ground, 27 through the air, and adding another 118 yards on kickoff returns.

"We took the lead and finished the deal," said Coach Savage. "The key to this win for us was to not let up. Our defense made some big plays and kept the momentum going in our favor."

Gangler threw for 174 yards and two touchdowns and completed 12 of his 19 pass attempts. Logan Stewart proved to be Gangler's favorite target, catching four of those passes for a total of 77 yards.

The Rams did not score in the fourth quarter, bookending their game with two scoreless periods. The eight, fourth-quarter points posted by Berkeley Springs on a 50-yard touchdown dash by Zach Whit, and then a Mark Cowles to Truax pass for two, established the final score, 42-18.

Mason Dick, Stewart Noble, and Dan Sislo all had interceptions for the Rams' defense.

Southern's next opponent will be Tucker County. The Mountain Lions edged the Rams, 26-20, last season in Hambleton, W.Va., after a back and forth battle. This year the Lions will visit Ram Stadium.

"Tucker County has a very quick, very talented quarterback in Derek Nester," said Coach Savage. "He can scramble, he can make quick last-second plays, and he's an excellent decision maker.

"Our biggest challenge will be containing the Mountain Lions' spread offense, while not giving up any big plays."

Southern's Josh Wotring, who was previously on the injured list because of illness, is expected to play in Friday's game. Garrett Campbell is "day-to-day" after suffering a shoulder injury, though Coach Savage explained that he was hopeful his fullback would be able to see some playing time.

Allegany would then put up 37 unanswered points, as Camper player Dalton Golliday ran for a touchdown and passed for another one on the way to a win in Accident.

In the first quarter, Allegany's Jack Hawkins snagged a 40-yard touchdown pass from Trenton Eirich, before a two-point conversion play gave the visitors an 8-7 lead. The next quarter saw Golli-

SOUTHERN OUTMATCHES TOP-RANKED HUSKIES – The girls' soccer teams of Southern and Northern high schools met up in non-conference play Tuesday night, though the technicality did little to reduce the intensity of the Garrett County rivalry. The Rams took the win, 3-0, after Alli Shaffer assisted Tess Watson for a goal and then scored two more of her own. In the photo at left are Shaffer (#12, pictured left) and Husky Callie Vernon (#19) vying for a high kick sent deep into Northern territory. Husky defenders in the background are Kiersten Butler (#10, left) and Gabrielle Daniels (#8). In the photo at right, Northern striker Sydney McFarland (#11) is surrounded by Ram defenders Julianna Sharpless (#17) and Jill Yant (#10), while making her way toward the Southern net. DANGEROUS PLAY, PERHAPS? Maybe, maybe not. The photo shows Southern High School's Andrew Cvetnick (#11) being swarmed by the Knights of Preston High School in last night's varsity soccer match. Below, Southern's Colton Forrester appears to have a halo as he waits for the ball to return to Earth. The Rams went scoreless in the match and were edged by the Knights, 1-0. Shaffer Leads Rams In County Rivalry Win Over No. 1 Huskies

The top-ranked Northern High School girls' varsity soccer team fell, 3-0, in the most recent edition of its ongoing Garrett County rivalry with the Rams. Alli Shaffer, who had an assist on the only goal in the first half and scored twice in the second, proved too much for the Huskies in the game played at Southern High School on Tuesday evening.

Tess Watson was first to score at 9:32 of the first half, hitting the net after booting a corner kick from Shaffer. The half ended with the Rams up 1-0.

Shaffer came out of the half looking to score and made it 2-0 off an assist by Jill Yant at the 36:41 mark. Shaffer then scored her second goal of the night with 12:04 remaining on an unassisted run into Husky territory

"We were really clicking, especially the defense, and I was really pleased with everyone's effort," stated Southern head coach Sara Shaffer.

The Rams beat Northern on shot attempts by a margin of 15-6. Annie Martin made four saves as goalie for Southern. Alex Diehl had seven and Kloey Werner one for the Huskies.

The intra-county rivals have now split their two regular season meetings as Northern won the previous match earlier in the year, 2-1. Because the game was technically a non-conference matchup, the Huskies maintain their unbeaten Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference record of 5-0

Southern (6-3, 4-2 AMAC) is set to host Keyser on Tuesday. That game is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. Northern played Fort Hill on Wednesday night. See separate story for details.

Southern was also able to come away with the win in the junior varsity game, 3-1 Alicia Roth scored two goals and Alicia Harpole had one for the Rams. Shannon Wainick scored for the Huskies.

Northern Tops Fort Hill In Home Win, 1-0

After taking a loss in Oakland on Tuesday to Garrett County rival Southern, the Husky girls' soccer team earned a win, after a strong defensive performance and a goal by Madi Gallagher, to blank visiting Fort Hill on Wednesday, 1-0.

Gallagher's score came early in the first half and the Northern defense did the rest for the Huskies, who sit atop the most recent Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference poll.

Northern remains unbeaten in conference play (Tuesday's game with Southern was scheduled as a non-conference match). With the win over the Sentinels, the Huskies are now 7-2 overall and 6-0 in the AMAC.

Gallagher's goal, on an assist from Kiersten Rayner, came with 32:24 left in the opening half.

Northern led in shots, 11-6, while both teams had two corner kicks. Alex Diehl denied Fort Hill all night in her shutout performance, ending the game with nine saves.

Fort Hill's Ashlee Stumbaugh matched that total with nine saves of her own.

Rams Go Scoreless In Losses To Mountain Ridge And Preston

Generating goals was a major problem for the Southern High School boys' varsity soccer team this past week, as the Rams were shut out 4-0 by #1 ranked Mountain Ridge at Frostburg last Thursday in an Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference clash, and then dropped a 1-0 match to visiting Preston last night. The results left the Rams with an overall record of 3-4, and an AMAC mark of 2-3.

Chris Ranker led the Miners of Mountain Ridge offensively, putting two goals on the board in the second half.

Jake Kyle put the first goal on the board, unassisted, at the 28:46 mark of the first half, and teammate Jacob Bittner followed with another unassisted goal at the 12:30 mark, giving the home team a 2-0 advantage at the half.

It was just 1½ minutes into the second half of action that Ranker recorded his first goal, with Matt Beeman getting an assist. His second was scored unassisted with 6:51 to play.

The Rams were dominated in both shots, 18-1, and in corner kicks, 12-0. Mountain Ridge keeper Connor Eberly earned his second straight shutout, while Southern's Seth Ingram finished with five saves.

The victory upped the Miners' overall record to 6-1 and their AMAC mark to 5-0.

HUSKIES TOP RAMS BY ONE STROKE – Northern High School edged Southern, 176 to 175, last Thursday and went on to win the Garrett County Golf Championship held on the greens at Thousand Acres Golf Club. Low individual scores were earned by Huskies Caeman Feller and Jeff Bittinger, who both shot a 42. Southern High's Evan Friend and Billy Gindlesberger matched each other and both shot 43s. AG Festival Grand Marshal To Hold "Meet And Greet"

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce will hold a "meet and greet" with the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade grand marshal, professional baseball player Tobi Stoner.

The event will be held from 11 a.m. to noon during the Autumn Glory Craft & Gift Sale at the Exhibit Hall at the Garrett County Fairgrounds on Sunday, Oct. 16. The Autumn Glory Craft & Gift Sale is sponsored by Susquehanna Bank. Black Bear Tavern is the sponsor of the 44th annual Autumn Glory grand marshal position.

He played at Garrett College before attending Davis and Elkins College in Elkins, W.Va., where he was the Male Athlete of the Year in 2008.

Later that year Stoner was drafted by the New York Mets in the 16th round and played for the Mets' double-A affiliate in Binghamton, N.Y., and its triple-A team in Buffalo, N.Y. Stoner was called up to the New York Mets in 2009. Since then he has played in triple-A Buffalo.

Northern Boys' Squad Drops 3-1 Match To Host Fort Hill Sentinels

The boys' varsity soccer team of Northern High School traveled to Cumberland last Thursday to take on Fort Hill at Greenway Avenue Stadium, but came home with a 3-1 loss to the second-ranked Sentinels in an Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference match-up.

Evan Blank gave the home team a 1-0 advantage about six minutes into the match when he scored off a feed by Hunter Tipton.

The score remained 1-0 until the 17:21 mark of the second half, but that's when Zack Steckman scored on an assist by Sidney Carroll to make it 2-0.

Sentinel Cullin Brown followed with a goal off a corner kick by Austin Parker.

The Huskies avoided a shutout when Jared Fike scored on a penalty kick with 1:04 left in the match.

The Huskies were out-shot by a 25-9 margin, and trailed in corner kicks, 6-2.

Husky keeper Andrew Moser was credited with 17 saves in goal, while James Johnson had eight stops for Fort Hill (6-1 overall and in the AMAC).

CELEBRATING 40 YEARS OF SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY.

THE ICONIC IMAGE of tragedy is displayed at the Shanksville, Pa., site where United Flight 93 thundered into the ground, killing all on board. On that September day in 2001, 40 passengers and crew died as they thwarted four terrorist hijackers in their deadly mission, most likely to crash the plane into the U.S. Capitol or the White House. Above left, Garrett College students Andrew Turner-Au, left, and James Dylan Norwood were among many from the GC campus who attended the 10th anniversary ceremony, during which the new national memorial at the site was dedicated. Below, GC student Ta'Narla Stuart is pictured during a moment of silent reflection. Above right shows the enormous boulder that marks the spot in the field where Flight 93 crashed.

GC Students Participate In Flight 93 Memorial Dedication In Shanksville

by Peggy Santamaria

A new national memorial in Shanksville, Pa., where United Airlines Flight 93 crashed on September 11, 2001, was dedicated Saturday, Sept. 10, and a number of Garrett College students were in attendance. The ceremony marked the 10th anniversary of the death of all 40 valiant passengers and crew aboard, as well as four hijackers. Flight 93 was the only one of the four aircraft hijacked on September 11 that did not reach its target, presumed to be the U.S. Capitol in Washington, D.C.

Several passengers and crew aboard Flight 93 had made cell phone calls and learned of the attacks on the Pentagon and World Trade Center. They decided to mount an attack against the hijackers to foil their plans. The plane crashed in a field near Shanksville, about 150 miles from Washington, D.C.

The student group from Garrett College took part in this historic unveiling of the first phase of the Flight 93 National Memorial. Michael Chavez, assistant coordinator of residence life, organized the trip, which also included GC faculty and staff.

The Garrett contingent would join the 4,000 people who gathered beneath overcast skies to honor those who lost their lives in the quiet field.

"We headed out of Garrett County around 9:30 that morning. The actual memorial ceremony was scheduled for about 12:30 p.m.," Chavez said. Knowing that traffic could be heavy on the country roads surrounding the area, some extra travel time was allotted.

Sue Fowler was among the staff members traveling to Shanksville.

"While we were on the bus, I was talking with some of the students," she said. "When the events of September 11 occurred, they were 8 years old. So they didn't really fully know what was going on. I offered to tell them the story. I think a combination of what they heard from me and what they experienced once we got there brought them to a realization of the magnitude of that tragedy."

The passage of time has given Fowler the ability to process and allow herself to understand the scope of human emotion triggered by the events of that day in 2001.

"At the moment of the 9/11 crisis, I was in charge of the kids at the school where I worked," she recalled. "It was my job to be strong. It was my job to be calm. I had to focus on the children and try to keep their fears at bay."

Walking in that field a decade later, Fowler said she could allow herself to think about the fear, the horror, and the incredible courage of the passengers and crew on the plane that exploded into the ground at 350 miles an hour.

The national significance of this dedication was reflected in the roster of dignitaries drawn together for the occasion.

"The ceremony included powerful words by Vice President Joseph R. Biden Jr., President George W. Bush, and President Bill Clinton," said Chavez. "We also heard moving words from Speaker of the House John Boehner, Dr. Jill Biden, former first lady Laura Bush, Secretary of the Interior Ken Salazar, National Park Service director Jon Jarvis, and Pennsylvania Governor Tom Corbett."

As part of the ceremony, the name of each passenger and crew member was read aloud.

"After each name was read, a bell rang and bagpipes played," he said. "Sarah McLachlan touched our hearts and minds with a very emotional performance of 'I Will Remember You.'"

As the GC students took their seats on the bus to head home, it was with a mixture of emotions, Chavez said, having just taken part in an historic event.

"They had been there with thousands of fellow countrymen and listened to some of the world's leaders," he said. "There were both heavy hearts and high spirits as we left Shanksville. I do believe that everyone in attendance shared a common feeling of the utmost reverence and respect for those who gave their lives on September 11. Those 40 passengers performed the highest acts of heroism and valor on Flight 93. The trip to Shanksville is one I believe will stay in everyone's memory for years to come."

• 56 percent of shelters state that abuse is more violent than before the economic downturn;

"In light of the economic downturn and alarming increases in domestic violence, the Mary Kay Foundation's mission is more critical than ever before," said Jennifer Cook, MKF board member.

"The Dove Center has helped so many women and their families in the Oakland area. We know they will use these funds to benefit even more domestic violence survivors and their children and help end domestic violence."

The Mary Kay Foundation was created in 1996. According to a spokesperson, its mission is to fund research of cancers affecting women and to help prevent domestic violence while raising awareness of the issue.

one of many items and efforts the club enters into competition. This year, with perfect timing as the club celebrates its 100th birthday, the publicity book won not only first place in the state, but first in the entire nation.

To celebrate the milestone of 100 years, the club is hosting a dinner dance this weekend at Dutch's at Silver Tree, Deep Creek Lake. There is no question that in addition to working hard, the members do most certainly enjoy the occasional celebratory party, and do cherish the time they spend with one another.

To list the Civic Club of Oakland's every project over the past century would be nearly impossible, as they surely number in the multiple thousands. Nearly every organization, agency, or group with the mission of assisting others has been supported by the club, such as the Dove Center, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the rescue squads, the schools, nursing homes, veterans associations, arts groups, student groups – the list goes on.

Perhaps it suffices to say that the club was launched 100 years ago with the pledge to help, to make things better for those who live in this unique area. And for the ensuing 100 years, that pledge has held true. As the group moves on into its second century, its dedicated, hard-working, giving members will most certainly continue their good works.

day and Trenton score on nine- and three-yard runs, respectively. Colton Sivic ran in two-point plays on both of those touchdowns to make it 24-7 at the half.

Golliday and Darian Lopez linked up to open the second half with a 43-yard pass for an Allegany touchdown. Camper Brandon Hammerie concluded the scoring for Alco with a five-yard run past the goal line.

Trevon Jones carried the ball 10 times for 60 yards and caught four passes for 51 yards for Northern. Metz had 16 tackles for the Husky defense, while Derato forced a pair of fumbles and a sack.

The Northern jayvee squad now holds a record of 1-4, and will play Monday night (6 p.m.) at Hampshire.

Div. II Steelers Coast To 32-0 Win Over BW

The undefeated Division I Northern Steelers of the Cumberland Area Youth Football League were off this past weekend, but the Division II Steelers took the field in Cumberland and coasted to a 32-0 shutout of Bishop Walsh.

The Steelers scored a touchdown in each of the four quarters, and Austin Evans booted all four two-point conversions successfully.

Evans also put the first touchdown on the board via a 40-yard run in the first quarter.

Calyb King capped a Steeler drive in the second period with a two-yard touchdown carry, and Evans' conversion gave Northern a 16-0 halftime advantage.

Cayleb Broadwater hauled in a 22-yard touchdown pass from King in the third quarter, and Keegan Broadwater scored on an 11-yard run in the final stanza, each of which was followed by good conversion kicks by Evans.

Evans also led the rushing category for the Steelers, rolling up 91 yards on just 10 carries.

Pacing the Steeler defense were Richard Ravenscroft, Jordan Short, and Jordan Day, who had an interception.

BW was paced defensively by Ethan Romaine, Zach Ruppenkamp, and Sean Rhodes.

The Steelers will play at Ridgeley this Saturday.

Southern Takes Bishop Walsh At Home, 3-0

The Southern High School girls' volleyball defeated visiting Bishop Walsh 3-0 (25-10, 25-9, and 25-15) on Monday night.

The Rams were led on the floor by Brooke Spiker, who scored 11 points, made seven assists, and had three aces. Teammate Jenessa Bassford added 10 kills and one ace, and Alycia Horner threw in seven kills.

Collen Crossland led the Spartans with four points, four assists, and an ace.

Southern also won the jayvee match 2-0 (25-19, 25-17). Heading up the Ram jayvees was a nine point, six ace effort by Katie Bowman.

whitewater releases of Deep Creek Lake would reduce my number of visits to Garrett County each year since the release is my primary attraction to the area. This would mean that the amount of money I spend on food and other amenities in the area would also decrease.

I strongly feel that the effects of reducing the number of whitewater releases from the lake would have a far greater impact on the economy of Garrett County than lower lake levels have on the residents of small neighborhoods located in the Deep Creek coves. Whitewater has become a major attraction to your area, and therefore generates significant revenue. The Upper Youghiogheny is considered a gem to many whitewater enthusiasts, and I hope to see that this unique resource is protected.

Sincerely,
Mark Cooper
Rosedale and Albright, W.Va.

To the Editor:

Just adding my voice to the thousands of enthusiasts who depend on regular whitewater releases every year and travel from D.C. three hours each way every chance we get. We happily bring our business to the community.

Beautiful as Garrett County is, water in the Yough is the spark that lights our fire

Sincerely,
Nick Lipkowski

To the Editor:

I am writing this message to express my gratitude for the editorial "An Unreasonable Request..." you published in your newspaper on September 22, and to offer my personal support and assistance in securing the existing schedule of water releases into the Yough.

As a whitewater kayaking enthusiast, I have been coming to the Upper Yough from Washington, D.C., for more than two years on an almost biweekly basis during the release season, and the river I have fallen in love with has become an inextricable part of my lifestyle.

It saddens me to see that some people are willing to go as far as the Deep Creek Lake PRB to try to victimize the river's natural habitat, recreational use by many enthusiasts and tourists, and ultimately the economy of Friendsville to keep the unjustifiable luxuries of their few vacation homes. Considering the number of people affected on both sides, the river wildlife that is at stake, and the fact that the proposed release reduction would only delay the inevitable level drops, the title of your article could not have been better and more succinctly chosen.

This issue is a test of readiness to stand up for what means so much to all of us concerned with the environment more than the living comfort and property values. Please let me know if I can do anything to help this cause. I can be reached via e-mail at amakarevic@yahoo.com or phone at 202-251-7001.

Best regards,
Asad Makarevic
Washington, D.C.

To the Editor:

I read your editorial "An Unreasonable Request" with much concern. As a whitewater kayaker, I have been paddling the Upper Yough for the last three years. During these trips, I often camp out in nearby campgrounds, dine in area restaurants, and, of course, fill my tank up at the local gas stations. Over the past three years, I have spent thousands of dollars in the area that would otherwise have been spent elsewhere – all because of the natural miracle that is the Upper Yough. Of course, I am but one of many who come to the area to enjoy the whitewater, and in doing so help support the local economy and tax base.

It seems incredibly shortsighted to me that Garrett County would consider curtailing releases on the Upper Yough to benefit a handful of wealthy landowners, at the expense of the thousands of people who come to the region to enjoy the river during the releases – and who in doing so support the local economy with the purchases they make (and the local governments through sales taxes). That this proposal would only delay the inevitable drop in the lake level each season by a few days, while devastating the whitewater community and adversely impacting the businesses in towns below the dam only adds to the inanity.

I thank you for the attention you have brought to this issue, and I stand ready to help in any way possible.

Sincerely,
Blas Nunez-Neto
Washington, D.C.

To the Editor:

Your editorial "An Unreasonable Request" was spot on. I'm an avid rafter and aspiring kayaker. I ran the Upper Youghiogheny for the first time with friends this summer. I plan on returning for many more trips. I live near Baltimore, and this gem of a river is well worth the 3+ hour drive.

The whitewater release schedule is critical to preserving the Upper Youghiogheny. I know many rely on the Upper Yough and have an interest in preserving it. To meet these needs, paddlers, American Whitewater, Brookfield Power, environmentalists, and the town of Friendsville, among others, came together to find a solution that meets everyone's needs. Additionally, Deep Creek's water levels were considered to ensure that their needs are met. The solution, though imperfect, works well.

However, this solution is in jeopardy A few homeowners in the coves of Deep Creek Lake have requested the Deep Creek Policy Review Board (PRB) to push for raising the minimum lake level an additional foot. Water releases would be reduced by 70%. Friendsville relies heavily on whitewater enthusiasts to support the local economy, and many outfitters and businesses may be forced to close their doors.

This reduction won't prevent low water in Deep Creek Lake. It will only delay it by about 10 days. The economic damage, however, would be long-lasting and greatly exceed any benefit obtained at Deep Creek.

With fewer scheduled whitewater releases, fewer people currently using the Upper Yough will make the trip. People travel for hours to enjoy what the Upper Yough offers, bringing money for the economy and tax revenues for local governments. With reduced releases, paddlers will go elsewhere, diverting much needed money away from Garrett County.

No stakeholder likes low water, as everyone's affected. However, favoring one group at the expense of all others isn't the answer. The current plan spreads "the bad" around fairly. The Upper Yough is a unique resource that is worthy of protection.

Furthermore, as a Maryland resident and taxpayer, I'm appalled that a responsibly used job and revenue resource is even being considered to be wasted. The last thing that should be considered in this economy is destroying a resource that provides jobs and enhances the economy.

Please support the Upper Yough, not just for paddling enthusiasts and the environment, but because of the great economic benefit it brings to the area.

Sincerely,
Kris Courter
Avid whitewater enthusiast
Orchard Beach

To the Editor:

Thank you for your editorial "An Unreasonable Request." I am a Philadelphian and have been a whitewater enthusiast for 5 years. In my paddling career, the Youghiogheny River has been the source for my most prized paddling memories. I will never forget the sense of accomplishment after my first paddle down the Upper Yough on the last day of my 30th year. I was so proud and felt so alive!

Non-boaters cannot always appreciate the profound impact one day on the river can have on one's life. The lessons learned on the river are lessons of courage and teamwork, and that sometimes things don't always go your way. Every time I tackle a challenging river, I have no choice but to face my fears head-on. I put my life in the hands of my paddling companions, and some of my strongest friendships have been forged on a river. These lessons extend into my career and personal life, and I have become more confident and self-assured since my paddling career began. Paddling the Yough has helped me find faith in my abilities and myself.

I travel out to Friendsville several times a year and spend 75% of my vacation time in the area. I always camp, shop, and eat in the surrounding areas. Within the last few years, five friends have purchased second homes in the area specifically because of its proximity to the Upper Yough. I have been saving to buy my first home, and I plan to buy it in the Garrett County area rather than in Philadelphia.

The Upper Yough is a wonderful resource, as well as source of life-affirming experiences for so many. The loss of 70% of the scheduled releases would be a staggering blow to the whitewater community. The current permit keeps the lake at levels that are appropriate for so many recreational uses. Please help us maintain the use of our beloved Upper Yough and provide memories and stories for generations to come.

Thank you for your support on this issue.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

Thank you for your insightful editorial supporting the current agreement for releases of water into the Youghiogheny River from Deep Creek Lake.

I have been taking advantage of those releases to paddle the river for almost 30 years. My weekly excursion to Friendsville from my home in Pennsylvania has been one of the major priorities in my life. Of course I have taken advantage of the amenities offered in the Friendsville area often over that time.

I would like to point out that the reservoir was originally constructed to store water for the hydroelectric generators. Shoreline development was an aftereffect and has undoubtedly impacted the local economy, but the fact remains that Deep Creek is an artificial lake. Those who chose to build houses on the backwater coves cannot expect that the lake be maintained at unreasonable levels in order to enhance their investments. The water that flows into the river has supported the interests of the vast majority of shoreline landowners, while at the same time generating clean electricity, and then provided recreation opportunities for visitors to Friendsville.

This balanced agreement has benefited all the stakeholders and should be protected from one-sided attacks.

Sincerely,
Barry Tuscano

To the Editor:

I am dismayed upon learning of the proposal to reduce whitewater and fishing releases from Deep Creek Lake. I was directed to the editorial in The Republican, and I wish to express my deepest support for what was written.

I live in Cincinnati, more than 350 miles away. Yet I have been driving six hours (one way) to the Friendsville area multiple times over the summers since 1993 to boat the unequaled whitewater of the Upper Youghiogheny. Better known rivers such as the New and Gauley in West Virginia are much closer, but I have gladly driven the extra 1.5 hours to come to Garrett County.

In fact, in 2007, I even purchased a small cabin just across the border near Hazelton, W.Va. I have had many of my friends visit to boat the upper Yough and or enjoy the other attractions in the area, such as Swallow Falls and Herrington Manor state parks. We have purchased groceries at the Friendsville Grocery, beer and snacks at the package store, gas at the local stations, gear at Mountain Surf and now Wilderness Voyageurs, and raft trips for our guests who didn't have the skill to boat the river by themselves. We have groups go to dinner at Archie's Barbeque, Mountain State Brewery, and Uno's, among others in the Deep Creek area. This past summer we even had a couple from as far away as Nashville visit and raft. In short, I can confidently say that over the years we have made a substantial impact on the economy of Friendsville and Garrett County.

If the proposed plan is accepted, it will drastically reduce the number of whitewater releases during the very season in which we and our friends are most likely to visit.

Without these releases we will have to go to the New/Gauley rivers area in W.Va., or the Ocoee River in Tennessee. We will probably be forced to sell our cabin. As we are far from the only ones driving great distances to come to Garrett County, I am sure the economic effect of our disappearance from the area will be devastating to the town of Friendsville and the loss will be felt throughout Garrett County.

I urge the county officials to do a fair assessment of the benefits and costs of reducing the flows from Deep Creek. I am confident that you will find the costs to many will greatly exceed the benefits to a few.

Please give us a reason to continue to visit and to bring our friends to Garrett County.

Thank you.

To the Editor:

I am writing in response to a recent letter by the Deep Creek Policy and Review Board sent to the DNR and Dept. of the Environment discussing lake levels and water release policy from Deep Creek Lake.

The letter states the lake level has fallen "precipitously," and ends by stating "something needs to be done." It suggests three possible solutions: 1. Extend the June Rule Bands through September; 2. Revert back to the whitewater release schedule as it existed in 2007; and 3. Not stock the Youghiogheny River with trout downstream from the dam. In a call for action the letter closes with "Deep Creek Lake is the economic engine that drives Garrett County."

These changes would create more problems than they solve.

I grew up near Baltimore and relocated in Garrett County about 10 years ago, living in both McHenry and Friendsville. Some of my finest memories are of vacationing in the county as a child and more recently as a resident.

I do not feel the proposed changes are in the best interest of the county. While it is true that some of the more remote cove properties experience access issues in late summer, current water policy at Deep Creek does not significantly curtail overall lake usage as the letter states. The lake sees high utilization through Labor Day.

Changing release policy, however, will have severe impacts on our neighbors downstream. Friendsville in particular sees heavy usage into October, including fishing, rafting and kayaking, and local kids who "ride the tide" on inner tubes each and every summer release day. The bridge in town can be lined with fisherman year-round. Hundreds of people drive from all over the country each week to enjoy one of the premier whitewater destinations. Local business would not be well served by these changes. Fishing from the dam down would be virtually eliminated, as would up to 70% of the fish and whitewater releases on dry hot summers. Finally, Brookfield would not be able to generate renewable/green electricity on many "code-orange" days in the summer, replaced mostly by dirty coal power.

In closing, the changes suggested do not represent the best interests of the county and would severely damage many local people and businesses. The letter bypasses 30 years of water usage negotiations and ignores the needs of many in favor of the desires of a few.

To the Editor:

I am most disappointed, and highly agitated, that the Deep Creek Policy & Review Board is making a demand to raise the lower rule band, just to satisfy the interests of a few back-water home owners. The elevation of the lake has been managed consistently since prior to the acquisition of these lots by the home owners, and lake sedimentation is a naturally occurring cycle. It is a travesty the unreasonable expectations of a few individuals has been made a priority over the interests of community and economy.

These individuals knew, or should have done due-diligence research prior to their real estate purchase, that these parameters existed concerning these properties. One can't buy a house next to a train track, then complain about the noise and petition to have it moved.

While complicated and very difficult to strike a perfect compromise, it is not the right of those most upstream to be the ultimate authority of how that water is managed. A compromise that benefits the most, especially the local communities and economy, is always the best practice. A concession that benefits a few wealthy absentee landowners is never the proper approach, no matter how much money they dump into the issue, nor which political game they are playing.

I live in Harford County, but I travel to Garrett County at least a dozen times a year, not only to kayak the releases on the Upper Youghiogheny, but to snowboard at Wisp, boat on Deep Creek Lake, and patronize local businesses in doing so. I estimate I personally infuse the Garrett County economy with at least $2,400 per year.

I have also been looking to buy property in Garrett County, but my focus surely would be switched to West Virginia if the frequency of releases on the Youghiogheny were to decrease. It is the hub of the summer, non-lake related economy, and the trophy trout waters managed through releases is a source of pride for the natural resource managers of the state.

Please do not allow this change to take place. The current compromise has been balanced for years, and fairly well suits all parties involved. Do not set the precedent that money and politics are a tool the wealthy can use to support their own interests at the expense of those who live and work in the area they are attempting to control.

Sincerely,
Brian Dorsey

To the Editor:

We have been residents of Friendsville since 2003, raised our daughter, and ran a restaurant/inn along the Youghiogheny River. We are aware of a handful of property owners stressing over the water levels at Deep Creek Lake and demanding releases of the dam be reduced. Let me express that we moved here unknowingly of the river activity and that of the lake, but have enjoyed the beauty, recreation, and opportunities the water provides.

Our restaurant business is supported by locals and by the recreational paddlers who have turned into regulars each weekend during the summer season. There is a diverse crowd of paddlers who regularly contribute to the success of our restaurant, and without them, not only would we be affected from their absence, but so would the other businesses in town. I see plenty of people purchasing goods from the coffee shop next door to us and at the town's grocery and liquor stores.

Not only have our dinner guests expressed their gratitude that Friendsville keeps improving its services, they are speaking now of purchasing property in the town and its outlying areas.

With such advances Friendsville has made in the past few decades, with trail improvements, park enhancements, zoning approvals, and property face lifts, it's threatening and disappointing to hear that the Youghiogheny River may not bring any more diverse life or opportunities to the town. There are so many local residents who frequent the river to fish and swim, while visitors from many states take advantage of the recreational opportunities. If the water isn't a part of this town's economy, which studies have proven is the number-one resource, it would only cause loss of income for the businesses and boredom for the locals, which in turn would create negative actions such as vandalism and loss of hope for the residents.

This river has run wild and free for many a decade. Why mess with something that isn't broken? May Brookefield Power remember that there is a contract that was issued after much discussion with lake property owners, Trout Unlimited, American Whitewater, and Friendsville's Town Council representatives to insure everyone's cooperation, agreement, and expectations for the releases on the beloved Youghiogheny River.

Thank you for your time and consideration in this discussion of the releases on the Youghiogheny River.

Sincerely,
Agnes Lichtner

Award Funding

programs in six communities. As the result of funding limitations, only three programs were offered last year.

Until the commissioners allocated additional funding for the PAS programs last week, the Partnership/LMB had only $49,024 from the Governor's Office for Children to provide half-year programs in Grantsville and Oakland. The additional $76,000 allocated by the Commissioners will allow these programs to continue through the school year and will also allow the continuation of the school-year program in Accident. These three PAS programs served 140 students last year, according to Stewart.

"As the county funding is only a temporary solution, interagency partners are continuing efforts to locate additional sources of funding for after-school programming," she said. "However, it is difficult to sustain programs with time-limited grant funding. The local After School Advisory Committee is looking at options for how to maintain the programs beyond the current year."

The PAS@Grantsville and PAS@Oakland programs opened last week. The PAS@Accident program is slated to start in mid-October. All three programs will operate four days per week, Monday through Thursday, and will serve students in third–eighth grades.

For more information about the programs or for information about enrolling a child, persons may call Sherri Padovini at the Partnership office at 301-334-1189.

It was determined that the fire originated in an attached garage, and discovered by the owner. The loss to the structure was estimated to be $66,000, with an additional $24,000 loss in contents.

Also responding was the Northern Rescue Squad. One unidentified firefighter sustained a sprained ankle.

Of Your Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board

by Paul Shogren

Fall is approaching, so we want to make sure woodland owners become aware of the fall forest fire season. As the vegetation dries out, dead leaves carpet the forest floor and humidity decreases. So be careful when you burn, and take care of how you use matches and dispose of cigarettes. If you live close to the woods, ask the question, "Is my homestead fireproofed?" As Smokey Bear reminds us all, "Only you can prevent wildfires!"

Since there is a three-year moratorium in Maryland on Marcellus shale drilling and fracking, landowners should review their mineral rights leases made in the past – determine what to put in leases in the future and obtain background water data. You have time now to get prepared.

The board continues to remind woodland owners to get a forest stewardship plan prepared by the county forester. It will give you an action plan for the future management of your timber, and there are attendant tax breaks.

Even though the gypsy moth seems to be in decline, there are other forest pests out there damaging your trees. Presently ash and hemlock trees are being attacked, and other pests from abroad are arriving. If you observe some of your trees appearing to die for no good reason or defoliating early, look for bore holes in the trunk or sawdust at the base of the tree.

At the same time you are looking for forest pests, be on the lookout for any "big trees" on your property – big ones for their species. There is a Big Tree program in Maryland and in the USA, and a registry of Big Trees is being kept. Perhaps your "big tree" could become famous!

The board meets on the second Monday of every month in the DNR Mt. Nebo Office. The public is invited to attend. The point of contact for the Garrett Forestry Board is Ernie Metz, project forester, at 301-334-3296.

ARE YOU SAFE? PROTECT YOURSELF FROM SCAMS AND FRAUD

by Lynn Little, Extension Educator, Family and Consumer Sciences University of Maryland Extension

Fraud is defined as wrongful or criminal deception intended to result in financial or personal gain. There are many different types of types of fraud to be aware of, including:

Contest and Lottery Scams – Often scammers will e-mail or call you saying you have won a large prize like cash or a trip. You should never have to pay or give account information when you win a prize.

Charity Fraud – Organizations around the globe ask for donations to help those in need; however, you want to check the legitimacy of the organization before you donate. Use www.charitynavigator.org to verify any charity before you consider a donation.

Financial Scams – Banking fraud and financial scams give people access to your financial accounts and investments.

Identity Theft – Make sure to monitor your accounts regularly for any unknown activity. If you think your identity has been stolen, contact the FTC at its ID Theft Hotline, 1-877-IDTHEFT (1-877-438-4338). To report fraud, you can use the FTC's online complaint assistant (www.ftccomplaintassistant.gov). The Consumer Action Handbook (www.usa.gov) can help you learn how to file a complaint.

Know some of the warning signs for frauds and scams:

•Someone you don't know asks you to send money or money orders to claim a prize, lottery, credit card, loan, or other valuable offer, or they offer you the chance to receive a credit card, loan, prize, lottery, or other valuable item, but ask you for personal information in order to claim it.

•The deal is only good "for today" or a short period of time.

•The seller offers "free gifts" in return for a minimum effort or a fee.

•A sale item is suddenly unavailable, but a "much better item" is available for slightly more money.

•The solicitation looks like a government document and suggests contest winnings or unclaimed assets are yours for a small fee. (The government doesn't solicit money from citizens.)

To protect your personal information, your assets, and money:

•Don't give out personal information. Be suspicious if you don't know who is asking for your Social Security number, credit card and bank account details, date of birth, etc.

•Be suspicious of calls or e-mails that want you to provide or verify personal information. Hang up or don't reply to the e-mail.

•Monitor your accounts. Review bank and credit card statements carefully. Report unauthorized transactions to your financial institution immediately.

•Use a shredder. Tear or shred credit offers you receive in the mail, bank statements, insurance forms and other papers with personal information.

You can't control whether someone is going to try to scam you, but there are ways to be ready to protect yourself. Falling for a scam can turn your whole world upside down. Get prepared now so you'll be protected later.

Visit www.usa.gov and search for consumer protection to help you learn more ways to protect yourself from frauds and scams.

LIONS MAKE DONATION TO NEW MUSEUM – The Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club met this past Monday at the American Legion, where they hosted Lions 22-W districtgovernor Steve Finger and cabinet treasurer Gerry Beachy. The district governor gave an update on Lions initiatives for this year and commended Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club for all the commitments it makes to the community and for its free vision testing of children in Head Start and day care centers. This is the club's 71st year, and there are 72 members. Reports were given on the Lions chicken barbecue held during this year's fair week, food sales to date at the concession stand for football and soccer games, and the Lion Mike McHenry Golf Tournament held this past weekend. After dinner, Bob Boal of the Garrett County Historical Society invited the membership to the newly opened Transportation Museum of Garrett County on Liberty Street, Oakland, for a tour. At that time, Lions officers presented Boal with a donation. From left are first vice president Jeff Gilbert, president Josh Bosley, Boal, and treasurer Brian Boal. Upcoming fall events are the Autumn Glory 5K race, chair rentals during the feature parade, and the concession stand during the Tournament of Bands. The Lions also sponsor the Halloween parade through downtown Oakland, as well as the event held afterward at the fire hall, where treats, games, cake walks, and more are offered.

New Germany SP To Host "How-To" On Geocaching

New Germany State Park will host a free geocaching "how-to" session, taught by members of the Maryland Geocaching Society, on Saturday, Oct. 8., from 9 to 10 a.m. at the New Germany Lake House.

"There are a number of approved geocaches hidden in the park," said New Germany ranger Erin Thomas. "If you're new to the game, this is a great place to get started."

Geocaching is a worldwide treasure-hunting game in which participants use GPS units to locate geocaches, which are containers that usually hold a logbook and other items. Upon locating a geocache, participants are encouraged to take an item from the container and replace it with something of equal or greater value.

A limited number of GPS units will be available for loan during the class. For more information, persons may contact 301-895-5453 or park-new-germany@dnr.state.md.us.

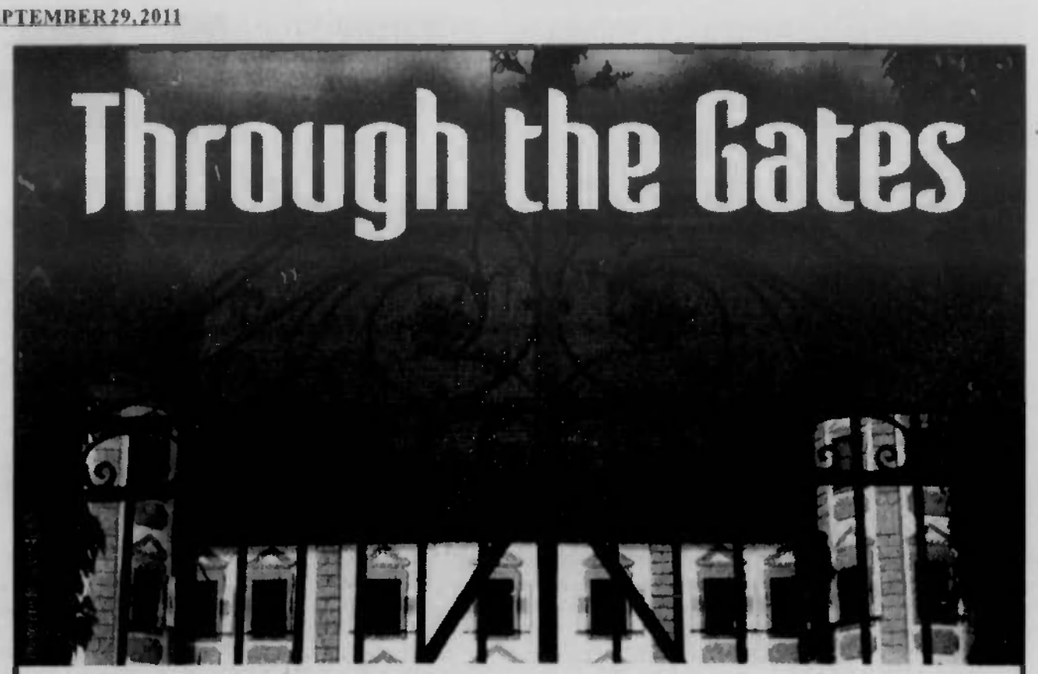
Through the Gates



The afternoon sun spotlights the majestic façade of a mansion, seen through the gates that keep out all but the chosen. The gates of heaven are never closed to anyone; our Father opens His arms to us all. He only requires that we trust in Him. He wants us to join Him in His mansion. We strive to reach our spiritual goals, but often our human nature gets in the way. Learn how to reach your goals with God's help at your house of worship; walk through His gate, it's always open.

The Imprint of God

Every human society, ancient and modern, has religious beliefs. While there is wide variability in what different societies believe, there are several beliefs which virtually all religions share. One is the belief that we are being observed by a watchful deity. Another is the belief that people will get their just desserts. These near-universal beliefs do not necessarily prove that we are being watched over or that we will get our just desserts, but they do seem suggestive. Nature may have implanted a belief in being watched to keep us vigilant; the world can be a dangerous place. And the belief in just desserts may be a way to keep us honest and well-behaved, which is important in any well-ordered society. But, if the idea of God and the moral law are almost literally written on our hearts, and the feeling of being watched over and inhabiting a universe where people are justly rewarded or punished are virtually universal ideas, then what cruel deception if these ideas correspond to nothing in reality. We certainly can't know these things with any degree of certainty, but we can and should hope and believe them.

"I have seen the burden God has laid on the human race. He has made everything beautiful in its time. He has also set eternity in the human heart; yet no one can fathom what God has done from beginning to end."

Ecclesiastes 3:10-11

Harmon-y: 'NCIS' star has enduring marriage

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Q: What are the facts on Mark Harmon and Pam Dawber? Are they still married? If so, how long and how many children? Is Pam still active as a performer, or what is she doing these days? –Patricia Rosales, Denver

A: Now in his ninth season of the CBS hit "NCIS," Harmon has one of Hollywood's most enduring marriages. He and former "Mork & Mindy" star Dawber – who were introduced by Gina Hecht, one of her co-stars on that sitcom – have been married since 1987, and they have two sons. Dawber continued to act after they married, but for the past decade or so, her home life has been her main focus.

Mark Harmon

Q: Who is the actress who plays Liz on "Rules of Engagement"? I know I've seen her before, but I don't know where. –Frank Corcoran, Michigan City, Ind.

A: She's Wendi McLendon-Covey, who scored an out-of-the-park movie hit recently with "Bridesmaids" ... in which she appeared with Kristen Wiig and Melissa McCarthy ("Mike & Molly"), comrades of hers from the Groundlings comedy troupe. She's also known from the regular role she had on the Comedy Central police spoof "Reno 911!" and was a series regular on Lifetime's "Lovespring International."

Q: I just recently discovered "Royal Pains." How long has it been on? I'm especially wondering where I've seen the actor who plays Boris. –Debra Ibbotson, Pekin, Ill.

A: The USA Network show has been on for three seasons ... and its third one actually isn't over yet, though the series isn't running currently. It'll be back to wrap up that round "this winter," which was as specific as USA was being at this writing.

Boris is played by the accomplished Campbell Scott, son of the late actors George C. Scott and Colleen Dewhurst. He had a significant role in the third season of "Damages" when that show still was on FX; he was cast as a member of a financial family involved in a Ponzi scheme. Among Scott's movies are "Dying Young," "Singles," "Big Night," "The Love Letter," "Roger Dodger," and "Music and Lyrics." He moves regularly between independent films and big-studio productions, as he'll prove again next year with his presence in the "Amazing Spider-Man" reboot.

Q: Where is Maggie Rodriguez, and what is she doing now that she is not on CBS' "The Early Show"? –Roberta Davis, Bevier, Mo.

A: As of this writing, anyway, nothing had been heard about her publicly since she and most of the former "cast" of the program's weekday edition were let go late last year. A good bet is that she may have returned to the Miami area, of which she's a native, and where she was a news anchor on the CBS affiliate for many years before she was recruited by the network. She also had worked for Univision there previously.

Observations from the Garden
Some things I have learned by watching
• Cardinals arrive shortly before dawn and leave after dusk
• Titmice like to take a seed and fly away with it before cracking it open.
• Red-bellied woodpeckers use their bill like a sword to defend their place on a feeder
What have you observed?

Duncan realized that the toy had the potential to be a huge success, so he paid Flores $5,000 for all the rights. Incidentally, the name "yo-yo" means "come-come" in the native language of the Philippines.

Health Officials Urge Vaccinations, But Are Optimistic About Flu Season

by Ashley M. Latta
Capital News Service

All signs point toward a manageable flu season this year, but despite the positive outlook, Maryland health officials are strongly encouraging everyone 6 months and older to get vaccinated as soon as possible.

As October draws closer, so does the start of flu season, which has health officials ramping up efforts to encourage Marylanders to get vaccinated, and quickly.

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene kicked off its annual prevention campaign Friday with a free flu clinic at the Baltimore County Health Department. By 10:30 a.m., 250 vaccines had been administered, despite pouring rain.

The state health department has monitored global flu activity all year, anticipating what this year's flu season could bring to Marylanders, and health officials like what they are seeing.

"We have connections through the CDC (Centers for Disease Control), the federal government, to monitor what kinds of flu viruses they are seeing," said Frances Phillips, deputy secretary of Public Health Services at the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

There are two significant factors that have officials optimistic about the flu season this year. First, there have been no problems with flu vaccine production. In fact, the state health department expects there to be nearly 170 million doses of vaccines available across the country.

"There will be no shortage," said Phillips, who added that shortages have been a problem in the past.

Health officials are also enthusiastic about the quality of the vaccines being manufactured this year. Research indicates that the vaccines will protect against probable strains of the flu.

"Three strains that will be in this year's vaccine are a strong match to what is continuing to be reported in the southern hemisphere," Phillips said.

Officials say they have not seen a change in the virulence, or severity, of the flu so far, which is good news because flu activity in the southern hemisphere usually serves as a good indicator for what the flu season will bring to the United States. But Phillips said that since the flu is always changing, researchers in the state's public health labs will closely monitor flu specimens collected in Maryland in order to detect any resistance or changes that may occur.

Nearly 1,000 people in Maryland die each year as a result of the flu. So despite positive indicators, the state health department remains vigilant in its prevention efforts.

Phillips joined Baltimore County deputy health officer Della Leister and county executive Kevin Kamenetz in a press conference at the flu clinic Friday to educate Marylanders about the importance of getting vaccinated. Kamenetz was vaccinated at the event.

"The seasonal flu is still a major health concern for us every year," Kamenetz said. "It is first-come, first-served, so don't put off your visit too long," he said, referring to the free clinics in Baltimore County.

Pete and Betty Addicks of Parkville, who get vaccinated every year, were among those to receive flu shots at the clinic.

"We get flu shots because of our grandkids," Betty Addicks said.

"This place is convenient," Pete Addicks said. "Come on out, because they're doing it right."

A Baltimore woman shopping nearby saw signs for the clinic and decided to stop and get her annual flu shot and have her two sons vaccinated.

"I have to get it done because I work at Hopkins as a doctor," said Dr. Sarah Hogue. "We all have to."

The Maryland Hospital Association adopted a policy last week to endorse mandatory flu vaccinations for health care personnel in hospitals across the state. Johns Hopkins is one of 18 hospitals that has already implemented this policy.

"It is an extremely strong patient-safety measure, and we commend the hospitals for doing that," Phillips said, in an interview.

At a 50% vaccination rate, Maryland surpassed the national average for flu shots last year. But Phillips said she is not content with that number.

"We're not going to get to 100 percent," Phillips said. "But we are pushing to get that percentage up much higher."

Humane Society Volunteers Attend Rescue Training

Garrett County Humane Society member Deb Clatterbuck and volunteer James Lynch attended a one-day large animal rescue training class at the Days End Farm Horse Rescue (DEFHR) last week.

"Training such as this helps us to be more prepared when responding to the many livestock, mostly horses, neglect reports that we receive each year," GC Humane Society president Lisa Baker. "DEFHR, located in Lisbon, Maryland, and has been helping to rescue, rehabilitate, and adopt out abused/neglected horses for over 20 years."

This organization assisted the GCHS officers in rescuing a large number of horses from a local farm in May 2010. The horses were transported to DEFHR, evaluated, rehabilitated, and eventually adopted out to homes, Baker noted.

A grant from the Pittsburgh Foundation provided the funds for Clatterbuck and Lynch to attend last week's training. An anonymous donor provided the grant to the foundation to be given to the Garrett County Humane Society, according to Baker.

"Donors who establish funds through the foundation can support any charitable interest locally or anywhere in the United States," she said. "The Pittsburgh Foundation has been connecting generous donors with the needs of communities since 1945. Grants are awarded to a vast array of non-profit organizations, student scholarships and medical researchers based on donor interests."

The Garrett County Humane Society is a nonprofit, volunteer organization that has been helping abused/neglected and homeless animals of all kinds for over 25 years.

"Our year-round spay-neuter voucher program has also helped thousands of pet owners to have their pets altered to prevent more unwanted litters from flooding our local county animal shelter and communities," Baker said. "The GCHS is the only organization that has responded to and investigated over 350 animal neglect calls in 2010, and we expect the total number to be close to that again in 2011."

For more information or to donate to the GCHS, persons may call 301-616-4425.

Shriners to Hold Screening Clinic For Young Patients

The Ali Ghan Shriners will hold a screening clinic this Saturday, Oct. 1, from 8 to 11 a.m. in the Community Services Building next to Garrett County Memorial Hospital in Oakland. The purpose of the event is to determine if a child needs additional medical care at Shriners Hospitals for Children.

The hospitals provide care for children up to the age of 18 with orthopaedic conditions, burns, spinal cord injuries, cleft lip and palate, and speech and language disorders. All care and services are provided regardless of the patients' ability to pay.

"Screening clinics are a successful way of making Shriners Hospitals known to medical professionals in your community and families of children who could benefit from our care," said a spokesman. "The clinic will be staffed by local physicians and a three- to four-member health care team, including nurses."

He added that the clinic is to only screen patients for treatment; there will be no in-depth examinations conducted during the event.

Shriners will be assisting with the registration. For more information, persons may call the Ali Ghan Shriners at 301-722-5970.

Reinvesting Dividends Can Pay Off

When you invest in stocks, you want their price to go up. But of course, you can't control the rise and fall of stock prices. However, there is a key element of investing that you can control — the number of shares you own. And in the long run, share ownership may be more important than rising stock prices in determining your long-term investment success.

Of course, you might think that the advice of "buy more shares" is easier said than done. After all, not everyone can easily find a lot of extra money to invest. But you don't need access to vast wealth to increase your share ownership — you just need to consistently reinvest your stock dividends.

Just how important are reinvested dividends to wealth accumulation, as compared to capital gains (the increase in stock prices)? Over the 135-year period from 1871 through 2003, owning stocks and reinvesting the dividends produced 97% of all stock market returns, with only 3% coming from capital gains, according to a major study done by Dr. Jeremy Siegel, one of the world's leading researchers on stock market performance. Other studies have also pointed to the importance of dividends as a component of total returns.

What are the implications of this disparity between the effectiveness of dividend reinvestment versus that of capital gains? First of all, it suggests that you may not want to spend an undue amount of time and effort in chasing after "hot" stocks, hoping for big capital gains. For one thing, by the time you buy these stocks, they may already be cooling off, but even more importantly, your focus on achieving large capital gains may not be the best use of your financial resources.

Ultimately, the power of dividend reinvestment means, not surprisingly, that you may be able to help yourself if you look for quality dividend-paying stocks — and then reinvest the dividends, month after month and year after year.

With just a little research, you can find stocks that have paid — and even increased — dividends for many years in a row. (Keep in mind, though, that not all stocks will pay dividends, and even those that do can reduce or discontinue them at any time. Dividend reinvestment does not ensure a profit or protect against loss.) So, to help boost your share ownership, consider reinvesting the dividends back into the stock, rather than taking them as cash payments. If you do choose to reinvest your dividends, though, you will need to look to other types of investments to provide you with income, assuming you need some income from your portfolio, which may become more necessary during your retirement years. Your financial advisor can help you determine the appropriate investments to help provide this income.

But in any case, if you can do without the current income provided by dividends, give careful consideration to reinvesting them. Dividend reinvestment is not a glamorous investment strategy, and it won't help you "get rich quick," but it can help you make steady progress toward your long-term financial goals — and that's a key dividend in itself.

Lana and Larry,
We regret that you were not our first choice for agents to sell our Deep Creek home. You provided more information, spoke to us more often and generally demonstrated your interest in selling our property much better than our previous experience. Overall, your professional behavior combined with your engaging personalities made the selling procedure go quickly. We look forward to a long term friendship with you even though we no longer have a residence at the lake.
Regards,
Bill and Abby Heid

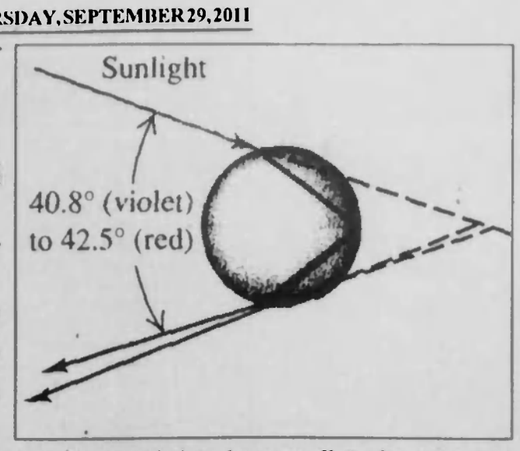
DOUBLE RAINBOW
by Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. The other day I drove north out of Oakland about 6:30 p.m. and saw not just one, but two rainbows. However, the second one was fainter and didn't last very long. Also, I noticed that the inside rainbow had the colors going from violet to red, but the outer rainbow was reversed, with colors going from red to violet. What causes that?

A. Seeing a double rainbow is a pretty rare, special event. Both the inner and outer rainbow are the result of the way light bounces around inside a raindrop. It's possible to see a rainbow in the spray from a garden hose, or from the spray of a boat; those rainbows are miniature versions of exactly the same physical phenomenon happening in the beautiful rainbows in the sky

To have a rainbow at all demands certain geometric angles. The sun must be shining in one part of the sky, rain must be falling elsewhere, and you the observer have to be standing somewhere in between. The reason you see rainbows mostly in the late afternoon is because the angles are properly aligned at that time of day

The adjacent drawing shows the trajectory of sunlight into and out of a raindrop and back toward your eye. To eventually reach your eyes, sunlight comes from behind you, enters a raindrop, bounces off the far surface of it, and comes back out in your direction.



Light traveling through air goes in straight lines, bending by only an imperceptible amount. But inside a raindrop, something different happens: Sunlight is white light, the combination of all different colors, all different wavelengths of light. When light enters a water droplet, refraction causes its path to bend somewhat. But what is really interesting is that the exact amount of refraction depends upon the wavelength of the light: Red light is bent less than orange light, which is bent less than yellow light, and so forth. That is called dispersion.

As a light ray exits a raindrop, refraction again causes it to bend a little more. By now the angles are all different. Violet light comes back at you at an angle of 40.8°, while rays of red light appear at 42.5°. Surprisingly, the different-color rays entering your eye went through entirely different raindrops, possibly miles apart. That's how optical geometry works. The full spread of angles is only about 2 degrees; that angle of separation is what makes a rainbow. Violet (smaller angle) is on the "inside," or bottom, of the rainbow.

At different times of day or different times of the year, a rainbow may appear higher or lower in the sky, depending upon the incoming angle of sunlight. When the sun is really high in the sky (greater than 42 degrees above the horizon), the dispersed light coming back at you would go clear over your head and you can't see a rainbow. But if you're up on a high hill, you can still see a rainbow by looking downward. From an airplane, you would see a full-circle rainbow.

Going back to the inside of a raindrop, the drawing shows a light ray bouncing off the back wall once. But rays entering raindrops at a different slant will bounce off the wall at a different angle, bounce again, and then exit at a new angle (about 50°). Once again, dispersion bends the violet rays more than the red rays. The geometry of a double-bounce is trickier to follow, but this time the exit angle for the violet rays (54°) is greater than for the red rays (50.5°). As you look up toward the sky, the band of colors going outward runs from red to violet

Light that bounces more times inside raindrops will produce rays coming out at still different angles, producing other rainbows. Each additional rainbow gets fainter. By knowing where to look outside the second rainbow, a few times I have seen a third faint rainbow.

Once I was on a mountaintop in Switzerland looking down, and I saw four circular rainbows. But that's extremely unusual.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

The very first day of autumn, Sept. 23, I saw the first colored leaves on my maple tree. And soon after, I saw a number of colored leaves along the driveway. There were only a few, but still, the times are changing.

The issue of the death penalty has recently re-emerged in the national spotlight. The bottom line about the death penalty is that you can't correct a mistake after a sentence is carried out.

It was a disappointing result on Saturday for the many thousands of West Virginia University students and other fans that were packed into their football stadium. Most of them, including Meredith and Caitlin, wore gold shirts, and from the aerial shots, it was a massive display of school spirit. But since the Mountaineers (ranked 18th) lost to the #2 team, LSU, I guess Morgantown was a disappointed place. I couldn't stay up to see the end of the game.

They have proposed to put Social Security at risk of the clearly unstoppable Wall Street investors. It is not just a source of revenue for overall government spending. And it's not only the elderly that depend on that fund. It is also the unwillingly disabled. But no one talks about how we also deserve some financial security, because some in government believe that most disabled Americans are fakers, and too lazy to work and earn their own income. Perhaps a few recipients of Social Security Disability are fakers, but I seriously doubt that there are very many.

Certainly not I. Why would I choose to end my career at its peak, when I was doing every day what I love, changing lives for the better and fully using my brain power, which was possibly an accident of birth, but also the result of serious effort in a good education structure?

I had several truly excellent teachers in Garrett County public schools. My fourth grade teacher, Mrs. Mary Strauss at Accident Elementary, made a real difference in my education. Then at Northern High School, my honor roll included Miss Joanna Miller, my senior English teacher, and before her, William Carlson had a profound positive influence on me. Luther Parrack, my world history teacher, was a genuine scholar. The outstanding science/math teacher in my education was my high school biology teacher, Mr. Winters.

I hear that Tim and Cheryl Bender and sons are ready to go down to their second home in Florida. That is where some in the Tea Party debate crowd cheered enthusiastically at just hearing the number of executions during Perry's time in office. And that is why I think today's Florida is a very creepy place.

What did God say about whom vengeance belongs to? He said, "Vengeance is mine!" He said it is his responsibility. Many gathered around the courthouse where Casey Anthony was on trial, seemingly ready to tear her apart. So they clearly believe that vengeance belongs to us.

All the world's eyes turned to the United Nations meeting, but not much attention was given to former first lady of Great Britain Sarah Brown, who was there to promote her initiative to lower the dreadful death rate of new mothers. Many, many women died needlessly in childbirth, leaving who knows how many children motherless. I understand that childbirth is a natural process, and some think of it as a disease. But I also realize that it is one of the most dangerous events in many women's lives. I think for me, I couldn't face it without a trained assistant there with me.

There is no way I could have given birth to my first baby without forceps, because she had a very hard head that was completely stuck because her head didn't mold into a kind of cone-head shape like most newborn babies. There was no way she could have turned without the assistance of forceps.

I was attended by a very experienced childbirth doctor, assisted by a midwife. Millions of young women across the world face that situation totally alone. Very few women in my grandmother's generation had a doctor's presence at their many childbirths. Sadly, many died.

I talked about this to my Glotfelty aunts when they visited their childhood home on Labor Day. When the youngest child of Orval and Emma Glotfetly was born, someone told Dorothy's older siblings that they had a new baby sister. They replied, "Yes, we know that. We saw Maddy's bonnet in the hall." That was the local midwife, Maddy Orendorf, an old-order Amish woman who always wore a traditional long black bonnet.

It would not be too costly or difficult to train many African or Southeast Asian women as local midwives. They would need only a very few essential supplies to help many women get a chance to give birth safely. But it will not happen unless someone takes a leadership role like Sarah Brown is trying to do.

It will also not happen without any funding. This seems like a worthy task for the Pro-Life movement. Of course, an equal number of innocent babies die in childbirth as their mothers, and it does not only happen in the poorest regions of the world like Africa and Southeast Asia. It also happens in America, partially because of the slashing of funding for programs such as Medicaid, Planned Parenthood, and WIC.

Sept. 23 was the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Peace Corps, created by JFK's brother-in-law Sargent Shriver in 1961. It is one way to act on the famous quotation from JFK's inaugural address: "Ask not what your country can do for you, ask what you can do for your country." The Peace Corps will celebrate its anniversary in Washington, D.C. One of the events is to honor Peace Corps volunteers who died while they were in service, at Arlington National Cemetery.

Rodney and Marci Glotfelty plan to attend in honor of my youngest brother Scott Glotfelty, who died in the small West African nation of Togo in the spring of 1988. Scott possessed so many and varied talents, and had many accomplishments, but instead of accepting some nice job offers to join veterinary practices, no doubt, well paid positions, he chose a different path. He wanted to change the world for the better and help a poor African nation learn how to establish and conduct a livestock industry, resulting in lower hunger.

Scott learned well from our father, Robert O. Glotfelty, who worked extensively in the Farm Bureau and was once Maryland State Farm Bureau president. Scott got something else from Daddy. As Pastor Mitchell said during my father's funeral, "He never met a stranger." They connected with anyone who crossed paths with them, treating them as unique and valuable. That includes all kinds of people, from very different backgrounds.

Our two Glotfelty aunts traveled to Togo to attend the dedication of a new well in the village where Scott was based, and many Togoans rushed up to them and enthusiastically greeted them, "You are the aunts!" That well was paid for by the many kind donations in memory of Scott at his untimely death.

Besides the death penalty, to me a more fearsome thought is life in prison with no possible parole or early release. To spend every day of the rest of your life in prison, so that every hour of every day you can only do one thing: think about your evil deed. If the death penalty is supposed to be a deterrent to crime, is that prospect not as bad as anything? And the criminals will still face ultimate justice when they meet their Maker. Again, isn't vengeance supposed to belong to God?

I always feel deeply sad when I see the insurance advertisement featuring a shaggy white dog doing regular doggie things, with the sound track of a song, "Just another day and I will be all right."

I felt that Boo said that to me during her last couple of weeks of life. And I did everything to make things all right for her. The first thing I did when I got up very early every morning was to check and see if she was all right. But there was very little I could do for her, as she was approaching 100 years old in dog years. But I think she is all right in "Animal Heaven" with many of my other beloved animal friends, like Little Joe, Misty, our childhood dog Ralph, and my first cat Tinkerbell. There are too many to mention each.

I briefly visited Barcelona, Spain, and saw many beautiful churches and cathedrals. I then visited the tiny coastal town where the family of our college friend had a rental villa. Today is the last bull fight that will be held in that region of Spain, because it is the most cruel sport for the animals involved. We didn't attend any bull fights. They had no appeal for me.

I had so many wonderful teachers from elementary to high school, undergraduate college, and graduate school. Each taught me different and almost equally valuable lessons. But all of them expected much from me, encouraged me to set high goals for myself, and inspired a love of learning in me.

But I have to say that my parents taught me the most. They were the most perfect example of how supportive parents make all the difference in their children's education. And there are many various adults who performed teaching roles in my life, such as 4-H leaders, Sunday School teachers, and pastors.

AN "OUR COMMUNITY ROCKS" MOSAIC was recently displayed at the Garrett County Health Department and Garrett College by the AmeriCorps Summer Art Camp students. It will reside at the Maryland Cooperative Extension 4-H Center. The project is funded through Governor's Office on Service and Volunteerism and the Garrett County Arts Council. Shown from left are AmeriCorps members, Austin Smith, Erin Nell, and Alexandra Cortez. Children and youth from the summer art camps and Partners After School Summer Program built the mosaic out of native rocks. It is intended to reflect the uniqueness of each of the young artists, the recycling logo, and the intersection where art meets the environment. See story.

"Our Community Rocks" Mosaic Made At Camp

The theme for this year's AmeriCorps Summer Art Camp was "Our Community Rocks," with the main project being a community mosaic made from native rocks.

Derived from the concept that the community can "rock" the environment by making individuals aware of recycling, reusing, reducing, and repurposing, the theme was incorporated into the arts camp by using recycled materials for all projects.

AmeriCorps of the Garrett County Health Department has been sensitive to environmental issues since the AmeriCorps program began in 1994. To date, the GCHD is on its way to becoming a paperless agency. Much is left to be done, as last year 10,135 pounds of paper were recycled because of old records being put on a digital record-keeping system and then being shredded. The health department also recycles plastic and will soon begin recycling aluminum.

Environmental wellness is one of seven aspects of wellness, noted a spokesperson. The environment and how one feels about it can have an impact on his/her well-being. Environmental wellness encompasses not just nature but also personal surroundings. It involves taking care of possessions, homes, cars, and places of business, which helps to maintain a sense of personal care.

When one's personal surroundings are well cared for, clean, and organized, the spokesperson added, a greater sense of comfort is experienced, as well as less anxiety, which in turn contributes to emotional wellness. Environmental wellness also involves caring for and appreciating nature, which is a sure way to lead to an increased understanding of spiritual wellness.

Upon attending the 2009 National Volunteer and Service Conference, Sandy Miller, AmeriCorps supervisor at GCHD, learned that many children care about animals and the environment. With this in mind, the AmeriCorps team decided then to utilize a portion of the Garrett County Arts Council grant for Camp Colorful Smiles and Junior Art Camp. Both camps are an opportunity to incorporate the arts and educate children and the community about the importance of the "4 R's": reducing, recycling, reusing, and re-purposing.

Northern Garrett Republican Women Meet In McHenry

The Northern Garrett Republican Women recently met at the home of Ruth Umbel in McHenry. Umbel hosted the group's business meeting, which included special guest Jane Howell, regional chair of the Allegany County Republican Women. Ten members in all were in attendance.

Lois Rowe presided over the business meeting. Carolyn Ganoe joined Umbel to give a report on the western regional conference recently held in Frederick. Another focus of the meeting was the group's interest in "getting the Constitution back into public schools." Details for the Maryland Federation of Republican Women State Fall Convention, to be held Nov. 4-6 at the Hagerstown Hotel, were discussed. The Northern Garrett Club will be responsible for registration on Friday. The fashion show is still in the planning stages.

Catherine Spiker won a floral basket donated by Sharon Kyle, Spiker, and Carolyn Ganoe.

A program was given by Umbel on "Americanism." She stated that she had traveled to 32 clubs through Maryland, and she shared some of the knowledge and ideas that she had acquired from those experiences. She also touched upon the Republican philosophy, and stressed the importance of being familiar with it.

The rewards program was also reviewed at the meeting.

The group's next meeting will be the annual auction held at the Hilltop Restaurant on Thursday, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m.

AERS Offering Evaluations For Garrett Co. Adults

The Adult Evaluation and Review Services (AERS) offers free, confidential, and comprehensive evaluations for any Garrett County resident over the age of 18. The evaluation can be completed in the privacy of one's own home or at the Garrett County Health Department office.

A nurse and/or social worker can evaluate one's medical condition and help with referrals to different services and programs within the county. AERS works closely with other agencies in the county as well as the patient's physician to link one with services to help maintain a level of independence.

Some services may include but are not limited to chore services, personal care services, in-home delivered meals, older adult waiver registry, housing related resources, and energy assistance. Some of these programs have income and asset guidelines, as well as sliding scale fees.

The Garrett County Health Department also offers an Alzheimer's support group that meets from 6 to 8 p.m. on the last Monday of each month, except for July, August, and December. The support group offers an informative educational environment for caregivers of loved ones with dementia.

Those interested in an AERS referral should call 301-334-7740 or 301-895-3111.

Equally impossible for me to answer are the questions "Which book or author most influenced your life?" I am perhaps the most insatiable reader. My parents used to laugh and say, "There's Joan again with her nose stuck in a book!" So the most important book to me was the first one I read that thrilled me.

My Aunt Dorothy Quaintance used to read aloud to me from The Black Stallion by Walter Farley, and once she went back to college, I was forced to try to learn to read for myself. So I regularly brought that fairly long book into first grade with me, and that caused my first grade teacher Mrs. Dean to start to read it aloud to the whole class.

Since my earliest days, I had a serious ambition to be a knowledgeable horse person, and the best way to reach that goal was through books. During late elementary school, I got addicted to Nancy Drew mysteries. The various subject matter and background setting in each book in that long series exposed me to some interesting subjects that I wanted to learn more about.

No doubt any family that is having serious financial problems and is barely able to provide a decent diet, clothes, or heat for their home can't see that it would be wise to spend much on books, but they are the most valuable possessions. I know I spend probably most of my disability income on books. I have collected hundreds of books, and would be barely able to live without them.

When there was a possibility that I would become a mother, I collected the most valuable books for my future children. I found a wonderful detailed set of encyclopedias of American history. They are among many books that are MIA, and I need them now. I found them at either the used book store or a yard sale. But someone decided that they were disposable, and I am very angry about that. Perhaps a dozen Nancy Drew books I collected over decades are also simply gone.

I and my long-time friend who is also highly educated, Penny Friend (now Batham), discovered even when we were growing up that the Drew books are soothing reading materials when life's crises seem almost overwhelming. That would be useful for me now.

When I was stuck in the Oakland Nursing and Rehabilitation Center, I asked my friend Mike Vogel to try to find a funny book for me, and he brought me a book from a new favorite writer, Bill Bryson. The first book Mike gave me was I Am a Stranger Here, Too, about his return to America after a couple decades of living in England. His insights about aspects of American culture are both funny and wise. I can't recommend his books strongly enough.

This current trend of blaming our public education system for the low achievement of young people is simply misplaced blame. It is the responsibility of all adults in our society to promote ability and achievement of young people. What is your contribution to that end?

One lady who made an impact on me was one of the most prominent society women in America, Janet Auchincloss, the mother of Jackie Kennedy. Why did she bother to spend time volunteering? Because she had something to share, and was able to contribute to the development of the most promising young horse persons. She was delighted to have a chance to interact with and influence young people like me. She devoted a serious amount of effort to make my life better. She not only judged with the highest possible standards, but she also bothered to engage individually those young people.

That is what our very best teachers are doing every day. And to me, that was the most important element of my job as English professor at GCC, not only to deliver the subject matter effectively, but also to look at each individual student to see what he or she needed to be successful. Sometimes I was almost a mother figure for those who were far from home.

I once received a phone call from a mother in Baltimore about her son, who was an outstanding basketball player. She asked me to make sure his knee was well-treated and decide whether he could continue to play while it was recovering after a bad injury. And that was a big decision, because his athletic ability might have led to a scholarship to a top basketball university. Anyway, he is now something very important: an African-American male teacher in an inner-city high school.

I am sad to watch the last game of the season for the Pirates. They are not fully up to the early promise they showed, but I enjoy watching them so much. And there is always next year. But they are quite young and inexperienced.

My Caitlin is facing more than just a full plate this semester: her first semester in graduate school and a very demanding job, but with a lot of great learning opportunities. My advice to her was to just pretend she is a running back in football, just plowing through, one step at a time. I know she will do fine.

She has the right kind of educational experiences and the right kind of heart and mind to become a fine social worker, and her ultimate goal is to "change the world" as much as possible.

I told her about Franco Harris, who always plowed through any opponent, and was in the right place to take advantage of a fluke bounce to score a big win for the Steelers: the Immaculate Reception. You never know when something might come your way, and you need to be ready to take advantage of it and have the skills required to complete it.

I can't help but believe when she was inside me and I fainted dead away when the terrible news came about her Uncle Scott's death that his spirit entered her. She has the same adventurous spirit and passion to want to make a difference to the most suffering people in the world.

AUTUMN COLORS ABOUNDING – Summer said farewell a few weeks ago, and with its exit are born the vibrant colors of autumn, the morphing tree leaves from green to orange and red, complemented by the late-blooming flowers like these marigolds and salvia. The Mountaintop is most surely beginning to clothe itself in the hues of the season, seeming to be readying for next week's Autumn Glory Festival. See the special supplement all about the festival in today's issue of The Republican. While temperatures dropped low even for Garrett County last weekend, and reportedly brought a few flakes of the white stuff, the mercury has climbed back up in the past few days, and the next week looks far more pleasant with 70-degree days and 40-degree nights. GARRETT COUNTY'S MOST BEAUTIFUL PERSON for 2011 is Mary Frantz. The announcement was made on Tuesday during the county commissioners' public meeting at the courthouse. The Friendsville resident was nominated by Mildred Wucik. Each year the public is invited to nominate individuals or groups that have made significant contributions to communities through their unpaid volunteer efforts. A local committee then chooses GC's Most Beautiful Person. "Mary Frantz is one of our angels on Earth," Wucik wrote in her nomination. "For many years she has participated in the Relay for Life and Hospice walks. For most years, she has been one of the top collectors." In addition, Frantz has been a volunteer caregiver for the terminally ill for 27 years, helps numerous groups with their fundraising dinners, regularly donates to local food banks, visits nursing home residents and hospital patients to give encouragement, and transports individuals who can no longer drive. The commissioners presented Frantz with a proclamation and glassware from Simon Pearce. Sen. George Edwards also presented her with proclamations from the Maryland Senate and House of Delegates, congratulating her for being chosen the county's Most Beautiful Person. Also nominated for the award were Tom Browning, Ann Smith, Don Sincell, Cindy Kutchman (posthumously) and Sandy Bell, Mary Jane Harvey, Mark Durst, Kathy Savage, Dick Schrock, and Brenda Brosnihan. Edwards congratulated all the nominees. "Thank you for all the outstanding work that you do to make Garrett County a much better place," the senator said. Garrett County Commissioners Request Deferment Of PlanMaryland Adoption

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners during its public meeting on Tuesday unanimously executed a resolution requesting deferment of the adoption of PlanMaryland. The document will be forwarded to the governor and Maryland Department of Planning personnel.

State officials project Maryland's population will increase by 1 million during the next 20 years. Proposed by Gov. Martin O'Malley, the initiative examines that issue and, according to plan opponents, gives the state more control over local land-use issues.

"The growth issues that Garrett County will face over the next few years are different than those that are faced in the urban and suburban areas of the state of Maryland and nation," the commissioners stated in a press release. "The board believes that land management should be left to local jurisdictions, as it is local jurisdictions that best understand their local growth challenges and needs. The proposed plan, as it applies to Garrett County, has the potential to stifle and suppress growth opportunities instead of incentivizing them."

The commissioners added they did not want the county to become an impoverished ward of the state.

"Garrett County has resources that will allow the county to contribute in our own unique way," the officials stated. "Embracing and acknowledging diversity gives our state and ultimately county and municipal governments strength and resiliency."

The commissioners' resolution asks the Maryland Department of Planning and the governor to delay the adoption of PlanMaryland until Garrett County and all counties across the state are amenable to the nexus of the plan and that the interest of rural jurisdictions such as Garrett County is acknowledged and protected.

"The board believes it would be relevant to include an exemption where population growth has been less than 1 percent," the commissioners included in their resolution to state officials. "Garrett County's population growth (according to the 2010 census) only increased by 251 people, or less than 1 percent. A large portion of the economy of Garrett County is recreational based, which requires more flexibility or acknowledgment within the plan. Many of the initiatives and practices that are called for in the plan are counterintuitive for our area."

DOT Officials To Discuss Six-Year Plan Tomorrow

The Maryland Department of Transportation (DOT) and State Highway Administration's (SHA) annual meeting with local official will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow, Friday, Oct. 7, in the Garrett County commissioners' meeting room at the courthouse in Oakland. The event is open to the public.

Transportation and highway officials, including Maryland Transportation Secretary Beverly Swaim, will discuss DOT's six-year (FY 2012-2017) Consolidated Transportation Program draft and review local and statewide projects.

Traditionally, Garrett County officials also present a list of projects and concerns that they would like SHA and DOT to address.

Each fall, the department presents its draft to every county and Baltimore city for review and comment. It then prepares a final report to present to the General Assembly in January.

Friendsville Woman Receives Sentence For GC Jail Escape

A 31-year-old Friendsville resident was sentenced last week in Garrett County Circuit Court to seven years in the Division of Corrections for a first degree escape.

Judge Jim Sherbin then suspended all but 18 months of Alisa Marie Shafer's sentence, which she will serve in the Garrett County Jail. She pleaded guilty to the charge in August.

Shafer was arrested and charged by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in May after she escaped from the jail. She had been committed to the jail in default of bond for a second degree assault charge earlier that day. It was determined that she had knocked a hole through the wall of the bathroom adjoining her cell and left through the lobby-area of the detention center.

In an unrelated case, Kevin James Siesky, 42, Oakland, recently admitted in Circuit Court to violating his probation. Judge Daniel Moylan then reimposed the previously suspended sentence of 18 months less 133 days, which Siesky will serve in the Garrett County Jail.

He pleaded guilty to driving under the influence in November 2008 and was sentenced to 18 months in the Garrett County Jail. After serving 133 days of the sentence, Siesky was released and placed on probation. He violated his probation by not completing alcohol treatment and failing to report as directed, the state's attorney noted.

ASCI To Offer Fall Activities Beginning Saturday, Oct. 8

The Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI) will offer enhanced programs on Saturdays this fall beginning this Saturday, Oct. 8.

Activities will include foliage and natural history hikes, fitness hikes, mountain bike clinics, and climbing and rappelling. These programs will be based in the Fork Run Recreation Area, a 550-acre nature preserve managed by ASCI and protected forever by conservation easements owned by the Maryland Environmental Trust. Instruction will be provided by Garrett College's Adventure Sports-institute (ASI).

To take advantage of the fall colors, ASCI will offer fall foliage and natural history hikes in Fork Run on Oct. 8 and 15 from 10 a.m. to noon. ASI guides, many who have also taken classes through the college's Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology (NRWT) program, will be educating the hikers on how to identify the various fall foliage trees, including a prized grove of rare American chestnuts.

Additional highlights include Fork Run itself – a reproducing native trout habitat – and the 250-million-year-old boulders and cliffs in the Fork Run Recreation Area. The walking distance is up to two miles over easy to some moderate trail conditions. The cost is $25 per person.

For hikers wanting a more intense experience, "Fitness Hikes" will be offered every Saturday morning from 10 a.m. to noon over a four-mile loop, including new single-track trails built in conjunction with Garrett Trails and through workforce development grants administered by Community Action.

"Great views and scenery with natural boulders and ledges add to the basic fitness value of hiking," noted a spokesperson. "ASCI's goal is to promote healthy and active outdoor lifestyles."

Jesse Broadwater Hits Target With Ongoing Pro Archery Career Wins

by Brenda Rugglero

Over the past decade or so, former Garrett County resident Jesse Broadwater has made a name for himself in the world of archery. Both in the states and overseas, he has won numerous titles, awards, and even cars.

A 2002 graduate of Northern High School, Jesse will be 28 in January. He grew up with his two older brothers, Jason and Tommy, at their parents' home along Old Frostburg Road.

His start in archery came early and hit hard.

"Our dad got us all started in archery about the same time, and I was 6," he explained. "He was into hunting, and had gotten into bow hunting, and wanted to share the experience with us. We all loved it. I started out with a recurve bow, shot it for awhile, then got a compound bow. I couldn't put it down – I loved it! I would shoot outside in the winter time, with two feet of snow on the ground, just to practice."

Jesse was soon hooked on hunting, and began shooting as practice.

"The thrill of having to get in close range of wildlife to be successful hunting with a bow was quite the adrenaline rush for me, and a lot of others," he explained. "So I just wanted to make sure I was ready for hunting, and could make the shot when the time came. But as I was practicing, people were telling me that I was doing really well, with just a hunting bow."

Jesse's next step was to get a better bow and begin target shooting. He joined the Cumberland Bowhunters Club and practiced even more.

"I knew that archery was something that I loved doing and couldn't get enough of at times, but I really didn't know that it would turn into what it has for me," he said. "I have to thank a lot of people for that, my parents especially, and my brothers, who were also national and regional champions. I have always looked up to them, and still do. Also the helpful people of Cumberland Bowhunters.

"As I kept shooting, people must have realized that I was half decent at it, and were really supportive in guiding me further in the right direction."

From there, Jesse went to a few shoots, where he did well, then went to Winter Leagues.

"I guess as time went on, I just kept progressing more and more, and started winning more tournaments," he said. "Other people and manufacturers started noticing me, and started helping me. I knew that when I turned 18, I wanted to try the pro ranks, and I did. The rest is really history."

Currently, Jesse lives in Jennerstown, Pa., and continues to shoot around 20 major tournaments a year. He noted that he practices as much as he can, but sometimes that isn't even one day a week. However, if he has a shoot coming up, he practices more often. He travels all over the country and the world.

SAVAGEMAN DIRECTOR HONORED – The Garrett County commissioners expressed their appreciation to Greg Safko, director of the annual SavageMan Triathlon Festival, during their public meeting on Tuesday. Billed as the most "savage" triathlon in the world, the two-day event took place in Garrett and Allegany counties in September. In addition to raising awareness for skin cancer, the festival spotlighted the natural resources and beauty of the local area. Proceeds from the 30.0 and 70.0 races went to the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation. More than 500 athletes from 32 states – as well as such foreign countries as Canada, the United Kingdom, Ecuador, and Costa Rico – competed. Participants were asked to complete a survey and write comments about their experiences. One athlete wrote, "SavageMan is a gloriously challenging, spectacularly scenic, well organized, and all-around fun race – simply awesome!" Another said, "The SavageMan Triathlon made for a great get-away outdoors vacation, with camping, biking, swimming, and great scenery to enjoy." The commissioners presented Safko with a Simon Pearce glass sailboat and a certificate of accommodation for his efforts to promote Garrett County and skin cancer awareness. PRECISION AND ACCURACY have been a part of award-winning archer Jesse Broadwater's life for more than a decade now. He believes that his Garrett County roots have helped to shape him into a winner on the pro archery circuit. Support from his sponsors enables him to continue traveling and participating in tournaments across the world. He is pictured above at a shoot. See feature story.

Veterans Day Nat'l Roll Call Slated At Garrett College

Garrett College will take part in a nationwide grassroots effort on Veterans Day, Nov. 11, to honor American service men and women who have died in Iraq and Afghanistan during the past decade. A Remembrance Day National Roll Call will take place on that day.

During this commemoration, campus and community volunteers at more than 100 colleges and universities across the nation will read the names of the 6,200-plus casualties of Operation Enduring Freedom (OEF) and Operation Iraqi Freedom (OEF), now called Operation New Dawn.

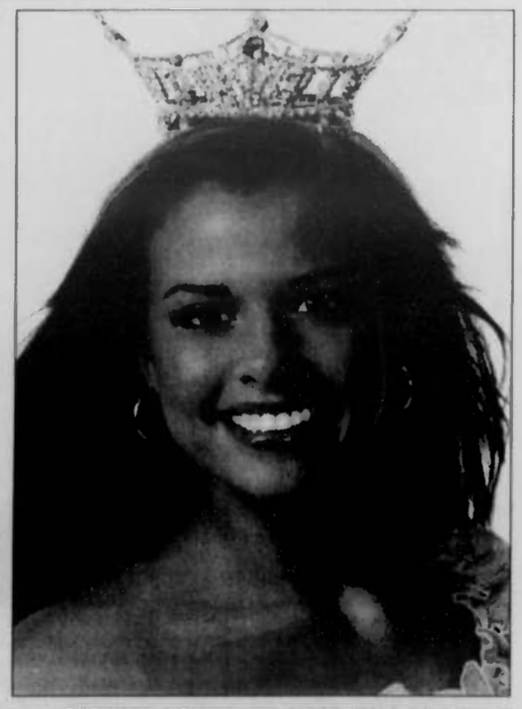
Garrett College Financial Aid/Veterans Affairs counselor Kathy Fauber explained that the Roll Call will begin at 8:30 a.m., with a closing ceremony held at 4:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

"The reading of the names will take nearly eight hours to complete as readers announce the names in chronological order. We hope members of the community will consider participating in this effort to recognize those who serve so unselfishly and have paid the highest price for our country," she said.

The Roll Call event is sponsored nationally by the Veterans Knowledge Community of NASPA Student Affairs Administrators in Higher Education. NASPA is a 12,000-member association for the advancement, health, and sustainability of the student affairs professionals. The Veterans Knowledge Community (VKC) mission is to advocate for best practices to help student veterans in their transition to college and to succeed.

As the National Roll Call sponsor, the goal of VKC is to have at least one institution in each of the 50 states participate in the event.

Anyone who would like to participate in the reading of names at Garrett College for this event or would like any further information may contact Fauber at kathy.fauber@garrettcollege.edu or by calling 301-387-3057.



GARRETT COUNTY TO HOST MISS MARYLAND – The newly crowned Miss Maryland Carlie Colella is scheduled to participate in the upcoming Autumn Glory Festival's Grand Feature Parade. The Hagerstown resident was named Miss Maryland on Saturday after winning the Miss Maryland Scholarship Pageant at the Maryland Theatre. She will represent the Free State next year in the 2012 Miss America Pageant. Colella stated that the idea of winning never crossed her mind, as this was her first state pageant. She has credited last year's winner Lindsay Stanislzewski for her participation. "I did not place at my first competition," Colella explained. "Lindsay encouraged me and said I was needed on the stage." Colella's mother, who shared in her daughter's sense of amazement after the win, described herself as "speechless." Prior to the win she advised her daughter to just have fun and, regardless of the outcome, enjoy herself.

SHA Reminds Marylanders Of New Sign Regulations, Penalties

The warning period for illegal commercial signs began Oct. 1, and fines up to $25 will be issued beginning in January. A new law now allows the State Highway Administration (SHA) and local governments to recover costs of removing illegal signs from highways.

Travelers along Maryland routes should soon see a lot fewer illegally placed signs along state-maintained highways.

Passed in the 2011 Legislative Session, SB 410 provides a three-month warning period before a sign fee can be issued to persons illegally posting signs on state highways. After Jan. 1, 2012, persons who place signs within state rights of way are subject to a $25 fine for each sign placed.

"Illegal signs can become roadway debris and hazards for drivers, endanger or hinder maintenance crews, and clog drainage systems," said acting administrator and deputy transportation secretary Darrell B. Mobley. "We appreciate the economic benefit of local businesses and the need to advertise. Business owners can work with SHA through partnerships that support branding, including logo and sponsorship programs and of course, advertising through existing billboards."

Signs are an important source of information for travelers – speed limits, directions, exits, destinations, and warnings. There are national standards to make it easy for drivers to quickly recognize those signs and process the information conveyed in such regulatory signs for lane restrictions or green informational signs on the highway system.

Other signs distract drivers and, in some cases, can impede the sight distance for drivers and block legal signs from view. These signs also affect maintenance operations, interfere with the work of utility crews, and mar the landscape along Maryland's scenic routes.

Along state highways, including interstates, U.S., and Maryland numbered routes, private signs are prohibited in the medians and along the sides on the public property, or "right(s) of way." The illegal signs are often found attached to utility poles or stacked together on wooden posts littering medians.

SHA is responsible for more than 17,000 miles of roadway statewide including the maintenance and regulation of outdoor advertising. Crews pick up illegal signs throughout the year, costing tax payers $600,000 annually.

SHA has programs in place to help businesses and other agencies comply with federal and state law. To learn more about outdoor advertising regulations and programs in Maryland, persons should visit www.roads.maryland.gov.

Public Works Bd. Approves Ag Cost-Share Grants

Gov. Martin O'Malley announced yesterday that the Board of Public Works approved $359,410 in agricultural cost-share grants in 11 counties for 40 projects that will prevent soil erosion, manage nutrients, and safeguard water quality in streams, rivers, and the Chesapeake Bay.

Together, these projects will prevent 5,073.37 pounds of nitrogen, 1,581.80 pounds of phosphorus, and 740 tons of soil from entering the bay and its tributaries. These projects are funded by state general obligation bonds and are not part of MDA's general fund budget allocation. The board members are the governor, treasurer Nancy K. Kopp, and comptroller Peter Franchot.

"Maryland has been a leader in helping farmers protect soil and water resources by providing conservation grants to install tried and true conservation measures as well as innovative, state-of-the-art practices," said O'Malley. "Farmers have consistently gone above and beyond to help improve the quality of our bay, and these cost-share grants help them continue to do their part to protect natural resources for future generations, preserve open space, and maintain the rich agricultural heritage of our state."

For the past 25 years, the Maryland Agricultural Water Quality Cost-Share (MACS) Program has been providing farmers with grants to cover up to 87.5 percent of the cost to install conservation measures known as "best management practices" (BMPs) on their farms to prevent soil erosion, manage nutrients, and safeguard water quality in streams, rivers, and the Chesapeake Bay.

Since the program started in 1984, farmers have spent over $15 million of their own money to match more than $105 million in state and federal funds to install over 21,000 water quality projects or about 2.5 BMPs per day, every day, for 26 years.

"Installation of agricultural BMPs on farmland is a key feature of Maryland's recent plan submitted to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to reduce nutrients," O'Malley said.

Grassed waterways constructed to prevent gully erosion in farm fields, streamside buffers of grasses and trees planted to filter sediment and farm runoff, and animal waste management systems constructed to help farmers safely handle and store manure resources are among more than 30 BMPs currently eligible for MACS grants, the governor noted.

For a summary of Maryland Agricultural Cost Share Program Grants by county, persons may go to www.mda.state.md.us/pdf/10-05-11_bpw_macs.pdf.

"All of the shoots are important to me, and all of the medals are important to me," he said. "Some of the titles that stand out recently are gold team at Outdoor Worlds, silver individual at Outdoor Worlds, and winning all four shoots that were held in Yankton, S.D., this July, setting a world record and winning my third car shoot-off to top it all off.

"That week was without a doubt the most rewarding that I have had so far. I won the NFAA (National Field Archery Association) outdoor nationals there for the sixth time in a row, the NAA (National Archery Association) outdoor nationals for the fourth time in a row, the Hoyt Open for the third time, and I won the NAA field shoot. It was my first time shooting this type of shoot, and then I got the car at the end."

Currently, Jesse has about 10 sponsors. For each piece of equipment he uses (bow, arrow, release, optics, stabilizers, etc.), he is sponsored by the manufacturer to shoot and represent its product and company in a professional manner. Some help support getting him to the tournaments financially, and some pay a contingency when he places.

"They are all needed, and are all very important in keeping me doing what I'm doing now for a living," he noted.

Jesse met his wife Lisa through archery as well.

"I could tell right away that she was the one," he said. "It will be five years this November. My wife shoots, and is darn good, too! She has competed at a national and world level also, and has done really well. She loves bow hunting also. We have been teaching the kids to shoot off and on, and I think they will take an interest in it."

The couple's daughter Gracie was born in Nov. 2007, and his wife also had three children before they met. Tristan is 6, Michael is 19, and Lacey is 23. They also have custody of another 3-year-old girl named Molly.

"I love my family more than anything, and would do anything for them," Jesse said. "I enjoy every day with them, and want to make the most of it, because I know the kids grow up fast!"

Jesse noted that his favorite parts of growing up in Garrett County were the simple life and the country.

"I think it's a beautiful place, even though the winters get a little rough sometimes," he said. "It will always feel like home to me.

"Living in Garrett County has helped me a lot, I believe, for the simple fact that I believe a good country style root is the best type to have in life. I think the simple lifestyle teaches you to always use common sense. It teaches hard work and respect for people, the land, outdoors, and country. Plus, I could go step out our door and shoot my bow or gun pretty much any time.

"I'm so glad I wasn't raised in a city somewhere, because I can't stand cities. I feel sorry for people who live in cities, because the majority of them never get to experience the simple, country type of lifestyle and the true outdoors."

Besides the tournaments he's won, Jesse also has a memory of a moment that didn't exactly go his way.

At a major indoor tournament one year, he was down to the final arrows of a sudden death shoot-off against his opponent

"I was just getting ready to pull my bow back, and my release somehow slipped off my string and my arrow went sliding across the floor," he said. "And in this game, if your arrow goes a certain distance in front of you, it's considered a shot arrow. Everyone was watching. It was dead quiet, and I couldn't believe that just happened. That was the first, and the last, time that that's ever happened, even in all my practice. I lost points for that arrow and finished second. That was a costly mistake, and it's funny now looking back at it. My archery buddies that were there watching all joke about it now, every time I get into a shoot-off."

Jesse hopes to continue along his current path as long as it works out.

"I want to keep doing what I'm doing for as long as I can – as long as I'm highly competitive," Jesse said. "Then I may work my way into the industry and have a job that has something to do with archery, the outdoors, or hunting. But who knows what the future holds? I just take it day by day."

GCHC MUSEUM OF TRANSPORTATION HOSTING AGF CAR SHOW – The Garrett County Historical Society will sponsor an American Lancia Club (ALC) "Concours d'Elegance" as part of the Autumn Glory Festival car show, slated for Sunday, Oct. 16, in downtown Oakland. The Lancia automobiles (an example is pictured) will have exclusive parking spots at the new Garrett County Transportation Museum, located along Liberty Street. The Italian auto maker Lancia began operations in 1906 and soon gained renown for engineering innovation and coach-building refinement, a spokesperson said. After World War II, the company experienced competitive successes in long-distance races such as the Mille Miglia and a Grand Prix championship. The car above is a 1966 Flaminia Berline, once owned by local ALC member Ariel Robinson. The car, number 499 of 599 made, is now garaged by his son, Mark Robinson, in San Diego, Calif. "It is a Pinin Farina design," A. Robinson said, "and was arguably the most admired sedan of the period. They were frightfully costly," he added.

Round-File It, Governor...

An article in a regional daily newspaper today carries the front-page headline "Garrett should take caution with PlanMaryland," and according to a number of sources, that seems to be sound advice.

PlanMaryland is the O'Malley administration's proposal that is allegedly designed to support what has come to be known as "smart growth," or to help control urban sprawl.

First of all, urban sprawl is certainly not an issue in Garrett County, and probably never will be. Opponents of PlanMaryland say that the proposal is little more than a power grab by the state that will virtually usurp the authority of local elected officials when it comes to land-use planning. In other words, unelected bureaucrats in Annapolis would have the ultimate say on what kind of land use is permissible, or not, in Garrett County and throughout the entire state.

The first draft of PlanMaryland, released back in April, even drew harsh criticism from the often timid MACo (Maryland Association of Counties), which issued a statement saying it "could not support a plan that would impose a centralized state-controlled land-use model" on member counties. So the governor reworked the plan and will take public comment until November 7, but many county officials say that they will need more time to consider the proposal. Even with the rewrite, the goal of the project is essentially unchanged.

Phil Hager, planning director for neighboring Allegany County, described PlanMaryland as "the single largest intrusion upon local land use control" in Maryland history, and he may well be correct. Among the fears of rural counties is that the plan will not only impede economic development in their counties – which is so desperately needed – but will also result in the funneling of tax dollars to projects in the urban areas of the state. Again, those aforementioned unelected bureaucrats will decide which projects should get priority for funding, and nine times out of ten, projects in the areas with the largest populations (the most votes) will sit atop the priority list.

Maryland is such a diverse state (as are many) that a cookie-cutter, one-size-fits-all, blanket plan for the entire state almost never works and is grossly unfair, usually to the rural counties. The best location for PlanMaryland is the proverbial round file.

To the Editor:

Excitement was in the air last Saturday at the annual "Tour of Davis – Run for It" in Davis, W.Va., hosted by the Tucker Community Foundation!

What a great way for local organizations to raise funds for their favorite community causes. I would like to personally thank the cooperate sponsors in Garrett County for their generous donations that went to the "Best of County" team, which was "Garrett Mentors On-The-Move."

A big Thank-You goes out to First United Bank & Trust, Garrett College, and last but not least, The Republican newspaper. Because of these sponsors, we were able to raise over $1,000 this year for Garrett Mentors at the "Run for It!" Thanks also to all of our runners, walkers, team "Always Fit," and individual sponsors who helped to make this year's run at great success.

October is National Long-Term Care Residents' Rights Month, a time to acknowledge the contributions and sacrifices many long-term care (LTC) residents have made to better our community, and to call attention to the rights of residents in long-term care facilities.

This year's theme – Welcome Home: Creating Connections Between Residents and the Community – was selected to call attention to the fact that residents of LTC facilities are still an important and valuable part of our local communities. Residents of LTC facilities have had experiences most of us can only dream of. They are the founders of the communities we live in, and what we have as a community is because of their hard work and contributions. As a community, we need to involve residents in our activities – such as Boy and Girl Scout functions, community forums, political rallies, and annual community events.

By listening to residents' voices, we honor their lives and experiences, as well as treat them with dignity and respect. Staff and residents can enjoy relationships that enhance their day-to-day lives, and the long-term care facility can operate more effectively in its daily activities when based on and developed with consumer involvement. Many people care about residents – members, citizen advocates, long-term care ombudsmen, facility staff, and others. This care can be truly individualized and focused on each person's needs and preferences.

Celebrate and acknowledge these rights by participating in Residents' Rights Month events and calling on your elected officials and local facilities to show their support by attending or organizing activities.

During Residents' Rights Month, we recognize our local long-term ombudsman program, staff, and volunteers, who work daily to promote residents' rights, assist residents with complaints, and provide information to those who need to find a long-term care facility. In this area, the ombudsman program is located at Garrett County Community Action and housed in the Aging and Nutrition office. The local ombudsman is Terry White, and persons can contact this office at 301-334-9431, ext. 141. You can reach the Maryland state ombudsman at 1-800-243-3425.

As Garrett County celebrates residents' rights, I encourage citizens to visit those they know in a long-term care facility, volunteer, participate in events, or inquire about becoming a volunteer long-term care ombudsman. Your assistance helps to ensure that the voices of long-term care residents do not go unheard, and demonstrates to residents that they have not been forgotten.

To the Editor:

This letter is in support of your editorial article "An Unreasonable Request," which was in reference to the regulation of the level of Deep Creek Lake. I am completely opposed to raising the lower rule band for the temporary benefit of a select few.

Let me share with you the importance of the Upper Youghigheny River in my life and the impact it has had on Garrett County. My first run on the Upper Yough was in 1996. As a teenager, my father and I made the five-hour drive to the area almost weekly to kayak together.

In the years that followed graduation from college, I moved to Preston County to be near the Cheat and Yough rivers. While I technically lived in West Virginia, I was only 18 minutes outside of Friendsville. I spent six years providing medical services to an under-served area (often treating Garrett County residents) because of the whitewater recreation opportunities.

My husband taught at Central Preston Middle School for many years. One of the main reasons we lived in the area was the regular Upper Yough releases. On any given release day during the summer, we were in Friendsville, buying food from the Sugar Shack and the Funny Farm, kayak equipment from the Mountain Surf Store or the New Wilderness Voyagers Store, glue from D.I.B. inflatables, gear from Skirt Works, and occasionally things from the Natural Foods Store. Let me be clear – If the whitewater recreation were not in the region, we would not have spent a dime in Garrett County, or worked serving the community's medical needs.

I then planned my wedding in nearby Bruceton Mills. The day of my wedding, my husband, brother-in-law, and best friends all ran the Upper Yough. The Yough was the primary item in planning my wedding and spending all of the wedding money locally. We even got our food for the wedding from Country Pride Meats (best roasted pig ever!).

The benefits of the Upper Yough releases are hard to measure. Even our family reunion (renting a big house on Deep Creek Lake) was held locally because of the kayaking opportunities. I love the Upper Yough and believe that the size of the ripple effect on the local economy by canceling whitewater releases will be larger then anyone can fully appreciate.

Sincerely,
Beth Jacob

It was with great interest that I read your editorial about the water levels at Deep Creek Lake and the numerous responses in support. I grew up in Mt. Savage and Frostburg, went to GCC and WVU, and now own a home on the lake. I never thought that someone would insult me by calling me a "rich homeowner." My momma would be so proud.

Change is inevitable. I would've loved to have stayed at Merrell's hole fishing with my daddy forever. So Friendsville, rafters, fishermen fond of angling for invasive trout species, and "rich homeowners" should all prepare for change and do the best to adapt. Enjoy what you can when you can.

One thing I know is that folks in Garrett County really appreciate a lot of "out of towners" telling them what to do with their county. Maybe that is one thing that won't change. I hope so.

To the Editor

I would like to voice my support for the editorial in The Republican concerning the effects on the town of Friendsville of the Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board's consideration of raising the minimum lake levels. I applaud the position of the editor representing the importance of water releases to the town's economy.

It is clear that livelihoods and jobs are at stake in this debate. To consider that the PRB's request is representative in most cases of the convenience of having deeper water in front of a vacation home for an extra week each year reeks of elitism and an utter lack of consideration for those who most definitely are living a much more meager life financially.

As a paddler, I am fortunate to benefit from both the whitewater releases and the trout habitat releases. Living in Morgantown, W.Va., I frequently travel to Friendsville three to four times per week in the summer to paddle. I purchase fuel and food in Friendsville regularly, and am appreciative of the town's access to the river and parking on Water Street.

As a property owner on a lake (not Deep Creek), I am aware of my good fortune in life to have such a place. When my lake level falls, I do not begrudge this to those who work at the downstream mills and power stations, for mine is truly a more lavish life than theirs. The property owners on Deep Creek Lake should have some consideration for their neighbors.

Eric Henrickson

To the Editor;

I fully support your September 22 editorial, "An Unreasonable Request...." Altering the current agreement for recreational water releases from Deep Creek Lake in an attempt to maintain a higher reservoir level would be tremendously damaging to the economy downstream in the Upper Youghiogheny corridor. Whitewater and fishing outfitters would be most obviously impacted, but the damage would ripple through the peripheral businesses which river enthusiasts also patronize. These people spend money in Garrett County on fuel, lodging, food, and drink when they come to the Upper Yough, and it is doubtful that higher water levels in Deep Creek Lake would draw any of their patronage if the Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board (PRB) had its way in reducing recreational releases.

If your calculation is correct, canceling the 56 annually scheduled whitewater releases would gain only five additional days of optimal reservoir level on Deep Creek Lake. Does the PRB really believe that this 11-to-one trade represents an overall benefit to the economy of Garrett County?

I have traveled from my home in Indiana to Garrett County an average of eight times annually for the last 10 years. I come to your area specifically to kayak on the Upper Yough, and it is the current whitewater release agreement that makes it possible for me to enjoy your beautiful river as often as I do. On a typical trip, I spend at least two days and nights in the area, during which I patronize Friendsville restaurants and merchants to show my support for whitewater releases in Garrett County. My per-visit expenditure in Garrett County is about $200, and I usually travel to the area with three or four friends who spend similarly.

The last scholarly reference I could find on the economic impact of whitewater and fishing-related recreation in the Upper Yough corridor was a Maryland DNR study which conservatively estimated $800,000 in annual expenditure, and this was quoted in 1989! Surely the current figure is significantly higher.

Simply put, cutting back on recreational water releases to maintain a higher reservoir level in Deep Creek Lake is a bad idea. Friendsville and the Upper Yough corridor would lose 11 days of recreation-related business for each additional day of optimal water level gained up the lake. Is this a reasonable sacrifice? I think not.

To the Editor:

I have fished the Youghiogheny River from Swallow Falls to Friendsville over the past 40 years in every month but February. I have been more than willing to drive over three hours from my home in Anne Arundel County to access this wonderful resource. Many fishing friends have accompanied me on these forays to Garrett County. I have had friends from Cincinnati and Columbus, Ohio, meet me on the Yough for some trout fishing.

That some Deep Creek Lake home owners would now object to the long established requirements placed on the Deep Creek power plant seems strange. One might only conclude that some real estate agent convinced a few unsuspecting folks to buy the remaining waterfront lots and that these new owners only later discovered that their frontage goes almost totally dry almost every summer, not just in 2011 or 2010.

Asking DNR to stop stocking trout in the Yough below the power plant is to be opposed by all recreational users of this resource and is not the answer to this issue. The affected landowners need to find some other solution to gaining access to deeper water, as well as consider gaining redress from their real estate agent for selling them a useless boating property.

I visit Garrett County regularly. I come to fish for trout, usually in the Yough Valley. I stay in local motels, eat in restaurants, and shop in stores.

I object to the proposal to stop cold water flows to the river from Deep Creek Lake. If that happens, you will lose me as a visitor.

Friends of Deep Creek Lake offers the following facts and science:

Scientific fact – All lakes age. Man-made lakes age faster. As an aging lake, Deep Creek Lake is beginning to manifest sediment accumulation; first signs of aging are found in the coves, farthest from the dam.

Fact – In 2010/11, Maryland Geological Survey scientists conducted Phase I of the DNR Sediment Study. Findings: Of the 10 coves selected, four were found to have sediment accumulation needing further study and possible remediation – Arrowhead, Poland Run, Chadderton School, and Pawn Run.

Not all coves impacted by sediment were included in the DNR study. Among those excluded: McHenry coves, Green Glade, Blakeslee/Reserve, Deep Creek Cove, Deer Haven Cove, and Rock Lodge Cove.

Using the Maryland Department of Assessment Real Property Data Base, I have assembled the following data on just these four coves.

Number of residential and commercial properties in these four sediment impacted coves: 152. Tax valuation of residential and commercial properties in these four sediment impacted coves: $312,928,580, as of 07-01-2011.

One of these coves is a major commercial center, with both Arrowhead Market and the new Deep Creek Inn operations impacted by sediment. We did not include the Silver Tree Complex, though sediment accumulation may well be impacting them.

The data presented are only on the four DNR coves. Many more areas are impacted, which would greatly increase the number of residential and commercial property owners, the tax valuation, and the direct and indirect taxes.

Our community is being torn apart by lack of solid information and understanding of our situation. There are two conflicting state laws – one on the dam permit and the other on DCL management. We – property owners and natural resources users and enthusiasts and newspaper editors – are very low on the state priorities. Agency heads will be meeting on Marcellus shale here this Friday, but not to deal with our conflict, which they have created. We would be much better off working together, focusing on the outside forces which divide us.

Now I can return to what Friends of Deep Creek Lake considers a very serious threat to Deep Creek Lake operation of the dam and enjoyment of the Yough – the infestation of Eurasian watermilfoil, which DNR chooses to ignore.

You have heard of Nero, I assume?

Friends of Deep Creek Lake

To the Editor.

I was disappointed with your Sept. 22 editorial, "An Unreasonable Request," a disappointment reinforced by the numerous letters, including two from officers in the national association of whitewater rafters that you published on Sept 29. As most buyers know, when an interest group is trying hard to sell you something, that's when you should be most careful. It's a shame that The Republican has not been more careful.

Deep Creek Lake is being killed by excessive sedimentation, which decreases average lake depth, and by invasive plant species, like the Eurasian watermilfoil. Excessive sedimentation comes from the current MDE "rule bands," which allow Brookfield Power to change lake water levels by more than 6' every year. These extremes accelerate erosion and increase sedimentation.

By contrast, Virginia's Smith Mountain Lake allows only a 2' annual excursion. And Brookfield can exceed these rules very easily, by manipulating "temperature enhancement" and already scheduled three-per-week whitewater releases. Of course, when they do this, they make money selling more power. Shallower lake levels mean warmer water and more sunshine for invasive plant species, helping them grow. So, at present, Deep Creek Lake will be Deep Creek Marsh within the foreseeable future, but should we care?

About 60% of all Garrett County property taxes are collected in Election District 18 – from homes around the lake. The people who live in and rent those homes buy furniture, go to movies, buy boats, go to restaurants, buy groceries, employ carpenters and repairmen – in short, fuel Garrett County's economy. Certainly rafters spend money too, but do you suppose that amounts to even 1 percent of the contribution of District 18? How many Garret County jobs come from the lake? Yet the rafters and, sadly, The Republican, would have us believe that the lake level discussion is all about "a few wealthy homeowners in shallow coves." That is not even remotely true

Groups like the Friends of Deep Creek Lake are trying to work with MDE Policy Review Board to preserve the lake for everybody The rafters want what they want – water for their sport when they want it, no matter what effect it has on the long-term health of the lake. I encourage you to talk with groups like Friends of Deep Creek Lake, so that you might provide us a more balanced analysis of this critical issue for our economy.

Sincerely,
Martin R. Hill

To the Editor:

A great deal of letter and e-mail traffic has been moving around regardmg Deep Creek Lake. The good folks in Friendsville are concerned that the "lake people" and PRB will shut off the water they need to conduct business; this is not the case. In fact, it seems that the interests of people in Friendsville and Deep Creek Lake are very much in line with each other. Both groups depend on a healthy lake. Some facts.

•DCL is an aging lake (85 years old) and in need of care and maintenance;

•The Maryland DNR has chosen not to address some of the most severe problems, or claims they are not problems;

•Sediment is filling in coves; this will eventually spread to the whole lake;

•Shoreline and stream erosion adds to the problem of filling in the lake bottom;

•In the future, Marcellus shale drilling also poses some serious concerns (this is being addressed by the state of Md.);

•And most important now, the spread of a noxious underwater weed known as Eurasian watermilfoil (EWM) in Deep Creek Lake. All but two of U.S. states have been infested with EWM; some drownings have been attributed to EWM; within two or three seasons, boating and swimming in growing sections of the lake (coves and along main channel shorelines) may be difficult if not impossible; outflow functions such as water for white water rafting and hydroelectric will be clogged with EWM and make them inoperable; EWM will likely spread to other bodies of water, thus debilitating them as well; most U.S states have prevention and remediation programs to deal with EWM, but Maryland does not.

What to do? First, let's stop fighting each other and band together to find a solution The health of Deep Creek Lake is of economic and recreational importance to all of us (whitewater enthusiasts and lake users alike). The state of Maryland owns the lake. Let's find a way to get the state to step up to its responsibilities and look after our aging lake!

Best regards,
Paul Weiler

To the Editor:

I read the 38 letters to the editor (Sept. 29 issue), all of which are pro for the release of water from the Deep Creek Lake dam for rafting. This one is not!

Of the 38 letters, only 10 are from Maryland, and of those, five are from Friendsville, two are from McHenry, and three from other Maryland counties. The other 28 are from 10 different states, one from Canada, and two of unknown origin.

Although whitewater rafting is a source of income for Friendsville, there are the "Lake Residential" zoned property owners around DCL who rely on the waters for boating at significantly more cost in property taxes when compared to other county residential areas.

I take offense to the letter from Mr. Dorsey of Harford Co. First, he implies that all DCL property owners are wealthy; second, he states that he contributes $2,400 annually to the welfare of Friendsville; and third, he threatens to buy property not in Garrett County.

His first comment about residents who purchased lake properties many years ago is absolutely absurd. "These individuals knew, or should have done due-diligence research prior to their real estate purchase, that these parameters existed concerning these properties."

A second comment was: "I estimate I personally infuse the Garrett County economy with ... $2,400 per year" My property taxes for a modest modular on a small lot in a very rural county are over $2,600/year, which does not include public sewer, water, or trash pickup costs.

Regarding his third comment, "I have... been looking to buy... in Garrett County, but my focus...would be switched to West Virginia if ... releases on the Youghiogheny (sic) were to decrease," frankly, I hope he buys in W Va.

His final conclusion was "Do not set... money and politics...[as] a tool the wealthy can use to support their own interests at the expense of those who live and work in the area they are attempting to control." To stereotype DCL residents as wealthy and controlling and imply that the DCL PRB should acquiesce to the few whitewater enthusiasts over the thousands of lake property owners and hundreds of thousands in taxes is narrow-minded and self-serving.

I suggest that the rafting community invest in DCL and provide funds for dredging studies so lake residents can enjoy the entire boating season and thereby provide consistent water releases for rafting.

To the Editor:

I wanted to thank you for your editorial on the Upper Yough Several years ago my family bought property in Garrett County. We chose the area for its natural beauty, and so we could be in close proximity to the Upper Yough, which we paddle many, many times each year. Many of my friends from the D.C. area either stay with us, camp, or rent rooms in Friendsville or the surrounding area when paddling. For friends and family who don't paddle, the fishing has been spectacular in recent years.

While we don't use the lake very often, and prefer the beautiful forests and rivers in the area, we fully support protecting the lake and surrounding environment.

The environmental and recreational impact of the proposed alterations in the lake water release schedule is very concerning. The damage to the river ecosystem, and to the local and regional economy will be huge in comparison to the concerns of a few homeowners.

Keep up the good work

To the Editor:

I read your "An Unreasonable Request" editorial with great interest. As a frequent visitor and trout fisher, I am concerned about any negative impact on the cold water releases into the Youghiogheny that would impact this cold water fishery, and have little sympathy for those lake-front property owners who knowingly purchased property in shallow upstream lake coves.

Trout management in the Yough dates back to the late 1800s. Let us not take any action that will deprive our children and their children of this valuable trout fishing resource which brings economic benefit to Garrett County

Thank you.
Carl Smolka

To the Editor:

The Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board (PRB) recently submitted a letter to the MD Department of Environment seeking to reverse nearly 20 years of successful trout management in the Yough River. The PRB's concern is that lake levels late in the summer season create a hardship for some lake property owners located in shallow coves with regard to boating. The situation is not new; I saw docks extending over 100' in shallow lake areas in 1974 when I first moved to Garrett County. A recent editorial in The Republican did an excellent job dissecting the PRB's position on the issue. I won't restate that viewpoint.

A few points to consider: The Yough was a trout fishery beginning well before DCL was built. The consistent flow of cold water to the Yough was cut off when the lake was impounded in 1929. DNR established a high-quality trout fishery in the Yough through research, stocking, and developing permit conditions for water temperature control and flow maintenance. All stakeholders, including the

(Paid Obituary)

LOCAL FUNERAL HOME WELCOMES ASSOCIATE – The David A. Burdock Funeral Home recently welcomed its newest associate, Jon C. "Chris" Fredlock, a licensed funeral director. Chris and his family recently moved to Oakland from West Newton, Pa., to work with the Burdocks. Originally from Piedmont, W.Va., Chris previously worked for Bausch and Lomb, formerly of Oakland, and Scarpelli Funeral Home, Cumberland. After getting married in Oakland, Chris and wife Sherri relocated to Pennsylvania in 1998, so that he could finish his mortuary science schooling at the Pittsburgh Institute of Mortuary Science. After obtaining his degree, the couple stayed in Pennsylvania, where they started a family and Chris worked for and eventually became a managing partner in a successful funeral home in West Newton. "Although the Fredlocks and their two daughters, Jocelyn and Sara, very much enjoyed living and working in Pennsylvania, they had always wanted to come back to Garrett County," said a spokesperson. "The Fredlocks feel that the county is a wonderful place to raise a family and look forward to enjoying the activities and opportunities it has to offer." Kay and Dave Burdock are pictured on opposites sides of the Fredlock family.

AURORA CEOS

The Aurora Community Education and Outreach Services club met for its regular meeting on Sept. 20. Opal Myers was hostess, and Ressie Conrad led devotions with "Watch What You Do" from a newspaper article from her hometown.

Dee Douglas led the program "Getting Organized," during which she discussed the benefits, strategies, and tips for being a well-organized person. "With a place for everything and everything in its place, you will be able to find things quickly, thus saving time, money, and hassle," she said.

The Relay for Life team had a yard sale in conjunction with the Aurora Area Historical Society which yielded $1,160, donated to the America Cancer Society.

The bulletin board at the Post Office has been completed and will be updated as the need arises.

The county Community Education and Outreach Services clubs are planning a trip to the American Theater, Elkins, on Wednesday, Oct. 19.

Opal Myers, Dee Douglas, Keith Douglas, Jo-Ann Helton, Wilda Blamble, and Sue Hauser sold tickets at the Buckwheat Festival booth for the $10,000 giveaway. This was by using the ticket booth on Thursday and Saturday of the festival.

The Morning County Council meeting on Nov. 7 will be followed by an afternoon spent learning about and practicing pottery. There are 11 lessons set for the year. They will also be participating in the county-wide Santa Tree. The fall conference at Jackson's Mill was set for Oct. 4-6.

The club has donated all its Booboo Bears to the Eglon Clinic for the Right from the Start program sponsored by the county department of health, in which local resident Beth Bishop spends much of her time and effort.

The health motivation for the month was Healthy Family Meals Benefit Both Adults and Children. Several ideas were discussed such as a crock pot, taking turns cooking, eating at different family members' homes, keeping it simple, and inviting family or neighbors to dinner.

The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 18, and will be hosted by Jeannie Whitehair, who will also be the program leader. Dee Douglas will be in charge of devotions.

Word has been received that Helen Strawser Phillips, Elkins, is very ill.

Phra Paugh, Eglon, has been hospitalized at a Morgantown facility again.

Two teachers at Aurora Elementary School, Valerie Carlson, Kingwood, and Linda Martin, Aurora, are receiving cancer treatments.

Denny Feather, Eglon, was taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital last Friday night before being transferred to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, for a stomach condition, possibly a viral infection. He is the son of the late Norman Feather and Ruby Feather.

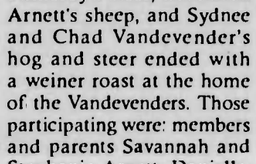
Harold Winters, Columbus, Ohio, has visited this long weekend with his brother and sister-in-law, Jean and Claude Winters. Sunday dinner guests at the Winters' were Richard, Mary and Caitlin Norwish, and Tom, Linda, and Sara Lewis. Afternoon visitors were Francis "Smokey", Sharon, and Mark Donahue, Bedford, Pa.

A mission project steer was found last week with Wade Harsh's herd. They evidently didn't mind a stranger, but one little girl is quite happy to have the errant wanderer back.

Word has also been received here that Carl "Ed" Shaffer, Grove City, Ohio, is a patient at a hospital there and is quite ill.

Milnor "Pat" Corbin, Eglon/Accident, fell on Monday evening at his home and underwent a surgical repair at GCMH for a fractured hip.

The youth of Maple Spring Church of the Brethren will have a buckwheat cake, pancake, and sausage dinner on Saturday, Nov 5, from 4 to 8 p.m. Sausage gravy and biscuits will also be served. There will also be a bake sale.



EGLON MOUNTAINEERS

by Jonathon Blamble, reporter

Members of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club met Sept. 12. Savannah Arnett and Brooke Uphold led the group in singing "I'm Going to Be a Pizza Man" following devotions given by the Conservation Committee. Sierra Evans led the group in saying the pledges.

Secretary Trevor Spaid presided over the business meeting. Items discussed were the upcoming Buckwheat Festival and members' exhibits, celebrating National 4-H Week Oct. 2–6, creating committees for our Halloween meeting in October, and serving the Lions dinner on Oct. 20.

A brief program "Health 101" was presented by leader Linda Lewis, who also gave out information on recycling to each family.

A project tour of Tyler Pomeroy's steer, Savannah Arnett's sheep, and Sydnee and Chad Vandevender's hog and steer ended with a weiner roast at the home of the Vandevenders. Those participating were: members and parents Savannah and Stephanie Arnett, Danielle, Jonathon Blamble, Sierra Evans, Trevor Lipscomb, Tyler and Guenette Pomeroy, Jesse and Marilyn Schalker, Trevor, Wesley, and Angie Spaid, Brooke Uphold, Nathan and Elizabeth Davis, Chad, Sydnee and Teresa Vandevender, and two guests, Andrea and Sarah Singer, and leader Linda Lewis.

The next meeting will be held on Oct. 10. Officer elections and a Halloween/fall celebration will be held. New members (third grade or 9 years old) are always welcome to attend the 7 p.m. meeting.

OZONE AND SMOG

by Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. Recently you wrote about the recurrence of the ozone hole, saying that ozone is helpful. But ozone makes smog in big cities. Which is it? Good or bad?

A. Actually, ozone (O_3) has both good and bad aspects, depending on where it is in the atmosphere.

At high altitude (in the stratosphere), ozone molecules have the very useful property of absorbing ultraviolet (UV) light coming from the sun. That provides protection from harmful radiation to life on the surface of the Earth. In particular, humans are better off without all that UV radiation. Take away the ozone and the UV penetrating to the ground is more intense, which leads to sunburn and promotes melanoma, or skin cancer.

At high altitudes, ozone molecules are far enough apart that they don't chemically react very much; the ozone layer just "sits there" soaking up UV radiation.

On the other hand, down at ground level, ozone is a highly reactive chemical, just itching to give away one oxygen atom, leaving behind the common form of oxygen molecule, O_2. That means that other substances can be oxidized by interacting with ozone. Generally, that's undesirable.

Before the catalytic converter, automobile exhaust used to contain a lot of molecules that were the product of partial combustion: carbon monoxide (CO), nitric oxide (NO) and various unburned hydrocarbons (fractions of gasoline). The purpose of the catalytic converter in the exhaust system is to convert those things to harmless stable gases like CO_2, H_2O, N_2 and O_2.

Here is how smog forms. Once outside the tailpipe, NO quickly combines with O_2 to produce nitric oxide (NO_2), a brown gas that is toxic. Photons of sunlight provide the energy to decompose NO_2 back to NO and O, and immediately the O joins with O_2 to form ozone (O_3).

In a big city, NO is released in the morning rush hour, and by 10 a.m., a lot of it has converted to NO_2. Subsequently, the build-up of ozone peaks about mid-afternoon, just ahead of the evening rush hour. Meanwhile, ozone reacts with the various hydrocarbons, and one of the products is peroxyacetyl nitrate ("PAN," a molecule combining NO_2, CO, and methane), which burns your eyes.

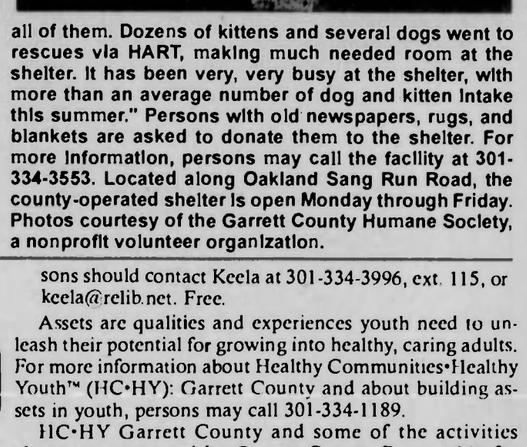
Unless a strong wind blows all this away, the result is smog. Ringed by mountains, cities like Los Angeles and Denver (among others) were nearly invisible from an overlooking mountainside, with a grayish-brown haze hanging over them. That went on for decades until the old cars were off the road and auto exhaust cleaned up.

China is currently suffering from terrible air pollution in its cities, because of the various gases released from vehicles, factories, and coal-burning electric plants. They're beginning to wise up and see the need for adequate pollution controls.

Ozone does a lot of other bad things at ground level, like eating tires and other rubber components of cars, and attacking biological tissues, such as lungs, which causes breathing difficulties. Simply stated, you really don't want a highly reactive chemical in your vicinity at ground level.

Dr. Sheahen lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may e-mail them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com

Adorable Adoptables



AVAILABLE THIS WEEK at the Garrett County Animal Shelter are a yellow Lab mix (left) and a few of her puppies that were given up by their owner, and a nice male orange tabby (right) with gold eyes. "He has had some 'vetting,'" noted a GC Humane Society spokesperson. "He was given up by his owner and needs to be a house cat only." Also looking for homes are a smallish black Lab that was given up by her owner and a large black Lab named Beaner. "He has had some vetting but will need a wellness check," said the spokesperson. These and others are available. Please stop in and meet all of them. Dozens of kittens and several dogs went to rescues via HART, making much needed room at the shelter. It has been very, very busy at the shelter, with more than an average number of dog and kitten intake this summer." Persons with old newspapers, rugs, and blankets are asked to donate them to the shelter. For more information, persons may call the facility at 301-334-3553. The Arts

FSU PRESENTING PAUL TAYLOR DANCE COMPANY – The modern dance choreography of an American legend will come to Frostburg State University when FSU's Cultural Events Series presents the Paul Taylor Dance Company on Tuesday, Oct. 11, at 7:30 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Drama Theatre. Ticket holders will also have the opportunity to interact with company members in a post-performance discussion. The 16-member company will perform three works from the Taylor repertory. "Oh, You Kid!" is an exuberant throwback to the days of vaudeville set to the music of the Paragon Ragtime Ensemble. "Mercuric Tidings" is an "energetically joyful work," a spokesperson said, set to the music of Schubert, while the "Lines of Loss," featuring the music of six composers, sets a more sorrowful mood, the spokesperson said. Taylor, one of the most revered American choreographers of the 20th and 21st centuries, helped to forge America's indigenous art form of modern dance. At age 81, Taylor continues to win praise for his recent works as well as his classics. In support of the public performance, two free Arts for Enrichment events will be offered to community members. Tickets are $18 for adults and $13 for youth under 17. Corporate and group discount rates are also available. For more information, persons may contact the Cultural Events Series box office at 301-687-3137 or visit CES's web page at ces.frostburg.edu.

34th Western Maryland Tournament Of Bands To Feature Seven Schools

The 34th annual Western Maryland Tournament of Bands, a field show competition this year featuring seven bands, will take place on Saturday, Oct. 15, at the Southern High School athletic field. The seven marching bands will present their 2011 field shows, competing for scores and trophies.

The show, hosted by the Southern Garrett Marching Band and Band Boosters, will begin at 6 p.m. Participating bands this year, in addition to the host band, will be Northern Garrett, Catoctin, Petersburg, Mountain Ridge, Preston, and Tucker County high schools.

In addition to the band shows, Brenda's Body Shop will present this year's fundraising fitness performance, "Hoop Hope Hooray," during the intermission.

There will be refreshments sold by the Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, and there will also be programs available, and raffle tickets for two halves of a hog (donated by Dr. Dan and Shari Miller, and by Dale Evans Bus Company). Specially made buttonpins will be for sale, and there will be air grams and flower grams available for purchase.

Air grams are $1 messages for band members read over the public announcement system as the bands are entering the field for competition. Flower grams are carnations that persons may purchase (also $1) to have delivered to any band member, with a greeting attached.

The seniors of both the Southern and Northern bands will be recognized during the evening, as this is their last "home show" performance. Northern was unable to host its own show, so the seniors will join with Southern's to be recognized, and to help hand out awards at the conclusion of the tournament.

Southern Garrett's show this year is titled Invasion! The music was composed by the band's director, Joshua Elmlinger, and tells the tale of alien invasion and the near abduction of the human race. The four pieces of music are "Paranoia," "The Ballad, Abduction," "The Force Field," and "The Machine."

"The end of the closer is a battle between the aliens and the humans, culminating with the retreat of the aliens and the victory of the humans," Elmlinger said.

Northern Garrett's field show is a Tribute to Rock and Roll, and features five popular tunes: "You Shook Me All Night Long," "Frankenstein," "Carry On, Wayward Son," "Back in Black," and "I Love Rock 'n Roll."

The bands will be judged by National Judges Association representatives, and

SHS, NHS Bands Fare Well In Recent Contests

The Southern and Northern Garrett marching bands are continuing in their fall competitive marching seasons, and have been representing Garrett County well by earning honors and increasing scores each week.

Both bands took part in the Cadence in the Sept. 24 Valley Tournament of Bands, hosted by Keyser (W.Va.) High School. Both county bands are in Group 1 Open (based on number of playing members), and were up against each other and Ritchie County High School.

Ritchie County came in first with a score of 76.15, and Southern took second with 73 points. Northern was third with 72.5. Northern also won the specialty award for Best Auxiliary.

The bands went to separate competitions the next Saturday, Oct. 1. Northern traveled to Lewis County, W.Va., and again faced Ritchie County. Ritchie won first again, with a score of 78.85, and Northern took second with 74.45. Northern also won the specialty award for Best Drum Major (Shannon Miller.)

Southern competed at North Hagerstown High School, and came in second out of five Group 1 bands with a score of 75.4. Walkersville High took first with a 77.25, and Century High School was third with a 74.

"The North Hagerstown show was a miserable, cold, and rainy day, but our kids really made us proud by going out in it and putting on a solid performance," said Amy Friend, Southern's assistant director. Spruce Forest Host To Guest Artists In Oct.

Spruce Forest Artisan Village will play host this month to visiting artists Lenore Lancaster of Ridgeley, W.Va, and Karen Sandorf of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Spruce Forest Artisan Village at Penn Alps in Grantsville is home to six permanent resident artists, but also offers studio space to working artists through a guest artist program.

Lancaster, a colored-pencil artist, has exhibited her award-winning drawings in galleries across the region and on the Internet. She has also curated colored-pencil art shows. Lancaster typically illustrates animals, people, and scenes from everyday life. She is a colorist who employs layering and burnishing to develop her images.

Many of her pictures are made into limited edition art reproduction giclee prints on acid-free paper and with non-fading inks. Lancaster is a founding member of the Allegany Area Art Alliance and a member of the Colored Pencil Society of America. She is represented by Rocky Gap Revolving Gallery in Flintstone, Lambert Gallery in Bedford, Pa., and South Side Depot, Petersburg, W.Va.

"Being at Spruce Forest, the camaraderie and working around other artists helps me grow as an artist and a business person," says Lancaster.

"Plus, I enjoy meeting the people who come into the shop, talking to visitors and hearing their feedback on my artistic process."

Lancaster has been a guest artist at Spruce Forest for at least one month every year for the last four years.

Sandorf is a native plant botanical illustrator who is influenced by historic plant identification, conservation, and nutrition when it comes to her subject matter. Her drawings are reproduced on high-quality recycled paper note cards, calendars and matted prints. Every illustration includes habitat information about the plant it features. "These illustrations created her Eat Well, Be Well series.

One may visit Spruce Forest in the first two weeks of October to meet Sandorf and through October to meet Lancaster and the rest of the artisans.

"These visiting artists add depth and variety to the educational offerings at Spruce Forest," says Natalie Atherton, a former administrator are the result of many years of hiking to their habitats to see, and many years of gardening with, native plants of the northeastern region of our country," says Sandorf.

"There are differing opinions about gardening with native plants. My thinking is that we are constantly diminishing native plant habitats due to encroachment by aggressive non-native plants and land development, so finding suitable conditions and planting them in one's own backyard is an act of conservation."

Sandorf has studied the collection of plant species, including the efforts of Meriwether Lewis, who was commissioned by President Thomas Jefferson to collect specimens during his journeys. She is also involved in a national nutrition program, Fruits and Veggies: More Matters, for which she has who helped launch the guest artist program six years ago.

"Spruce Forest is unique in that visitors can walk into the studios of working artists, watch them work, ask questions, and see some aspect of the creative process firsthand."

The Guest Artist program provides area artists with studio space in one of two historic cabins where they can make and sell their artwork.

Artists interested in applying for the 2012 guest residencies may contact Amy Jones, Artisan Guild president, at the Fernwood Gallery, 301-895-3159, or visit spruceforest.org for an application.

The Artisan Guild juries Guest Artist applications and assigns dates for guest residencies. "There is no deadline to apply, but we begin the jury process in January," says Jones. "Artists who apply by January usually get their first choice of residency dates."

For more information on individual artist studio hours those interested may call the Artisan Village at 301-895-3332.

Garrett County SKIES

By Dr. Bob Doyle
Frostburg State Planetarium

OCTOBER SUN – As October begins, the sun appears in front of the stars of Virgo, moving a degree a day eastward relative to the stars. At 7 a.m. on Oct. 30, the sun enters the star group Libra, where it stays through noon of Nov. 23. Both of the above star groups are nearly lost in the sun's glare in October. The star group Scorpius is to the east of Libra, so it sets after the sun, appearing low in the southwestern dusk. The star group Leo (to the west of Virgo) rises before the sun and is visible low in the eastern dawn. In early October, sunrises in Garrett County are at about 7:15 a.m., while sunsets are at about 7 p.m. (11.75 hours of daylight). Around the end of October, Garrett County's sunrises are at about 7:45 a.m., and sunsets occur at about 6:15 p.m. (10.5 hours of daylight). So during October, the stars are last seen at around 6:30 a.m., and then reappear at about 7:40 p.m.

OCTOBER MOON – October starts with the moon appearing as a crescent in the western dusk sky. On Oct. 3, the evening moon appeared half-full (like a tilted "D"). Along the straight or left edge of the moon, the sun there is rising, lighting up the crater rims and mountain ranges. The moon is full on the evening of Oct. 11. This is the Hunters' Moon, a near rerun of September's Harvest Moon, where there is extra evening moonlight the following four nights. On Oct. 12 and 13, the moon appears close to the bright planet Jupiter. On Oct. 20, the moon appears half-full in the southern dawn. The next morning, the moon will appear near the planet Mars in the southeastern dawn. On Oct. 26, the moon swings from the morning to the evening side of the sun. At 6:45 p.m. on Oct. 28, look low in the west for a slender crescent moon. Below and to the right of the moon will be the brilliant planet Venus. At the same time, the very bright planet Jupiter shines low in the east. On that night, Jupiter is brightest and closest, shining all through the night.

OCTOBER PLANETS – The five nearest planets are easily seen by eye, four of them shining steadily in contrast to the twinkling stars. Of the five, Mercury is usually the most difficult to see, at a low angle to the sun and seen very close to the horizon. Mercury can be seen very low in the 6:45 p.m. western sky in late October below the planet Venus. At the end of October, Venus sets an hour after the sunset. After Venus sets, Jupiter is very prominent in the eastern sky, peaking in the south in the middle of the night. Mars is rather dull in the southeastern dawn. Saturn is at too low an angle to the sun to be seen for most of October.

OCTOBER STARS – The Big Dipper appears close to the northern horizon on October evenings and out of view to most observers. The most prominent star group is the Summer Triangle, a trio of bright stars in the western evening sky. White-blue Vega is the prize Triangle jewel on the lower right tip. In the northeastern sky gleams the bright golden star Capella. As the evening hours pass, Vega descends and Capella climbs.

OCTOBER PROGRAMS – The Frostburg State Planetarium program for October is "Planets' Peculiarities," all about the unusual features of the planets around the sun. The free public presentations are on Sundays at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. in Tawes 302. Also included is an introduction to the evening skies of October and November. There follows an optional tour of the Science Discovery Center, where there is a large display of preserved animals from five different continents. To receive a Planetarium schedule (or bookmark), persons may telephone 301-687-7799 and give name and mailing address. This bookmark includes a small FSU map showing the Planetarium and the nearby parking areas. Persons may also access the Planetarium section of the Frostburg State web site at www.frostburg.edu/planetarium.

Dr. Doyle writes this column for those who like to identify the brightest stars, planets, and sights in their backyards.

DNR To Begin Stocking Trout For Fall Season

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will stock more than 27,000 trout into freshwaters across the state this month.

"Stocking dates and locations are dependent on water flow and temperatures. Based on current conditions, we anticipate stocking to proceed in many places beginning the second week of October," said Don Cosden, DNR's inland fisheries director. "All of the fish will be released by the first of November."

DNR will stock 24,500 rainbow and golden trout weighing an average of 1 pound each, 1,500 brown trout averaging 1 pound each, and 300 rainbow and golden trout from 2 to 3 pounds each. The Freshwater Institute, a research facility in West Virginia, is donating approximately 1,000 additional rainbow trout to this effort.

In most years, fall water temperatures allow trout stocking to occur in larger waterways, ponds, and lakes, such as the North Branch of the Potomac, Bear Creek, Town Creek, Blairs Valley Lake, Deep Creek, Beaver Creek, Cunningham Falls Lake, Rainbow Lake, Greenbrier Lake, Morgan Run, Patapsco, Big Gunpowder Falls, Great Seneca Creek, Meadow Lake, Lake Artemesia, Greenbelt Lake, Big Elk Creek, Deer Creek, and Tuckahoe.

NHS Boys Whipped By Campers Before Being Shut Out By Miners

The boys' varsity soccer team of Northern High School was whipped 6-1 by host Allegany last Thursday evening at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland, and then dropped a 4-0 match to visiting Mountain Ridge on Tuesday.

The pair of defeats dropped the Huskies' overall record to 2-4-1.

Corey Knipple led the Allegany Campers (4-2-1) in last Thursday's match by recording a hat trick. He put the first two goals on the board, one coming unassisted just three minutes into the match, and the second scored off an assist by Kerrigan Clark with 21:50 to play in the first half.

Sam Dusenberry scored an unassisted goal just 2:16 before intermission to give the home team a 3-0 advantage at the break.

It was just under two minutes into the second half of action that Alco's Forest Bierman scored off a feed by Neal Morgan, and Knipple made it 5-0 and completed his hat trick with a goal at the 33:36 mark off another assist by Morgan.

The Huskies finally got on the board at the 20:30 mark via an unassisted goal by Ryan McGann.

Tacking on an msurance goal for the Campers with 3:40 to play was Breyer Hillegas, assisted by Josh Marchint.

Aaron Beitzel was credited with eight saves in goal for the Huskies, while Alco's Nate Condor turned away four shots.

The Campers also won the junior varsity contest, 1-0, on a goal by Max Phillips.

Pacing top-ranked Mountain Ridge over the Huskies on Tuesday was Chris Ranker, who scored a goal in each half to account for half of his team's scoring.

Patrick Kimble put the visitors on the board first, getting an unassisted goal midway through the first half

Lais Awarded Soccer Honor At Goucher

Elijah Lais, a resident of Grantsville and former soccer standout for Northern High School, supplied the "golden goal" at the 91:54 mark on Saturday that allowed Goucher College to come away with a 1-0 triumph over Juniata. For that effort, Lais was recognized by the Landmark Conference as the Men's Soccer Offensive Player of the Week for Sept. 26 – Oct. 2.

It was the 18th goal of the senior forward's collegiate career, and the third time he tallied the only goal in a 1-0 victory by the Gophers. Earlier this season, his goal at 62:56 accounted for all of the scoring in a win over Penn St. Berks. He accomplished the same feat against Marywood last season.

Over the past three seasons, Lais has been in the starting lineup for the Gophers for 45 of the team's 46 matches.

AFTER AN APPARENT COLLISION in Tuesday's match between the Northern Huskies and the Mountain Ridge Miners, Northern's Ryan McCann (#7) emerges with the ball, while teammates Jared Fike, left, and Alec Smoot, right, go their separate ways. Below, Northern's Jordan Evans appears to win the possession battle with a pair of Miners. The Huskies were unable to put the ball into the net, however, and went down to a 4-0 defeat to the top-ranked Miners. Southern Boys Nip Keyser, Play To Scoreless Tie With Sentinels

The Southern High boys' varsity soccer team handed host Keyser a 2-1 defeat last Thursday, 2-1, and then played Fort Hill to a scoreless tie at Greenway Avenue Stadium in Cumberland on Tuesday.

The results left the Rams with a 4-4-1 record, which they will put on the line at home tonight against county rival Northern.

Andrew Cvetnick scored both goals for the Rams against Keyser last Thursday, one in each half

His first came at the 26:48 mark, unassisted, and his second was recorded just over two minutes into the second half (37:57) off an assist by Bryan Wilkinson.

Keyser knotted the score at 1-1 at the 8:30 mark of the first half when Greg Kerns scored

The Rams dominated in shots on goal, 28-7, and led in corner kicks, 3-0. Seth Ingram and Nathan Ford each had one save in goal for Southern, while Keyser keeper Levi Spencer recorded a dozen saves Tenacious defense was displayed by both the Rams and the Sentinels of Fort Hill on Tuesday.

The heavily favored home team (7-1-1) finished with a lopsided 22-11 lead in shots on goal, but Ram keeper Seth Ingram had an outstanding night, as he recorded 14 saves James Johnson recorded five saves for the Sentinels, who led in corner kicks, 7-2

The Southern jayvees won the first match, 2-1 Ben Reichard scored an unassisted goal at the 28:31 mark of the first half for the Rams, and Doug Isinghood scored what would be the winning goal with 8:54 to play in the first half

The Fort Hill jayvees took a 1-0 lead at the 27:00 mark of the first half when Derek Thompson scored.

Runnin' Rams Place Second In AMAC Meet

Mountain Ridge High School hosted the annual Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference championships last Thursday, and both the Southern High School girls' and boys' teams placed second in the event, although not many details of the event were received.

Karisa Weissgerber led the SHS girls and was named to the All-Conference and All-Area squads for her sixth place finish.

Leading the Southern boys and also named to the All-Conference and All-Area teams were Anthony Moon, who finished ninth, and Zac Thomas, who was tenth Hampshire won both the boys' and the girls' team titles.

Southern also competed in the Frank Keyser Invitational at Boonesboro High School on Saturday. The SHS girls finished 5th among 12 complete teams, while the Southern boys also placed fifth among 11 complete teams.

Weissberber again paced the SHS girls with a 17th place individual finish, while Moon led the Southern boys with a 27th place finish

The Runnin' Rams were slated to host Keyser on Tuesday, but the Golden Tornadoes declined to compete because of foul weather conditions Southern will vie in the Don Stoner Invitational this Saturday at Smithsburg High School

Huskies Hang On In Final 39 Seconds To Defeat Blazers

The outcome of last Friday's varsity football game between the Northern High Huskies and host Clear Spring was not determined until the final play of the game, which was ultimately won by the Huskies, 19-13.

The Blazers' highly touted quarterback Adam Mellott had his offensive unit in position to at least tie the contest, and likely win it, as the home team had the ball on the Huskies' 6-yard line with time for just one more play. Mellott dropped back to pass, as he had done for most of the contest, then decided to tuck the ball and run. But the Northern defense tackled him just short of the goal line to preserve the victory

It appeared that the Huskies had the game well in hand, as they scored the go-ahead touchdown with just 39 seconds left on the clock. But Mellott skillfully engineered a final drive that fell just short.

The Huskies put the first points on the board when Josh Mason scored on a 10-yard run with 7:22 to play in the first quarter. Justin Durst booted the conversion to give Northern a 7-0 lead.

The Blazers knotted the score with just 42 seconds to play in the first half when Mellott connected with Ryan Aaron on a 26-yard TD pass, which was followed by a successful conversion kick.

After a scoreless third quarter, the Huskies regained the lead at the 8:49 mark of the final period when Alex Baker capped a drive with 1-yard run. The kick for the extra point failed, and the Huskies led 13-7.

The Blazers rallied to tie the score a second time, with Mellott connecting with Aaron again through the air. The 35-yard touchdown pass came at the 5:22 mark. The conversion kick failed, leaving the score knotted at 13-13

The Clear Spring defense almost shut down the Huskies' running game, so Northern head coach Phil Carr decided to switch to the wildcat offense, with halfback Baker lining up at quarterback, and quarterback Chris Murdock taking the split position

The switch was successful, as the Huskies marched 70 yards to score what would be the winning touchdown. It came on a 5-yard pass from Baker to Kyle Rosenberger with 39 seconds remaining. The pass for the two-point conversion failed.

Baker completed four of five passes on the drive.

The Huskies followed with a squib kick that would give the Blazers reasonably good field position. Two short passes and one long one by Mellott put the ball on the Huskies' 6-yard line with just a few seconds left. That's when Mellott took the snap, looked to pass, but then ran with the ball. He was met near the goal line by Northern's Josh Mason, who put the initial hit on Mellott, and was then joined by a host of teammates on the stop.

"I pretty much held my breath when Mellott took off running on that last play," said Coach Carr. "We had his receivers well covered, but he had some room to run. It was a great final play by Josh [Mason] and our defense."

Mellott finished with 225 yards passing, with a large chunk of that coming in the fourth quarter. The Blazers managed only 36 rushing yards on 28 attempts.

Baker led the Huskies' 222-yard ground attack with 105 yards on 16 carries, and he also passed for all of Northern's 89 yards through the air.

Murdock, the starting quarterback, ended up being the team's leading receiver, catching three passes for 48 yards.

"In my 22 years of coaching, that's the first time that our quarterback ended up being our leading receiver and our running back ended up being our leading passer," said Carr.

Mason also had an interception from his defensive position, while Derek Yoder recovered a fumble. The Huskies recorded seven sacks, and was led by Zach Meyers with eight tackles, including 2½ sacks, Baker with nine tackles, and Aaron Broadwater with two sacks.

Rams Smother Mountain Lions, Look For Next Win At Petersburg

Ram Zach Knotts, whose coach matter-of-factly praised as having played his best varsity game to date, led the Southern High School football team's offense with 103 yards on 17 carries in a 27-18 Friday-night victory over visiting Tucker County.

The Rams were dominant throughout the game and at one point had a 21-0 strangle hold on the Mountain Lions. With the win, Southern improved its record to 2-3, after a disappointing 0-3 start and last week's win over Berkeley Springs.

Against Tucker, Knotts was also able to tack on a 23-yard reception in his already impressive performance for the Rams. The play extended Southern's total yardage in the game to 308 – 258 of which came on the ground.

Mason Dick's 4-yard touchdown, along with a 3-yard endzone dash from Knotts, accounted for Southern's 14 first-quarter points.

The Rams made their third unanswered touchdown in the second quarter, after Kurt Gangler picked off Mountain Lion quarterback Derek Nestor at midfield for a 16-yard return. That defensive play set up a 34-yard touchdown drive, which culminated with Derek Noble storming 16 yards on a run into the endzone.

Tucker then managed to get on the board before halftime after it moved the chains 66 yards for six points. Nestor accounted for all the positive yardage in the Mountain Lions' first scoring drive. He had runs of 51 and a 5 yards before scoring on a run from 10 yards out.

The score was 21-6 in favor or the Rams after the half, but three second-half fumbles allowed the Mountain Lions to pull the score a little closer than Southern head coach Steve Savage would have liked.

"We won't be able to turn the ball over like we did against Tucker and come out with a win in our next game," Coach Savage explained. "Petersburg is just too athletic."

Tucker scored again on the final play of the third quarter, after a 54-yard run by Mikhail Lewis made it 21-12.

Knotts helped seal the win for the Rams with a 7-yard run in the fourth quarter, making it 27-12. Tucker put the final points of the game on the board, scoring on a 1-yard run by Lewis with seconds on the clock.

Southern's Gangler, Noble, and Knotts all had interceptions.

"I'm really happy with the way our secondary was able to dominate Tucker," said Coach Savage.

"Our guys were able to smother their spread offense and keep them from getting any big plays."

The Rams hit the road tomorrow (Oct. 7) and will take on the Vikings of Petersburg, W.Va., where a win will even their record to 3-3.

"The Vikings may have some of the fastest players we'll face all year," said Coach Savage.

"They have very able players at their skill positions: a quarterback who can really throw the rock around and a tailback with big-time speed."

Rams Brandon Wotring and Garrett Campbell came off the injury list for the game against Tucker. Coach Savage feels they should be able to continue against Petersburg. Defensive back Logan Stewart, however, will be unavailable for Friday's football game as he is dealing with both an ankle injury and illness.

Ram Jayvees Blank Yellow Jackets, 14-0

The Southern High junior varsity football team shut out visiting Moorefield on Monday, 14-0, as the Rams upped their record to 3-2.

Matt Mayles led the Southern offense, as he passed for one touchdown and a two-point conversion, and ran for another six-pointer.

Reese Haskiell hauled in a 23-yard TD pass from Mayles in the first quarter. Mayles then passed to Seth Kisner to get the conversion, giving the Rams an 8-0 lead.

The score did not change until the third quarter when Mayles capped a Ram drive with a three-yard scoring run. The run for the conversion was no good.

Leading the Southern defensive effort were Kisner and Brandon Wotring.

The Rams will host Allegany next Monday, with the kickoff slated for 7 p.m.

Steelers' Unbeaten Record Broken By Ridgeley Rams, 6-0

The Division I Northern Steelers of the Cumberland Area Youth Football League had their undefeated streak for the 2011 season brought to an end on Sunday when the local team was edged by the host Ridgeley Rams, 6-0, on a muddy field.

The only points of the game were recorded by Noah Bible of Ridgeley when he penetrated the Steeler defense and scored on a 21-yard run. The kick for the two extra points was no good.

The Ram defense played a key role not only in keeping the Steelers out of the end zone, but also by recovering two fumbles.

The Division II Steelers were soundly defeated in their game, 38-0, by the Division II Rams. Brayden Polling scored three touchdowns for the winners.

The loss dropped the Rams to 3-4.

The Steeler squads will face the Oakland Rams in the Yough River rivalry game this Saturday. The Division II contest will kick off at 6 p.m., and the Division I game will begin at 7:30.

Huskies Hang

"We did a very good job of putting pressure on Mellott all evening, but he throws the ball very well, and some of their catches were outstanding," Carr said.

"Offensively, we were pleased with how well the wildcat formation worked for us, with Baker really providing the spark on our last drive," he said. "We've been working on it in practice, and it was nice to see it be effective in a game situation.

"We also hurt ourselves with penalties," Carr continued. "We had about five holding penalties total in our first four games, and we were called for five in this one game."

The Huskies were flagged a dozen times for 95 yards; however, the Blazers lost 75 yards on seven infractions.

"This was a scary one right down to the wire," Carr said, "but a win is a win, and we'll take it."

The Huskies will travel to Hampshire this Friday to try to even their record at 3-3. The Trojans have just one victory, that being over Southern several weeks ago.

"Even though they have only one win, I think we will have our hands full," Carr said. "They have a very big line, and a talented halfback/split end in Spencer Malick (5-11, 176). He's their go-to guy, and has pretty good speed, so we are going to have to contain him."

Carr said that when he scouted the Trojans pre-season, he felt that this would be a team that his Huskies could defeat.

"But they have really improved," he said. "They are coming off a pretty big loss to Keyser, but they were in that game until midway through the second half."

Offensively, the Trojans do not put the ball in the air much, and rely heavily on the fullback trap, with Malick getting most of the carries.

"We think that our overall team speed may counteract the size of their line," Carr said.

Listed as doubtful for the game is Northern's Aaron Broadwater, who sustained a knee injury in practice yesterday; however, the rest of the Huskies are healthy, with the exception of quarterback Pat Sines who is still recovering from a broken collarbone sustained in the Huskies' second game of the season.

Friday's kickoff in Romney is slated for 7 p.m.

MOUNTAIN TOO HIGH FOR SOUTHERN GIRLS – The Southern High School girls' soccer team hosted Mountain Ridge last night (Oct. 5), suffering a 2-0 loss. The Rams played hard through slippery weather conditions and managed to outshoot the Miners on goal (12-11), but ultimately came up short. Southern Takes Down Golden Tornado, 8-1; Falls To Miners

The Southern High School girls' soccer team played two games at home this week, completely dominating Keyser, 8-1, on Tuesday, but falling short in a 2-0 loss to Mountain Ridge on Wednesday.

Southern jumped to a quick 2-0 lead before the half after Taylor Germain scored unassisted at 21:25 and Alli Shaffer booted one off an assist by Kristen Yant at 18:38.

With the clock winding down, Alicia Roth caught fire and scored two more goals at 8:52 and 7:16. Tess Watson closed the first half scoring, making it 5-0 at the break, with a score at 2:21 on a corner kick by Lindsay Crabtree.

Taylor Haggerty put Keyser on the board and scored the team's only point at 28:01 on a penalty kick.

Southern continued to hit the net in the second half, as Julianna Sharpless, Emily Huxford, and Annie Martin all had goals. Sharpless was assisted by Martin, who was assisted by Emily O'Neil. Huxford scored on an unassisted drive.

The Rams totaled five corner kicks to Keyser's one. Martin saved one shot in goal for Southern in the first half, while Shaffer saved one in the second. Audrey Cochran had 12 saves for Keyser.

Unfortunately for the Rams their win was followed by last night's loss to Mountain Ridge. The two teams met in Oakland and contended with poor weather conditions throughout the match.

"The field conditions probably prevented both teams from playing their best," said Southern head coach Sara Shaffer.

"It was a long night, but Mountain Ridge did well."

Southern outshot Mountain Ridge by a margin of 12-11, while both teams had four corner kicks.

Deer Archery Hunting Season Is Now Open

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) reminds Marylanders that archery hunting for deer is open now and will remain so through January 31, 2012. Last season hunters took a total of 27,286 deer (9,996 antlered and 17,290 antlerless) with archery equipment.

"Archery hunting is often the most practical deer management strategy for many of urban and suburban areas," said Brian Eyler, DNR's Deer Project leader. "Archery hunters using both vertical bows and crossbows now account for over 25 percent of the total annual deer harvest."

Deer hunting regulations vary between the two Deer Management regions in Maryland. Region A consists of Garrett and Allegany counties and the western half of Washington County. Region B includes eastern Washington County and the remaining 20 counties. The white-tailed deer archery bag limit for Deer Management Region A is two deer, one antlered and one antlerless. Additionally, no more than two antlerless deer may be taken on public lands in Region A with any combination of the bow, muzzleloader, and firearm bag limits, excluding Junior Deer Hunt Days.

In most of Deer Management Region B, archers may take two antlered and 10 antlerless white-tailed deer. However, a second antlered deer may not be harvested until two antlerless deer have been taken.

New this year, a chronic wasting disease (CWD) management area has been established in a small portion of Allegany County, with regulations designed to prevent the unintentional spread of CWD to other locations in Maryland. Hunters are advised to consult the 2011-2012 Maryland Guide to Hunting and Trapping or visit the DNR web site at http://www.dnr.maryland.gov/wildlife/Hunt_Trap/deer/disease/cwdinforma-

CELEBRATING 40 YEARS OF SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY

RETURNING TO GARRETT COLLEGE as assistant basketball coach in 1978, former Laker Dennis Gibson was back on the court in a new capacity. Gibson is pictured above, center, during a game timeout. To his immediate right is then head coach Randy Hess. Gibson played on the very first Laker team, which debuted in 1972, and he later played professionally before taking over as head coach at his alma mater. He is pictured below holding the ball from the first game the Lakers ever played – December 1, 1972, against Ocean City. The Lakers coasted to an 88-59 victory.

Former Player For Lakers Begins 27th Season As Basketball Coach

by Peggy Santamaria

The lanky, long-haired student who played for the Lakers in 1972 is still on the court at Garrett College.

Head coach Dennis Gibson is now in his 27th year leading the Lakers to victory His record speaks for itself: 522-281, with an average of 20 wins per season.

When he completed his studies at Garrett, Gibson won Second-Team All-ODAC honors at Bridgewater College (Va). He also enjoyed a short stint with the CBA professional team, the Baltimore Metros, and received invitations to play overseas.

In 1978, while working at his family's business and completing his bachelor of arts degree at West Virginia University, Gibson began his career as assistant coach at Garrett College. He served in that capacity until 1985 when he assumed the responsibilities as full-time head coach. He remembers well that initial season he was at the helm.

"That first team, without a player taller than 6'5", we ran off the best beginning for a Garrett team, going 8-0," he recalled, adding that the Lakers set a record that stood for 18 years.

By the time Gibson returned to his alma mater as coach, the National Junior College Athletic Association had significantly modified its structure. It had grown to include 24 regions and organized itself into three distinct divisions. These divisions define such things as the level of scholarship aid that can be extended to a student athlete and the number of international students who can play on a team.

Men's community college basketball had definitely come of age and required more sophisticated guidelines for the ever-increasing numbers of teams competing. Rules of play had also changed since the Lakers first took the court in 1972. The game was evolving and demanding more of players and coaches.

Up to the challenge, Coach Gibson has racked up a significant collection of winning statistics during his tenure.

"The 1994-95 team was the first in any sport in Garrett College history to win the Region XX tournament and Maryland JUCO tourney in the same year. That same team went on to finish sixth in the country in the NJCAA tournament," he said.

The 2002-03 team defeated eighth-ranked Allegany College of Maryland, 55-52, to win Garrett's first ever Division I, Region XX championship in any sport.

Gibson's teams have set every record at Garrett, including most wins in a season, highest scoring average, and producing the most All-American and All-Region selections.

Coach Gibson talked about the approach that he and his staff take

"Our philosophy is to play tough man defense and push the ball up the floor whenever possible," he said. "We also try to recruit the student-athlete who has a goal of continuing his career at the next level through education and basketball."

Garrett County native Dick Bender, a former Laker who played 1983-84, now serves as director of men's basketball operations at Clemson University. He recalls the intense attention that Coach Gibson gave him as he developed the skills that led to his career.

"Coach Gibson was willing to spend endless hours with me working on my individual skills," Bender said. "With Coach Gibson, everyone on the team will improve and, depending on their own work ethic, have a chance to play at a four-year institution."

But there is a whole lot more to this head coaching job than developing game strategies and training top-notch athletes. The young men who play for the Lakers are students pursuing degrees and building a secure future Coach Gibson, a father of three, knows well his role as mentor to his players and pursues it with diligence.

"Playing junior college basketball requires mental toughness and a great deal of maturity," Gibson said. "Our athletes are required to be responsible for their actions on and off the court. We expect them to go to class, work with our tutors, attend study halls, and keep their personal planners up to date, ensuring their success. I personally do not care if our guys go to a Division I or II school, just that they are happy with their decisions and know that getting a degree is the most important step in their lives."

Dennis Fearnow Leads Lakers In Inaugural Season

by Peggy Santamaria

Coach C. Dennis Fearnow was among the first faculty members hired when Garrett (Community) College opened in 1971. He served as an associate professor, men's basketball coach, baseball coach, and athletic director until 1985. Under Fearnow, the Garrett Lakers were formed.

During the first year of the college's operation, students began training with Coach Fearnow. They developed the individual skills and sense of unity required for teamwork. By the fall of 1972, Garrett's first men's basketball team was introduced.

Debuting as the "charter" Garrett Lakers were Tom Bosley, Chris DeWitt, Dennis Gibson, Rich Giddens, Rich Hoag, Dave Martin, Bill Ravenscroft, Chuck Rinker, Charlie Shahan, and Rick Shoemaker

The Garrett Lakers took the court for their first competitive game on Dec. 1, 1972. The fledgling team was well coached and ready to play when they confronted an Ocean City team. Coach Fearnow had trained his men hard and well, and the Lakers cruised to an 88-59 victory.

The Lakers closed out their inaugural season with a respectable record of 7-11. Over the following years, they would rack up winning season after winning season.

The Lakers competed against teams playing in the newly formed Region XX of the National Junior College Athletic Association. The NJCAA, officially established in 1938, divided into 16 regions in 1949. As it continued to grow in membership, more regions were added. Region XX included community colleges across Maryland and into Pennsylvania.

Coach Fearnow was honored for his work with the Lakers when he was inducted into the Region XX National Junior College Athletic Association Hall of Fame in 2003. He was the first person from

Dr. MacLennan To Speak About "Sea Semester"

The second offering of Garrett College's Joan Crawford Lecture Series will be a presentation by college president Dr. Richard MacLennan, who will discuss the life-altering experiences of a Semester at Sea. The lecture is slated for next Wednesday, Oct. 12, from noon to 1 p.m. in Room 511.

Semester at Sea, a unique program established in 1963 by the Institute for Shipboard Learning, transforms a ship into a traveling campus, complete with classrooms, residence hall, lecturers, and staff for an inter-generational student body

Dr. MacLennan took the once-in-a-lifetime opportunity in 2006 to serve as dean of students for a 110-day Semester at Sea.

"About half the time was spent on the ship and in classrooms, while the other half was spent exploring the countries visited," he said. "We were in Vietnam, Japan, Hong Kong, India, Egypt, Croatia, and Spain."

For the 500-700 people on the ship for the Semester at Sea, the knowledge acquired far exceeded what the college credits were awarded for, according to Dr. MacLennan. The public is invited to learn more about shipboard learning experiences and see photos from various ports-of-call.

For more information on the Joan Crawford Lecture Series, persons may telephone Beth Luers at 301-387-3020.

LIVING AND LEARNING on the high seas and in exotic ports-of-call are all part of the Semester at Sea program. Dr. Richard MacLennan, president of Garrett College, served as dean of students for such an adventure and took his sons and father along to enjoy the experience. In the photo, MacLennan poses on shipboard with his son Scott. See story.

AUTHENTIC CHINESE COOKING – Dr. Qing Yuan will again teach classes on authentic Chinese home cooking through the Garrett College Continuing Education & Workforce Development Division. Classes will be held at the Southern Outreach Center in Oakland on three Tuesdays, beginning Oct. 18, from 6 to 7:30 p.m. Dr. Yuan will emphasize techniques to keep meal preparation simple and easy to reduce costs and save time. Students will experience a hands-on approach to traditional Chinese cooking of everyday meals plus holiday dishes. The fee for the class includes the cost of foods, which students will be able to take home with them.

RAIL FEST HAS MANY SUPPORTERS – The 1884 Oakland B&O Railroad Station Committee held an open house Rail Fest on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, Sept. 23–25. The event actually started on Sept. 21 when the Antique Auto Club of America's 66th annual Glidden Tour stopped in Oakland to visit the station, new Transportation Museum of Garrett County, and the GC Historical Society Museum. On Friday, the committee hosted the Chamber of Commerce and Greater Oakland Business Association. Sen. George Edwards, Del. Wendell Beitzel, GC commissioners Gregan Crawford, Bob Gatto, and Jim Raley, and mayors and councils from Garrett County towns were also invited. Special recognition was given to Edwards and Beitzel for their sponsorship of a Maryland bond bill for the station project and to Lonnie and Bart Naylor for a financial commitment from the Howard and Audrey Naylor Trust Fund. Many other businesses, individuals, and foundations that have helped with the Oakland B&O Railroad Museum project and the fest also received recognition. During Friday's open house, John Wilson and Lisa Kinney portrayed John W. Garrett and his daughter, and a large model train layout was on display in the station's baggage room. Rail Fest continued on Saturday and Sunday, and vendors Bruce Elliot, Art Thall, and Bruce Thall displayed model railroad equipment and footage of CSX trains and train yards. The men's waiting room of the station was set up as a gift shop with 1884 B&O T-shirts, paintings and pictures of the station, a Garrett County quilt, DVD on Garrett County history, and various other items on sale or to be raffled off. Above are members of BANTRAK (Baltimore Area N-Trak) Modular Railroading Society who traveled to Oakland and set up the model train layout in the baggage room. whitewater boating community, trout anglers, DNR, and DCL POA, participated in the most recent discussions and negotiations regarding the current permit for the DCL power plant. The permit does an excellent job in balancing the needs and demands of the various stakeholders. It shouldn't be modified based solely on the demands of a small group of DCL property owners.

Although the PRB makes vague claims for the economic impacts of lake-level management, what's certain is that the Yough trout fishery is valuable to the local economy. A 2010 economic study by an independent company, Downstream Strategies, found the nearby North Branch of the Potomac alone generates $3.1 million annually to the local economy. The value of the Yough trout fishery has not been studied, but it's a key component of an array of area trout rivers that include the Casselman, the Savage, and the North Branch.

A major share of economic benefits occurs in the spring and fall, between the typically busier winter and summer seasons. Attractive trout resources create jobs in the county. The number of professional fishing guides in the county has increased many times since our local rivers became destinations for trout anglers from all over the region, reflecting the increase in visiting anglers willing to pay to experience our great local trout waters, including the Yough.

The permit is a good one. Let it stand.

To the Editor:

The Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board has recently proposed a number of solutions for end-of-summer lake levels that compromise lake water access for some property owners. One of these solutions is to discontinue the trout fishery in the Youghiogheny River below the dam because of cold water releases that help maintain the fishery.

The Mid-Atlantic Council of Trout Unlimited represents over 2,500 members in the state of Maryland and the District of Columbia. Our organization has had a lead role since 1972 on maintaining the trout fishery that previously existed over the past century on the Youghiogheny River, especially that section below the Deep Creek Lake (DCL) power plant near Hoyes Run. Recreational use of this river comes from Ohio, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, and Virginia, as well as across the country. Although most of our members live east of Hancock, they are more than willing to drive the several hours to Garrett County to fish the Yough and other major trout waters in western Maryland.

A recent study found the fishery on the North Branch of the Potomac, much of which borders Garrett County, generates over $3 million per year for the local economy. A similar study would probably find a similar amount from the recreational use of the Yough below Hoyes Run over the past decade or so.

We continue to support the carefully negotiated licensing agreement for the Brookfield power plant and all partners. We strongly reject any proposal to eliminate the trout fishery in the Yough. We would urge the affected lake-front owners to examine options to gain access to deeper water in the summer. However, we are willing to continue to work with partners to find solutions that would allow more water to be retained in the lake without compromising the trout fishery. We have learned through hard experience that even a few days without cold water releases when needed, as in 2005, can devastate the fishery, and that it can take several years for it to recover.

This exceptional river must continue as a destination for fishers to enjoy, and to retain its legitimate role in recreation for all visitors and as an economic resource for the communities it serves.

To the Editor:

I write as a citizen of Garrett County, an expert kayaker for over 30 years, former U.S. Team member, and also local real estate sales associate for Railey Realty.

I first kayaked the Upper Youghiogheny when I was 17 years old in 1981 with Roger Zbel, Jesse Whittemore, and John Lichter. A major goal of my early years of kayaking was happily accomplished, and I have been smitten ever since, designing my quality of life around this river.

I grew up on a farm near Cleveland. I fell in love with this area because of whitewater kayaking. I would pray for rain on the farm so we could come here. My whole family kayaks, and it has been such a force of great family times being on the river and camping. They still enjoy the Upper Yough as well, and now we have three generations of kayakers in our family.

The Youghiogheny is one of the main reasons I live in Garrett County. I pleasantly found out it is a fantastic place to raise a family! I enjoy the summertime releases and now my kids, Heather, 14, and Adam, 12, experienced the run for the first time this summer in a raft, as did some of my co-workers. It is a magnificent place, and you all but forget about everyday life while engaged in the experience. Commercially rafting the Upper Yough is a peak experience, and the outfitters have it down to a science. It has been given the designation of a "wild and scenic" river for good reason! It truly exceeds visitor expectations!

As a local, full-time real estate agent, I have worked together with many of my kayaking friends to buy property here. They are living their dream of being able to kayak one of the best and most accessible pieces of whitewater in the eastern U.S. on a regular basis. They love owning property here and contribute greatly to the local economy.

I hope policy makers will not be short-sighted and reduce the number of whitewater releases. There is much at stake here for the local economy, especially the town of Friendsville. Please keep us informed of any and all public meetings, time frames, and the decision-making process.

The Youghiogheny is one of Garrett County's most important resources. Thankfully, former policy makers had the foresight to establish protection for the river. Now we must have foresight again to do the right thing.

To the Editor:

Your editorial titled "An Unreasonable Request..." was an inaccurate and unconstructive contribution to the process of managing the waters of Deep Creek Lake for the maximum benefit of all its users. It typifies the emotional and irresponsible reactions to any proposal that the method of lake level control should be modified; negative screeds such as this severely inhibit meaningful and intelligent discussion on the subject.

The letter from the Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board (PRB) discussed in your editorial was never meant to destroy fishing and rafting opportunities on the Yough – to make such assertions in your editorial is exactly the type of demagoguery which is used when the arguer does not have enough information to make factual statements and instead wants to arouse popular outrage toward a certain group. Your editorial has set up a "river users" versus "lake users" scenario where the winner takes all and has given both "sides" further reason to set themselves against each other.

Aside from the "calculations" discussed in your editorial, there has been no recent data-based analysis done on how to manage the levels of the lake for the maximum benefit of all of its users. Currently, the state of Maryland gives away the right to this water based on computer modeling performed in 1994 under very different economic and environmental conditions. Instead of using your bully pulpit to make a call for a solution where all parties use the best information to make intelligent compromises, you have further promoted the antagonistic situation between lake water users where no one achieves the optimal solution. What is required is an objective study which assesses the value of each foot of lake level to each user and proposes a process to maximize the benefit to everyone.

Sincerely,
Chris Nichols

To the Editor:

The whitewater releases on the Upper Yough are a very important part to preserving one of the finest adventure pleasures Garrett County has to offer! It would be unjust to the local community to lose the days they count on for a select few. What about the fish and the people who travel to Garrett County in search of them? The county and state lose that tax revenue as well.

Limiting the number of releases for the "select few" is just a bad idea! They bought the property knowing that Deep Creek Lake's cove water levels become low in the fall.

Fred Glotfelty

To the Editor:

There are three main groups of interest in Deep Creek Lake water use, and particularly water levels.

The higher the lake level the more power can be produced by the generators. More water at a higher elevation can produce more power. The power company earns credits for the clean hydropower to offset penalties for less green generation.

The lakefront property owners see a full lake as an advantage to boating. Over the last several years the lakefront property owners, particularly those in the shallow coves, have requested that the lake levels remain high through the summer, and the rafting community wants the releases to be in the summer when they can use them.

Studies by the Department of Natural Resources indicate that sediment has accumulated over a foot in some of the shallow areas of the lake, particularly in the southern portion of the lake below the Glendale Bridge. There are those who believe that the sediment has come from farm activities and road culverts.

I submit that the sediment has come from wave action on the shore line on the banks that were not formerly exposed to wave action when the water was high. Sediment by its nature settles in water. Sediment coming into the lake cannot climb from the bed of the inlet streams to be deposited near shore.

The band of water that the three groups use is the first 10 feet of depth. The increase in weed growth can be attributed to the increasing shallow depths and the new abundance of geese and ducks fertilizing the waters.

A cure would be to remove the material at a three to one slope out 40 feet in the shallow areas.

I own a home in Friendsville, and I am opposed to the Deep Creek Lake Policy and Review Board's (PRB), proposal to alter the current management policy of Deep Creek Lake. More info can be found here: http://www.americanwhitewater.org/content/Article/view/articleid/31195/.

The proposal suggests that the releases from Deep Creek Lake into the Youghiogheny River to support fish habitat and for whitewater recreation be pared back considerably.

I bought my Friendsville home in 2007 largely because of its access to the river – and these water releases. Since my purchase, I have invested over $50,000 in the property, which was in ill repair, and I have intentions to invest at least that much more in the coming years.

I stay at my home in Friendsville over a dozen weekends a year and, when there, buy my groceries and other items there in town. Often times, I have friends (also whitewater enthusiasts) stay at my home as guests and encourage them to invest in the town of Friendsville by buying what they can there.

The whitewater releases from Deep Creek Lake into the Youghiogheny are a vital economic engine for the town of Friendsville. If this proposal is adopted, it will negativcly affect the town and my property value.

Plcase do not let this happen.

To the Editor:

Anglers, particularly trout fishermen, spend tens of thousands of angling days each year on the streams of western Maryland. Indeed, the attraction of the Yough, Savage, N. Branch, and Casselman rivers accounts for one of the great nexuses of fishing destinations on the East Coast, a rival to the central Pennsylvania and eastern New York stream destinations. Anglers regularly travel from Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Ohio, and Washington, D.C., to fish these streams, and these fishermen bring with them millions of dollars that make the difference between survival and migration for a lot of people who live in western Maryland. If you take one of these streams out of the equation, as will happen if cold-water releases from Deep Creek Lake are stopped, anglers will have fewer resources from which to choose.

One of the great attractions of this region for me is that if I'm having no luck on one of the streams, I have three other great streams close by to improve my chances. Only for this reason will I spend the money to travel from D.C. to western Maryland, pay for hotels, and eat in restaurants.

To allow a few lakefront owners to dictate the fortunes of many people in western Maryland is not just wrong; it is shortsighted. Who is to benefit from halting the releases from Deep Creek Lake? Certainly not the people of western Maryland. Certainly not most of the people who visit the region, drawn by its great natural beauty.

Indeed, that beauty itself will be diminished if the people from outside the area are not there to act with the locals as stewards of the resources of these watersheds. When anglers and rafters stop using the watersheds, the watersheds themselves will decline along with the local economy.

To the Editor:

The editorial in the September 22 Republican concerning the DCL Policy Review Board (PRB) letter resulted in 39 letters raising legitimate concerns from Friendsville, the whitewater, and the kayaking communities. The majority supported the continued DCL water releases to the Youghioghcny River to continue their recreational activities, protecting their recreational right to the DCL waters. However, water releases to the Yough are not a right; they are a privilege granted by the lake owner, the state of Maryland.

DCL was created in 1924 for the sole purpose of generating hydroelectric power. In 2000, the state purchased the lake for $17 million; the seller recognized that production of hydroelectric power was no longer the primary purpose of DCL; rather, DCL had become a recreational resource. The state recognized this too and has established several uses of DCL and its waters for recreational purposes.

While the state continues the release of water to generate electric power, the state and county have supported the recreational uses of DCL. For example, forest and agricultural property are now vacation home sites. Water is released for snow-making, whitewater kayaking, fishing, and dissolved oxygen enhancement because of sewer effluent. Fees are charged for boat permits and public boat launches. A Visitors Center and Discovery Center have been built. A local small-business community and a premier four-seasons resort on the shores of DCL are major economic drivers in expanded recreational activities. Thus, DCL is no longer a hydroelectric resource; it is a significantly large recreational resource created by the state of Maryland.

It is both curious and disturbing that the editorial of September 22 did not elicit any responses from other parties who enjoy and benefit from the recreational activities associated with DCL. Where are comments of property owners around DCL, property owner associations, boat owners, Garrett County commissioners, and the local business community?

The state has created the current situation in which the water resources of DCL are inadequate to meet the recreational needs of the area. Only the state can undertake a comprehensive re-examination of the recreational uses of DCL based on sound scientific and economic analyses. All interested parties should require the state to undertake such an activity before it is too late.

I support The Republican's editorial regarding continuation of the whitewater releases on the Upper Youghiogheny.

As a successful businessman, I find the intellectual and physical challenge of kayaking the Upper Yough to be the perfect end and beginning of my all too often tense, harried, and frustrating work week.

I'm still a baby duck on the Upper – I'm learning the river and need my friends to support my efforts in order to be safe.

What a river the Upper Yough is! It is a series of beautiful landscapes where water, rock, and tree constantly shift. It is the most challenging and exciting river that I've run in my limited experience.

I'm in my third year of training to attain my goal of being a regular on the Upper. I'm a 55-year-old man who took up whitewater kayaking in January 2009. Thanks to the training attitude of my home club – Conewago Canoe Club, York, Pa. – I have had ample opportunity to learn the skills required to run the Upper Yough safely.

In 2009, I logged 55 trips, 10 of them on the Lower Yough – our club's training ground for the Upper Yough. In 2010, 70 trips total, 19 were logged on the Lower Yough. For 2011, as of today, 67 trips, 17 Lower Yough and two Upper Yough.

With three months left in the year, it's safe to say that my trend is to make more kayak trips each year.

I fill my gas tank at my destination town. I eat breakfast and dinner each day in local restaurants. I buy groceries for on the river. I camp in local state parks and private parks. I buy pictures of my antics on the river. I donate money to the local fire company. I buy gear at the local outfitters. I invite my family and friends to accompany me in rafts and duckies obtained from local outfitters.

On a typical weekend I spend about $100 to $150 dollars. I typically travel in a pack of 4 to 20 other like-minded kayakers. On the low end, over a season, that's around $8,000. On the high end – about $25,000 that my "crew" spends going west to sate our addiction to wild water.

Ohiopyle is my "summer home." In 2012, my plans are to make Friendsville it my "other summer home." I pray the water will be running in the Upper Youghiogheny.

Sincerely,
Richard W. Dennis

The editorial published September 22 has at least one glaring error that I feel compelled to address. In the paragraph which begins, "Looking at the science...," you mention that if all whitewater rafting releases were ceased, your calculations indicate the lake overall would enjoy only about five more days at a useful level due to evaporation and outflow.

A representative of Brookfield Power Company has advised that each whitewater release lowers the lake level by 1.2 inches. This year there are 56 releases scheduled for whitewater rafting alone, based on information available on Brookfield's site. The simple math yields a total of 67 inches, or five feet, seven inches, of water that would otherwise not be released from the lake except through evaporation and outflow. Neither evaporation nor normal outflow nor the combination of the two would consume this amount of water. In fact, that water would ensure safe boating for those who use the lake for recreational purposes easily through the end of October each year.

Let me be clear on one other point. I have worked the matter of water levels with the PRB, POA, and as a co-founder of www.savedeepcreek.com for the past two years. To my knowledge, no one has ever advocated that all whitewater releases be canceled. Returning to the number of releases allowed in the pre-2007 permit used by Brookfield has been recommended, and that could provide ample water for those who are concerned the levels are too low. Nor has anyone advocated an end to trout fishing. Re-examining how and where trout are stocked in the river is a good idea to ensure it is the smartest approach and use of water, but no one has advocated terminating this effort.

You failed to mention in your editorial that those who own property around or near the lake, whether they are residents of Garrett County or not, do pay significant property taxes that allow the county to provide many of the services it offers. In fact, approximately 61% of the revenue in taxes paid to the county comes from the tax district that encompasses the lake and close surrounding areas. Don't the taxpayers deserve some consideration in this discussion?

The issues involving the waters of Deep Creek Lake are many and complex, in part due to the many stakeholders involved. We will not make progress by digging in our heels and refusing to compromise. We must all work hard together to find the correct balance that will permit all stakeholders to enjoy this great resource and economic engine for Garrett County we call Deep Creek Lake.

I appreciate last week's letters and wondered where all the diverse public support for the shallow water coves is? The town of Friendsville hosted a meeting with PRB members Senator Edwards, Delegate Beitzel and Commissioner Bob Gatto this past Monday night to discuss the PRB letter, central to this issue.

I couldn't understand the PRB's position. They alluded to an idea that there's a new problem which makes lake levels drop lower earlier in the season than ever before. They also alluded that the objective of last year's triennial review was to ensure that lake levels would be held substantially higher so that "full recreational use" (full cove access) would be maintained well into late summer. And last but not least, the PRB seemed to believe that gaining these added values would have "no negative consequences" to other stakeholders, like whitewater enthusiasts.

At Monday's meeting, Friendsville used MDE data to prove that improving cove water levels by way of reducing whitewater releases provides very little relief to the shallow coves, furthermore proving that the Chamber of Commerce's 2010 position is heavily biased for lake interests only!

The coves have always been shallow and are very slowly filling in with sediment. In fact, back in 1994 when the rule band was created, the cove waters got deeper, later into summer then ever before. Since then, lake levels have held to a consistency dictated by the rule band. The last several years are solidly within the average lake level norm since '94. In 2010, during the worst drought in lake history, Brookfield Power masterfully managed to hold lake levels averaging one foot higher than in the drought of 1999 with less inflow!

Cove property owners bought cheaper, shallow-water property; they want the water to get deeper now that they regret their property location choice. So they turn toward taking other stakeholders' water by using the ominous power, influence, and resources of the PRB. While I feel for the PRB and chamber who receive complaints of shallow water, they need to learn how to support the existing permit and rule band because of its fairness, instead of enabling a small group of people who made poor choices.

I am cautiously optimistic after Monday's meeting. Senator Edwards seemingly preached compromise, while Delegate Beitzel and Commissioner Gatto leaned toward not knowing that the "negative consequences" were so great for so little benefit to coves.

Sincerely,
Jess Whittemore

Garrett College to be afforded such an award.

An induction ceremony for Coach Fearnow was held at Hagerstown Community College. He was recognized for his contributions as its first athletic director and coach, as well as for his leadership in the early years of Region XX while standards were being established and policies being developed.

One of the first Lakers was second-year student Dennis Gibson, who remembers well those initial practice sessions and Coach Fearnow's inimitable style on the basketball court.

"I was not mature enough at that time in my development to realize what a professional Denny Fearnow was and how knowledgeable he was as a coach," Gibson said. "He put together a solid team of local kids who competed the best they could.

"We often speak of our disadvantages here now in terms of recruiting, location, and costs," he continued, "but unless you lived at that time, you really have no idea what he was able to accomplish. I really enjoyed playing for Coach Fearnow, and I still speak with him. He has attended our games at Hagerstown College, which is near his home. He was and always will be a Laker."

tion.asp to learn more about CWD.

When checking in a deer taken with archery equipment, hunters should record deer taken with a straight limb bow, recurve bow, or compound bow as taken with a vertical bow. Deer taken with a crossbow should be recorded as such. This will allow DNR biologists to continue to monitor the influence crossbows may have on Maryland's deer management program.

A number of Sundays will be open to bow hunting on private land during the 2011-2012 hunting season, varying by county. For a complete listing of Sunday bow hunting opportunities, hunters may refer to the 2010-2011 Maryland Guide to Hunting and Trapping, which is issued with each hunting license and also contains detailed information about all of Maryland's hunting seasons. Hunters may also find this information, as well as complete bag limits, season dates, deer registration procedures, and bow hunting regulations on the DNR web site at www.dnr.maryland.gov/huntersguide.

I would like to extend my personal thanks and appreciation to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for the care I received during my recent hospitalization. The care I received from the surgery team provided me with excellent support and care during the preparation for my surgery and during my recovery. The care I received from the staff on the third floor was excellent. I would especially like to thank the staff of the Subacute Unit and the Therapy team. Their outstanding performance and initiative are commendable and have contributed to my recovery. Their professionalism is not only a credit to them but to the hospital as well. Also, I would like to thank the staff from the Social Work Services for all of their assistance. Last but not least, I would like thank Dr. David Tuel for all of his outstanding surgical expertise, special attention and care. God bless everyone!

Plant Society To Convene, Hear About Butterflies

The Western Mountains Chapter of the Maryland Native Plant Society will hold its regular meeting at the Discovery Center at Deep Creek Lake State Park in McHenry on Tuesday, Oct. 18, at 7 p.m. The guest speaker will be Fran Pope, bird and butterfly enthusiast from Mtn. Lake Park. Pope's presentation, titled "Butterflies of Western Maryland," will begin immediately following a brief business meeting. The public is welcome to attend.

Pope will talk about western Maryland's unique and colorful array of butterflies and their caterpillars, each of which has its own preferred food sources and schedule of development.

"Most of our butterflies are always here in one of their life stages," she said. "The life cycle of egg-caterpillar-chrysalis-butterfly differs in its timing for each species. A species may winter at any one of these stages, and then be ready to emerge at a species-specific time and take advantage of a special seasonal food source."

Pope will illustrate with her original photographs a variety of species in different stages and seasons, and the food sources, including native plants that are sustaining them at these times.

Pope grew up in the tropics, where she attracted colorful arrays of birds and butterflies with bananas. This led to a lifelong fascination with the natural world. A birder-turned-butterflier, she helps survey for rare, threatened, and endangered butterflies in Maryland

As a West Virginia master naturalist, Pope has presented programs on WVa butterflies in Tucker County, and is currently compiling an updated list of the butterflies of Tucker County. Her photographs have appeared in the journal of the North American Butterfly Association, American Butterflies.

Hours of the display are 2-5 p.m. on Oct. 12, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Oct. 13, and 9 a.m. to noon on Oct. 14. Tickets for exploring the aircraft inside and out are $12 for adults and $6 for those under 12. There is free admission for all World War II veterans. The bombers will be on display at the Morgantown, W.Va., airport early next week before departing for Cumberland on Wednesday morning. The restoration of the aircraft has been made possible through the Collings Foundation, and more information on that organization can be found online at www.collingsfoundation.org.

The Maryland Native Plant Society uses education, research, and community service to increase awareness and appreciation of native plants and their habitats leading to their conservation and restoration. Membership is open to all who are interested in Maryland's native plants and their habitats. Preserving Maryland's natural heritage, increasing knowledge about native plants, and helping to further the society's mission are its goals. For more information, one may visit www.mdflora.org

The Western Mountains Chapter has formed to expand the efforts of MNPS on the Allegheny Plateau and ridge and valley physiographic provinces of the central Appalachians. Residents of western Maryland, nearby Pennsylvania and West Virginia, and anyone else interested in learning more about and conserving the native plants of this region are invited to join. Appalachian Lab Seeking Nominees For Annual Award

The University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science's Appalachian Laboratory is currently accepting nominations for its 2012 Richard A. Johnson Environmental Education Award. This award annually recognizes an area leader for his/her outstanding contributions to environmental education.

Richard A. Johnson was an orthopedic surgeon in the Allegany County area who died in 1990 and left "a legacy of a caring and dedicated physician and naturalist."

The laboratory honors his memory through its promotion of environmental education and the people who excel in its practice. A monetary award also supports the recipient's further environmental education activities.

In 2011, the Appalachian Laboratory selected Maryland Park Service's Caroline Blizzard for her outstanding contributions to environmental education and for her work engaging visitors at the Deep Creek State Park Discovery Center, as well as her personal contributions to local schools and civic organizations.

"Ranger Blizzard has spent a lifetime helping western Maryland residents and visitors better understand and appreciate nature," said a spokesperson explaining the selection of Blizzard for the award.

"Whether through her work as a certified interpretive guide, directing the Deep Creek Lake State Park Discovery Center, or developing the Maryland Department of Natural Resources Become an Outdoors Woman program, Caroline has long been a regional leader in the environmental education field."

Ranger Blizzard received a $1,500 award that went to support further environmental education activities of the Western Garrett County State Park Volunteers.

According to a representative for the award, the Johnson Environmental Education award has three objectives. It honors those who mentor and inspire citizens and future leaders in environmental science and stewardship, it recognizes excellence in environmental education and in research and public service that support environmental education, and it enhances environmental education opportunities for students of all ages.

The 2012 recipient will be honored in an April ceremony and will receive a plaque and monetary award to advance environmental education efforts of his/her choosing.

The nomination process is simple and only requires a brief, 200-word letter or e-mail and a short in-person conversation about the nominee. Nomination letters or e-mails must be received by Wednesday, Nov. 9, and may be sent to UMCES, 301 Braddock Road, Frostburg, MD, 21532.

The short, in-person conversations (15 minutes) will be scheduled Tuesday, Nov. 15, and Wednesday, Nov. 16, between 5 and 7:30 p.m. Those interested in more information may contact Paulette Orndorff at 301-689-7102 or visit http://www.umces.edu/al.

Past recipients of the Richard A. Johnson Environmental Education Award include: Ken Hodgdon, former Times-News columnist (1991); Don Emerson, FSU professor emeritus (1991); Nan Livingston, retired teacher (1992); Charles Strauss Sr., retired teacher (1993); Kent Fuller, former Appalachian Laboratory director (1996); Bernard Zlomek, Department of Natural Resources project manager (2001); Joseph Winters, Hickory Environmental Education Center coordinator (2002); Melvin Brown, former FSU biology department head (2003); Kenneth Baxter, Beall High School environmental educator (2004); Alan Hammond, Allegany High School ecology club mentor (2005); Patrick Delaney, Route 40 Elementary School principal (2006); Kevin Dodge, Garrett College professor (2007), Jeffrey Ruark, Maryland Park Service (2007); Robert Miller, George's Creek Watershed Association founder (2009); Sarah Milbourne, Maryland Park Service (2010), and Blizzard, Maryland Park Service's (2011).

Founded in 1961, the Appalachian Laboratory is a center for research on terrestrial and freshwater ecosystems, including how these ecosystems function within the larger context of the Chesapeake Bay watershed, and how human activity may influence these ecosystems and affect ecosystem health and sustainability on local, regional and global scales.

It is part of UMCES, the University System of Maryland's environmental research institution. UMCES researchers attempt to improve scientific understanding of Maryland, the region, and the world through five research centers – Chesapeake Biological Laboratory in Solomons, Appalachian Laboratory in Frostburg, Horn Point Laboratory in Cambridge, Institute of Marine and Environmental Technology in Baltimore, and the Maryland Sea Grant College in College Park.

PET TREATS TO BE AVAILABLE – The Garrett County Humane Society mascot, Tux, is getting ready to bake a batch of peanut butter dog treats for the group's upcoming Autumn Glory Festival fundraiser. The GCHS will once again have an array of items for pets and pet lovers at the Mountain Fresh Pavillon in downtown Oakland on Friday, Oct. 14, and Saturday, Oct. 15. Items such as specialized Monopoly games, dog toys, car magnets, key rings, and bumper stickers will be available for purchase. "Along with that will be the very popular peanut butter dog treats baked by the Humane Society cadets, and new this year will be dog bone cookie cutters with a recipe," said GCHS president Lisa Baker. "These cookie cutters are made in the USA and come in two sizes." The Garrett County Humane Society is a nonprofit, volunteer organization dedicated to helping abused, neglected, and homeless animals. "In addition, for the last 25+ years we have given out thousands of spay/neuter vouchers, which has helped reduce the homeless animal population," Baker said. "The GCHS is the only organization that responds to animal neglect reports; several very serious cases were prosecuted, resulting in guilty verdicts. By purchasing something from our Autumn Glory booth, you are helping pets, pet owners, and farm animals in Garrett County." For more information, persons may call 301-616-4425. Oakland Update
by Peggy Jamison

•66th Glidden Antique Car Club Visit – As the mayor of Oakland, I would like to thank each and every one of you who helped out in whatever way (including giving up your parking space), to extend to the visitors of the Antique Car Club such a warm and inviting welcome. I have heard nothing but wonderful and positive comments about the entire production. We live in such a great community, and I am so grateful that the folks of our community come together to showcase our beautiful, great, small town.

•Celebrate the Glory – I would like to encourage everyone to make an extra special effort to clean up their properties for the upcoming Autumn Glory Festival. I always enjoy driving around and seeing all the beautiful fall decorations in front of our homes and businesses. Let's again showcase our town and welcome the many folks coming to visit.

•Mountain Top Cruisers Autumn Glory Car, Truck & Tractor Show – The Mtn. Top Cruisers have again organized a car, truck, and tractor show for downtown Oakland on Autumn Glory Sunday, Oct. 16. The vehicles will turn off Third Street onto Pennington Street and proceed down Second Street to Alder Street. The following downtown streets will be blocked off for parking the show vehicles: Alder from Second to Third, Second from the railroad track to Liberty, Liberty from Second to First Street, and the west half of Green Street. While we understand that this is an inconvenience for some, we ask that residents please be patient and enjoy this event. The town parking lot will remain accessible for visitor parking.

•B&O Museum – As most know, we have a new Transportation Museum that recently opened in downtown Oakland. What a wonderful addition to downtown Oakland. Kudos to the Garrett County Historical Society for their hard work on this project. In addition, we have a very energetic group working to turn the Oakland 1884 Train Station into a B&O Museum. This museum would work in conjunction with the B&O Museum in Baltimore. This Oakland project was recently awarded tax credits from the state as a means of raising funds for the renovations of the building. Anyone interested in making a donation should contact Oakland City Hall at 301-334-2691.

•Oakland Armory/Community Center Improvements – The town of Oakland is continuing to make improvements to the Oakland Armory/Community Center. We have upgraded the lighting in the gym area with energy efficient fixtures and have also made improvements to the gym floor, thanks to Program Open Space grant funds. The town rents the conference room and/or gymnasium out to responsible groups/persons who agree to follow the rules. We are requesting that anyone walking on the newly finished floor wear either clean shoes or remove their street shoes. Those interested in renting the facility should contact Oakland City Hall.

•Walking Passes Available for the Oakland Armory/Community Center – With the cooler temperatures upon us for everyone's health and safety, we are again allowing persons interested in walking indoors during weekdays to obtain a walking pass at Oakland City Hall for $2 each month. As noted above, we simply ask that you bring clean walking shoes to change into after you get inside the facility. Those with questions should contact Oakland City Hall at 301-334-2691.

•Friday Bulk Pick-Up – The Oakland Street Department will end its summer Friday bulk pick-up on Oct. 14. This will resume in the spring – budget permitting.

•Leaf Collection – The annual process of leaf collection will begin on Monday, Oct. 17. Persons are reminded to not rake apples and sticks in with the leaves, as this could cause harm to the employees and damage the equipment. Leaf collection will continue through Nov. 18 – weather permitting.

•Annual Halloween Parade – The Oakland/Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club will hold its annual Halloween Parade on Thursday, Oct. 27. Those participating will line up on Center Street between 6 and 6:15 p.m. Please be aware of the children on the parade route – Second Street, to Alder Street, to Third Street, and then to the Oakland fire hall.

•Trick-or-Treating – The annual trick-or-treating will be held from 6 to 8 p.m. in Oakland on Monday, Oct. 31. Those interested in participating should leave their porch lights on. Everyone should make an extra special effort to drive carefully to ensure the children are safe.

GC Dept. Of Solid Waste, Recycling Conducting Survey

The Garrett County Department of Solid Waste and Recycling is conducting a user survey, department manager Dave Baker announced Monday.

"Residential permits went on sale Saturday, Oct. 1," he said. "Along with the new permits comes the opportunity to tell the Department of Solid Waste and Recycling what you think."

The residential user survey form is now available at the landfill, all collection sites, the county tax office, and online at garrettcounty.org/survey.

"Using the online survey link will enter you in a contest to win a free residential permit," Baker said. "A copy of the survey form will be coming to you, along with your new permit if you apply online or by mail."

The information gathered from those who respond to the survey will be used to help with future planning, improvements to service, and to look for cost savings changes that can be made, the director noted.

A couple no longer young in years, wrinkled and aged, still has something that time cannot touch – enduring love. What sustains their love after all these years? Perhaps they still see each other the way they were all those years ago. God's love for us is also timeless and steadfast. In His eyes we are forever young. Worship with your loved one this week and thank God for lasting love.

Imprecatory Prayer:
Asking God to Smite Your Enemies

An "imprecation" is a curse, and thus imprecatory prayer is one where we ask God to curse, smite or otherwise harm our enemies. There is not much Biblical justification for asking God to smite one's enemies, and much to recommend against it, including Jesus' command to love one's enemies. But, there are a few Old Testament examples of imprecatory prayer, including David asking God to smite his enemies in Psalms 35 and 109. Psalm 35 is basically a prayer asking God to help one in fighting one's enemies: "Contend, LORD, with those who contend with me; fight against those who fight against me." (Psalm 35: 1) Psalm 109 starts out with some relatively mild curses, and then progresses to more serious ones: "May his days be few; may another take his place of leadership. May his children be fatherless and his wife a widow. May his children be wandering beggars; may they be driven from their ruined homes." (Psalm 109:8-10) But, are we to take this Psalm as an indication that God favors this kind of prayer, or is this Psalm simply characterizing a vengeful man? It is only natural for people to call upon God in times of trouble, and that trouble may take the form of someone attacking us, so these prayers are not necessarily a sign of bad character. On the other hand, a true saint would pray to help their enemies rather than to harm them.

"You have heard that it was said, 'Love your neighbor and hate your enemy.' But I tell you, love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, that you may be children of your Father in heaven."

Matthew 5: 43-45

Back in a 'Flashpoint': Series switches networks

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Amy Jo Johnson

Q: One of my favorite summer shows was "Flashpoint." It hasn't been on in a few weeks, and there was no mention that the last episode was either the season or series finale. Any chance one of the other networks will pick it up? –Juanita Vander Velden, Mukwonago, Wis.

A: Much more than a chance, since that's exactly what's happening. ION made an arrangement to begin picking up new episodes of the Canadian-made police drama – which features "Felicity" and (though this probably seems like a lifetime ago to her) "Mighty Morphin Power Rangers" alum Amy Jo Johnson – once the CBS deal for it expired, and those stories begin running Tuesday, Oct. 18. ION also has the rights to past seasons of the show, so you'll be seeing "Flashpoint" repeats there, too.

Q: Several friends and I enjoy watching "The Closer." The last episode was unclear as to whether it was the season finale or the series finale. Will it be back? –Dolly Roland, Winter Haven, Fla.

A. It was the "summer season finale" ... which complicates things a bit, but that's how many cable series have been doing things lately. In the case of "The Closer," TNT will bring it back for several new episodes starting Nov. 28, then wrap up its run next summer with a final set of new episodes ... leading directly into the start of the Kyra Sedgwick-less spinoff show, "Major Crimes," which will feature many "Closer" regulars.

Q: What happened to Holly Robinson Peete and Leah Remini of "The Talk"? –Karen Penwell, Campbell, Ohio

A: Their contracts for the weekday CBS talk show weren't renewed beyond the first season.

Q: I love Kirsten Prout, one of the stars of "The Lying Game." I know she's been in a TV series before, but I can't place her. Can you help? –Don Doerr, Denver

A: It's clear that ABC Family likes the young Vancouver-born actress, since it also employed her as the character Amanda Bloom in its series "Kyle XY" for three years.

Q: What ever happened to "Rubicon"? Will it ever be back? –Jean Gonsalo, Leawood, Kan.

A: It's highly unlikely. Hoping its ratings would be higher, AMC canceled the show after one season, and no other networks have made any waves about wanting to revive it.

Q: My family owned one of the earliest television sets ever produced for consumers, a RCA Model TT-5. It is in a wooden cabinet and is the tabletop model. Almost everyone who sees it wants to buy it, but we have no idea of what it might be worth. Can you help me? -- Mike, Yonkers, N.Y.

During the 10 weeks of Basic Combat Training, the soldier received training in drill and ceremonies, weapons employment, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, physical fitness, first aid skills, and Army history, core values, and traditions.

Additional training included development of basic combat skills and battlefield operations and tactics, and experienced use of various weapons and weapons defenses available to the infantry crewman.

Street Closings Announced For Festival Parade

Several Oakland roads will be closed before and during the 44th Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade, which begins at 1 p.m. on Saturday, October 15, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce recently announced.

Oakland police chief Randy Wright encourages anyone coming to the festival and parade to come early to find a good parking space and enjoy the food and entertainment.

Second Street will be closed to traffic from Liberty Street to Center Street beginning at 9:30 am. Both Second and Third streets, from Omar Street to Alder Street, will be closed to all vehicles at 11 a.m. Traffic needing to bypass Oakland will be directed to detour along Fourth Street until the parade ends. Center Street will remain open until 12:45 p.m.

Memorial Drive also will be closed to through traffic from Fourth to Eighth streets. No one will be able to turn onto Fourth Street from Memorial Drive. Barricades and police officers will prevent access onto Memorial Drive from Fourth to Eighth streets. Emergency vehicles should use Kings Run Road or Eighth Street to Memorial Drive.

Parking along the parade route – which includes parts of Second, Third, and Alder streets – is prohibited prior to and during the parade. Business owners or employees should contact Oakland City Hall at 301-334-2691, Oakland Police Department at 301-334-2100, or the Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-4386 in advance to obtain a pass to gain access inside the parade route; this includes the handicapped parking site at the Masonic Lodge along First Street.

Food vendors will be set up on Green Street beside the M&T Bank area by 9:30 a.m., and the Remnant Drama Team from Loch Lynn Church of God will perform from 10:30 a.m. until noon on the Front Page Stage.

The Inside Out Youth Group from Divine Hope Church will perform a movement to contemporary Christian music on the Front Page Stage from noon until 12:45 p.m.

The Still Kickin' Cloggers will perform from 10:30 to 11 a.m. on the Boxcar Stage along Liberty Street near the 1884 B&O Train Station, followed by a performance by Brenda's Body Shop from 11 to 11:30 a.m., and the Country Plus Line Dancers from 11:30 a.m. to noon.

The Pleasant View Baptist Church will present music, puppetry, and drama in front of the Oakland Post Office on Second Street at 11:30 a.m.

Garrett County deputies, Maryland State troopers and State Highway employees will be assisting the Oakland Police Department with traffic control during the Autumn Glory parade.

Free parking will be available in the town parking lot off Second Street across the railroad tracks. For questions or concerns, persons may call Chief Wright at the Oakland Police Department or Oakland City Hall between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Garrett County's annual Autumn Glory Festival landed in the international spotlight four years ago when the popular travel web site MSN.com listed it tops among fall festivals in the world. To the delight of locals and visitors alike, the Autumn Glory Festival beat out Paris' Festival d'Automne (#5) and Munich's Oktoberfest (#7) – in addition to a bevy of domestic celebrations, including San Francisco's Dias De los Muertos.

"Music, parades, and awesome colors are at the center of this festival," noted the site, plugging in particular the Grand Feature Parade, the Maryland State Banjo and Fiddle championships, and the Tournament of Bands.

For more details about Autumn Glory, including a complete listing of Autumn Glory events, one may visit www.visitdeepcreek.com or contact the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce at 301-387-4386.

At the signing, Carr read several chapters of her latest book, gave opportunity for questions, and signed books for those who purchased them. Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

The average American is seeing his/her income flatline or sink like a stone. And that is the basic idea behind the president's job bill. A bunch of independent economists agree that it would lower the unemployment rate significantly, not to mention that it would get some important tasks done that have been neglected for decades, like crumbling schools, roads, and bridges. It would also put long-term jobless construction workers back to work, lifting many families out of their hopeless feelings. That would boost their children's spirits, so they would perform better in school. It would also prevent long-range health problems caused by low spirits and feeling helpless. This simply saps all the energy in those suffering from long lasting feelings of powerlessness and hopelessness.

I know that from painful personal experience. That is not normal for me, but I cannot see a way to change my life, because I am simply not the independent person I always was. Now I am forced to ask for help from whomever I might find. But most people whom I call and get an answering machine rarely call me back. This is horrifying to me.

Rahm Emanuel, the former chief of staff for Obama, is now serving his first term as mayor of Chicago. His first educational move as mayor was to make the school days longer. That might be a good answer for an urban school and kids who come from problem-filled families. But it would be horrible for me, because my most positive environment for learning was at home around our family farm. It would cut deeply into the time I spent on my independent reading, which already was way too limited because of my work in 4-H, the need for my help doing farm chores, and helping my mother with canning and with my younger siblings.

I am sorry to say that I failed to adequately supervise my two little brothers. While I was up a tree reading, they ran to the barn, and one fell hard enough to break his arm. That taught me a valuable lesson for my future parenthood (out of sight may mean in danger).

Once again, most American parents and school children will not see or hear the fine back-to-school address by the president. It is not a political message. He asked the students to realize that they are America's future. So it is urgent to do their best to take advantage of every learning opportunity that comes along, and make the most of every day of this school year. Those who drop out of high school doom their future and America's future.

He admitted that he wasn't always an outstanding student, particularly in middle school and high school, when his favorite subject was basketball. He also talked about an eighth-grade class that he believed held little value or interest for him. But it turned out to be the most important class he ever took – ethics, in which they engaged in serious discussion about right and wrong and how we should treat other people.

There is some focus of attention on the education challenge America is facing in terms of how few college students actually graduate. It's not just that they experience any serious academic problems, but also financial pressure and personal and family problems all contribute to the unacceptable college dropout rate.

At GCC when I was on the faculty, we put aggressive effort into it. For instance, we were required to telephone students who did not show up for class, and call their parents. I didn't need that. Before that program was put into place, I regularly got in touch with students who seemed to be in trouble.

When one of the guys didn't show up for an 8:30 English 101 class, I called him, and when I heard that he didn't have a ride into school, I ran out to my car and picked him up. I did care about my students' success, and they can't succeed if they are not in class or on campus. But suppose that an English 101 instructor at a big university has perhaps 100 students. They would be unlikely to recognize their students or even notice if they are missing.

Of course, big universities rely on graduate students to teach English 101 courses, one of the most important courses in a college career. Its purpose is to give students the ability to meet their writing assignment requirements in all their courses. And these graduate assistants have no teaching experience or have plenty of work for their own graduate school courses. I know how disastrous my college algebra course was. We watched a video of a lecture with a real professor, then met in a weekly class with a graduate assistant. It was a miserable failure for me.

I prayed for a D on the final exam, which counted as passing, so I wouldn't have to take it again. All that D did was drag down my GPA, but I made it up with many A's in various English courses, not including English 101, because I was exempt from it based on my SAT score and my performance on a special test. I was allowed to choose other English courses instead.

It worked out fine for me, because I was fully prepared to do any writing assignments during my college career. I don't think I ever got lower than a B+ or an A on any paper. My final GPA was, I think, a 3.85. And in my last semester, I narrowly missed straight A's.

No one knows for sure what is lurking just around the corner, like what happened to me in April 1994. My aneurism could have spelled utter ruin for my little family. But we didn't have any big debts. We were helped by several generous people to keep our household afloat. But our financial affairs took a serious hit when I could not continue working at the college. My salary was the biggest part of our family income. I was lucky I had my pension and Social Security disability, and a small disability insurance policy.

Just before I got sick, I took out a loan to pay for a new pickup truck for my husband, essential for his work. Luckily, I paid for disability insurance for that loan. When I was in perfect health, I felt invincible. But no one can count on that. Many people believe that everything will be all right as long as you work hard and play by the rules. But you never know for sure what will happen unexpectedly. Thank God, my aneurism waited until I had good health coverage, because I didn't have that in any other Garrett County job I held.

A health insurance policy for a woman in her childbearing years would be expensive. So I was lucky that I waited until I got a full-time job at GCC before I started to have babies.

I don't think my parents had health insurance when I was a teenager and participating in a very high risk sport, the same sport that left Christopher Reeve paralyzed.

I described to a friend a time when I could have had a very serious accident, much worse than what happened to Christopher Reeve (the actor who played the role of Superman). Little Joe and I were on a cross-country course several levels higher than the course Reeves was on when his mount just stopped at an easy obstacle and hurled him headfirst into it.

We were going full blast on a course in Virginia. We galloped fast up a long hill, and when we got to the top, both Joey and I saw the next obstacle with huge triple bars.

Joey took off significantly early, and there was no room for error because it was solid, and hitting it would cause a very serious fall. If he refused it, then I would go head first at about 40 miles per hour.

That is much faster than Chris was going. But I was much luckier because of the quality of my equine partner. Joey used every bit of his athletic talent and jumping skill to clear it with almost a foot to spare. I got a photograph of that jump, and it is so incredible it took my breath away.

I can't remember my thoughts as we went up that hill, but I must have known what was at the top because I walked the course a couple of days before. If something had gone wrong, I certainly would have been seriously injured. So in one way, I was very lucky, but I was the trainer of my mount, so it was not only based on luck.

My instincts when I first wanted Joey when he was only a little gangly foal beside his dam at John Beachy's farm turned out to be correct. I told my father firmly, "That is my horse."

Conventional wisdom of many experienced horse people was that I would need an older, well-trained horse for my first horse at 10 years old. Something I saw in his eyes told me a different message. And thank goodness Daddy believed me, because he turned out to be an able partner for me to pursue my somewhat lofty equine goals. If we had tried to buy a fully trained, high-quality jumper, it would have cost more than Daddy earned in several years.

I couldn't even imagine that I would clear that kind of jump on my own horse. Baby Joey did not appear to have the kind of talent to jump that way. I only felt a rush of deep emotional attraction to that little foal, and that connection was enough to carry us through anything we encountered.

I always thought of myself as a person who relies more on rational thinking than instinctive reaction. But I know that was the best decision I ever made.

Here we are on the last day of September. We did get a few light snowflakes flying around this morning, but now, in mid-afternoon, it is just a dismal rainy day, just the opposite kind of weekend as last weekend, which was a simply lovely early autumn weekend.

Today is miserable even for Morgantown, even if this weekend is homecoming for WVU. Caitlin and Mere walked in a parade with the rest of the Young Democrats, but it wasn't pleasant since it was so cool and wet. They didn't plan to go to the football game this afternoon, either. I don't blame them.

I can remember Northern High games that were very cold and even snowy, so it was not easy to play my bass clarinet. I hear that both Southern and Northern high marching band alumni plan to play at NHS vs. SHS basketball games this coming winter. But I don't have an instrument, and I can't do much with only one working hand. I guess they will have to do without me.

It's not a terrible loss anyway, because out of my siblings, I am by far the least talented musician. Rodney was a first-chair clarinet player, Carol was first-chair flutist, and Scott was a top trombone player. And Barry played various kinds of horns. But one time, when the bass drummer did not show up for a parade, I was recruited to play that important function in the marching band. I can at least keep time reasonably well, and I was strong enough to not have any problem carrying the big drum.

Playing in the band was an important part of my high school years. The most fun thing was marching through the hall before a game, playing the NHS fight song. The sound of all those instruments echoing in the hallway was pretty exciting, and a good way to inspire school spirit.

What's wrong with America today? It's pretty simple. Most Americans have lost any sense of "The Common Good," which happens to be in the preamble of the Constitution. Now it is pure self-interest, whether it is individuals or a tribal sense. So if anyone belongs to a group that is very different from one's own tribe, most people "let them eat cake," as the royalty in France said when they protested the French Revolution as a response to the lack of basic bread for poor citizens.

Every household should be growing a vegetable garden. But that would require everyone to be able to till a piece of ground. I heard that McHenry has a large community garden. It's harder in urban areas, but I saw a large community garden in a fairly poor neighborhood, but that required putting a significant amount of ground (or dirt) in a vacant lot. It could come from the excavation of new construction in the huge suburban area. But that would require hauling that extra soil into the city.

Who would haul and shovel that valuable soil? That would take a common will to do the right thing, and even require the government. But that earth-moving work could actually provide jobs for a massive number of young people who are currently unemployed.

I often spent much of my sleeping hours dreaming about how I could get some soil and create fields of green in my old neighborhood. I wanted to haul horses and graze them on those fields of green, and give the children in those blighted neighborhoods something fun to do with their spare time.

My guess is that the reason that the Steelers of 2011 performed so miserably is because they are missing the great, quite progressive owner, Dan Rooney. He was so beloved by the players that they would do anything to win more games and a Super Bowl for him.

But unfortunately for "Steeler Nation," he happened to strike up a friendship with President Obama when he was just a candidate, and that led to him getting appointed ambassador to Ireland. So he is out of the picture right now.

I heard many former Steelers from their most glorious years, the 1970s, speak about the bond of love between Rooney and his players. It was a proud moment for Deep Creek Lake when his brother Art Jr. built his vacation home on Lake Shore Drive.

One of the older areas, like Rock Lodge Road, it is a place where since the 1950s many families from the Pittsburgh area built somewhat modest second homes that they used to call "cottages."

The Rooneys' cottage is not far from the place where Joan Beitzel spent the summer. During the 1960s and 1970s, local kids and the lake kids often met on the Wisp slopes. I enjoyed lasting friendships with some of those "lake kids," especially the Geisler family, which once had a house trailer near the old Deep Creek Lodge.

I was also friends with Jerry Giesler's wife Nancy Esman. I clearly remember the sight of her in the pews of Emmanuel Lutheran Church during my father's funeral. And Rodney and Marci Glotfelty saw Jerry and Nancy among the crowds at the Peace Corps anniversary celebration a couple of weekends ago. I didn't know that Jerry's brother Danny was also a volunteer in the Peace Corps. It is even odder that he served in the same West African nation (Togo) as my brother Scott.

Altar flowers at Emmanuel on Sunday were given by Ethel Buckel in memory of Ralph Buckel.

4-H Club News

OAK HILL
by Emily Fratz, reporter

The regular meeting of the Oak Hill 4-H Club was held on Sept. 22 at the Accident fire hall. First on the agenda were pledges, officers' reports, and roll call. For roll call, members were asked to name their fair project plans for 2012.

Collin Fratz reported on the 2011 Garrett County Fair and noted that members were successful and had lots of fun with all of the fair activities.

Club members were given beef raffle tickets to sell and were told to turn them and the money in at the next meeting.

A hog was purchased by Dwayne Fratz Trucking and donated to the club. Members discussed options for the meat, and it was decided to hold a buckwheat cake, pancake, and sausage dinner on Nov. 20. Plans for the dinner will be finalized at the October meeting.

Members were asked to bring a non-perishable food item to the October meeting for a collection for the House of Hope. Sara Carr will collect the items at that time.

Members then had a discussion to generate ideas for a fall activity. It was decided to take a trip to Smoke Hole Caverns and Seneca Rock on Oct. 30. A picnic will follow the tour. Members also voted to join another club for a spring trip to an amusement park.

The group was asked to think of future community service projects for the club and bring ideas to the next meeting so plans can be made for these events. Committees may be formed to work on projects and other activities.

The next meeting will be held on Thursday, Oct. 27, at 7 p.m. at the Masons' home.

NOTICE OF TENTATIVE DETERMINATION
Garrett County

Application for State Discharge Permit 11-DP-3756, NPDES Permit MD0071307:

The Town of Oakland Water Department, 15 South Third St., Oakland, Maryland 21550, applied for a new permit to discharge an average of 0.033 million gallons per day (MGD) per cycle, of treated wastewater from potable water production at the Broadford Lake Water Treatment Plant, located at 300 Glass Drive, Oakland, Maryland 21550, to Broadford Lake, which is designated Use I-P waters, which is protected for water contact recreation, aquatic life, and as a public water supply.

The Department is proposing to issue a new discharge permit with the following effluent limitations: total suspended solids, 20 mg/l monthly average concentration, 30 mg/l daily maximum concentration; total recoverable aluminum, 4.0 mg/l monthly average concentration, 6.0 mg/l daily maximum concentration; pH maintained between 6.5 and 8.5; and total residual chlorine, at the non-detectable level.
